

CHAPTER IV.

GOD HAS NOT MADE THE CHURCH THE MEDIUM OF
HIS GUIDANCE IN ANY MODIFIED SENSE.

1. High Churchmen admit the duty of all to "hear the Church." —
2. They admit this because instructed by the Fathers. — 3. But the unreasonableness of admitting it in any modified sense. — 4. The application of the precept "hear the Church," to myself, as a leader, and the effect of discovering my inability to teach 43

CHAPTER V.

THE AUTHORITY OF THE CHURCH TO TEACH PERPETUALLY, AND WHY.

1. The necessity of the Church's guidance as great now as it ever has been — 2. No proof from Scripture or reason that such guidance was ever to cease to be infallible. — 3. The infallibility of the Church rests not upon the wisdom of man, but the power of God. — 4. The union of Christ with His body the Church, secures its infallibility. —
5. The testimony of the primitive Fathers in this particular 60

CHAPTER VI.

THE STATE OF PROTESTANTISM NOT RECONCILABLE
WITH THE PROPHECIES CONCERNING THE CHURCH'S LATTER DAYS.

1. The testimonies of the Fathers. — 2. Christ will not disappoint those who have trusted Him 69

CHAPTER VII.

UNITY OF THE CHURCH SECURITY AGAINST SUCH DIVISION AS EXISTS AMONG PROTESTANTS.

1. This clear, from the Scriptural illustrations of unity. — 2. From our Lord's prayer for unity. — 3. From the uniform testimonies of the Fathers. — 4. In unity Catholicity necessarily embraced. — 5. This proved from the Fathers. — 6. Application of the argument to Protestantism 74

CHAPTER VIII.

INFALLIBILITY IN TEACHING FATAL TO THE CLAIMS OF
ONE PROFESSING TO DECLARE GOD'S INFALLIBLE WILL.

1. An examination, under this head, of the claims of the Church of England and America. — 2. England virtually disclaims infallibility. —
3. The dreadful consequence 84
