

Young People's Association.

In everything but the measure of countenance given at the public meetings, last season's programme was the most substantial and successful ever attempted by the Association. It realized the object of its framers in showing how a pleasant and profitable evening can be spent, helpful to social intercourse, intellectual culture and moral improvement, without the unhealthful stimulants which are becoming increasingly common. The congregation is under a deep debt of gratitude to the President, Prof. Seth, for his laudable efforts to elevate the standard in this respect by his own valued services, as well as by the co-operation of Professors MacGregor, Macdonald, Alexander, and others. On re-assembling this season, however, the Y. P. A. felt that it would be well in the interest of unification, to have the experiment tried, at least for the present year, of a single society in the congregation for the benefit of the young, instead of having two as heretofore. The Y. P. A. generously donated during the year the handsome sum of two hundred dollars to the Debt Extinction Fund.
