Of course, I have been more than pleased with this mark of confidence, ing me as to the advisability of doing so. Of course, I have been more than pleased with this mark of confidence, and was so favorably impressed with his worth that I had already determined that he would be the next to be admitted to a junior copartnership interest in our establishment. My recent discoveries and the cashier's reticence have made me uneasy. I am determined, if possible, to learn the cause of this change, and therefore I have sent for you to look into the case for me. I desire you to ascertain what influence has caused the change in his appearance, and what he has done with his money. The only condition that I interpose is that you must make no move that will disturb him until you shall have reported to me. You may adopt your own time and method to reach the end in view, and you may require in the case.'

'Do you suspect financial trouble in any form?'

'I have no data upon which to ground a suspicion; his trial balance sheet made three days ago proves the boeks and accounts in good shape and the cash balance on hand at that time was correct.'

'Piedge me your word that you will never again enter a gambling house or gamble, and I will agree to make a report that will not expose your reckless-ness. I feel assured that otherwise you are reliable. I believe there is ample chance for you if you will be wise as well as currect in your character; but I will warn you that you will yet be watched, and if you proye unfaithful to your pledge I will see to it that you do not escape the logical consequences."

He extended his hand, which I grasped, and his moistened eyes, full of gratitude, told me that he was in earnest and when he said: 'I pledge my word to never again enter a gambling house or that will user to it that you will yet be watched, and if you proye unfaithful to your pledge I will see to it that you do not escape the logical consequences."
