

Since the foregoing was put to press, Mr. Leaver has returned from the U. States. While the Committee regret that his mission has been but very partially successful, they gratefully acknowledge the exertions he has made to bring about a more favorable result, and his liberality in declining to receive from the Association, any portion of the expence incurred in the prosecution of their objects.

A memorandum is annexed shewing the sums received, and the expectations held out.

The Committee having felt it a duty to make this appeal to their fellow Churchmen abroad, now press upon the friends of King's College at home, the necessity of relying on their own exertions, and urge those who have not yet contributed, to come forward and assist in completing the sum proposed to be raised for its benefit.
