Social Ideals of the New Era

Industry For Service Not For Profits Mainly—Dr. Shearer at Canadian Club.

The new day has dawned! There is a new attitude towards almost everything. Old ideals and thought have been turned upside down. There is a new social conscience.

This was the statement with which Rev. Dr. Shearer, General Secretary of the Social Service Council of Canada opened his address last evening before the Men's Canadian Club at the Belleville High School. His theme was "Social Ideals of the New Day." Dr. Shearer is a clear, logical speaker with an abundance of enthusiasm in his special calling. He is an earnest student of social movements.

"The new day is the child of the war," he continued. The war has been mainly in the nature of an uplift to the boys at the front, where men sacrificed themselves for others.

The supreme vice in the soldier's view are cowardice and stinginess. The supreme virtues to them are courage and open-mindedness. The bully, the coward and the tight-wad are going to have a bad time in the future and they ought to have.

Christian civility has a new place in life, by reason of the war. In the future it should be impossible for any class to be oppressed. We must be ready to serve and suffer and sacrifice.

Social efficiency is another result. Individual efficiency requires the highest type of character, but falls short of social efficiency—in that for the latter co-operation is necessary.

"We'll have rough work if we don't wake up. In these days more are more than mots—they are organized. Red Cross work and increased agricultural production, were the result of social efficiency.

The value of human personality and human welfare has been emphasized. We have come to value the possessor more than the things the individual possesses. Things are not sacred or secular but all we are or do will be.

Industry For Service. In the coming day, industry is to be operated not for profit merely or chiefly but for social service, for the nation's good.

Nothing will be tolerated in the new day that is anti-social. Anything that is against humanity's interest is under the ban of these enlightened days. Drink has come under the ban. Of drink it could be said it was an economic blight and a moral curse.

Bad literature, traffic in noxious drugs, low entertainment, demoralization of childhood, immorality are among those evils that will come under the heel of democracy. Anything that endangers the happiness of our citizens must go. The holding of wealth and property in disuse for the selfish object of giving a special privilege will not be permitted, whether it takes the form of profiteering, getting control of great franchises and natural resources. What right has the private individual, personal or corporate, to hold property so that he may make the people pay tribute, that he may skim the cream of the milk? In recent days we have seen him honored and knighted. No man has a right to be honored by the king merely because he was shrewd enough to secure control of wealth, which he did not make. This will get quite a lot of us. The public judgment has not yet reached but soon will arrive at this attitude.

Nothing that nullifies or tends to nullify democracy will be tolerated. We are going to continue fighting against autocracy and aristocracy. All the people constitute Demos, not a few. How often a plutocrat has bought his way into power! There is the danger of the plutocratic journalist working his way up and getting control of the sources of public opinion as in England and the United States. No upper house that uses its confirmed power to oppose democracy will be endured.

We are going to see great changes in the organization of industry. Industry too generally is a war between two camps. The community is learning that it has an interest in industry and therefore has a right to a say for the community is essential to industry. If we do not make a change there will be a Bolshevik wave.

May Be Bloodshed "I should not be surprised that within a year there will be some bloodshed in Canada over industrial strife. I hope I am mistaken, but I am speaking from a close view."

Fears and suspicion must be allayed. We must get employers and employees together with the community in frequent conference for the unhindered discussion of their problems. Neither labor nor capital knows all the facts. We must remove the tormenting uncertainty of the fear of dying in poverty in which the great bulk of the laboring classes live. We must find a way as a sacred duty and a patriotic privilege to remove this tremendous uncertainty.

Social Insurance Social insurance, health insurance, old age insurance and unemployment insurance, are advanced in England. We are waking up to the need in Canada.

Every man and woman should receive equal pay and will be guaranteed an adequate revenue for a normal family—comfortable sanitary houses, sufficient good food and clothing, all the education the family can take and enough leisure to give them a fair measure of comfort and enjoyment. This is the minimum standard. Legislation will be necessary.

No one has a right, because he is an employer to say it is his business. He is not the only one interested. His employee invests his life and his labor. Has the laborer not a right to a say about his wage and his hours and his employer's profits? The community has a right to a say in the problems of industry.

Dr. Shearer referred to Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King's new book, "Industry and Humanity" as the greatest work of his kind ever written.

At the request of Dr. Yeomans, the president of the Canadian Club, Dr. Shearer explained the workings of the local Social Service Council, which links up all social organizations within the community.

Mr. D. V. Sinclair moved a vote of thanks to Dr. Shearer and referred to the immensity of our problems in Canada. In seconding the resolution Mr. H. F. Ketcheson pointed out the need of good housing conditions. Belleville has for its size, perhaps as much of slums as the biggest city on the continent.

The president, Dr. Yeomans, urged a realization of the individual's duty in his locality. Many social problems in Belleville remain to be solved.

First Woman P. S. Inspector

Miss Aletta Elise Marty, of Ottawa Collegiate Institute, to be Added to Toronto's Inspectors' Staff.

Toronto Public Schools are to have the honor of being supervised by the first woman inspector to be appointed in the Dominion. Since the city has grown, and the population so increased as to necessitate an additional ward, so the school population has grown, and according to departmental regulations two new Public School Inspectors must be added to the staff. Miss Aletta Elise Marty, M.A., a graduate of Queen's University, and at present on the staff of Ottawa Collegiate Institute is the lady to be thus honored.

Thursday evening, the L.O.O.F. lodge of Stirling held an "at home" in the opera house for the members and their wives and those who attended report a very enjoyable evening. Among the selections on the program were several numbers by one of Belleville's male quartettes, whose assistance was more than appreciated, every number given by them being encored again and again. The "Old Oaken Bucket" brought down the house. The address by Mr. L. B. Cooper, Past Grand Master of Belleville, was also much appreciated and the wives of the members should have a better understanding of the great work being done by the order after listening to this address and it is to be hoped that some will be more anxious for their husbands to attend in the future.

The numbers by Miss Currie, Miss Saries and Mr. Mulharon were well rendered as usual. Refreshments were served in abundance and a social hour was enjoyed by all, after which Mr. Sidney Murphy, Noble Grand, called everybody to order and all joined in singing "God Save the King." The program committee deserve special mention for securing the quartette from Belleville and those who did not attend on account of bad roads, etc., missed an excellent program.

Anderson vs. Huff The judgment of His Honor Judge Wills in this case was given out on the 13th inst. The action was brought by W. W. Anderson of Ameliasburg against Mrs. Kathleen Huff for $72.50 damages for breach of warranty on the sale of a second-hand combination cream-separator and gasoline engine. His Honor's judgment is as follows:

The principle in this case is not that of Caveat Emptor, but one in which the vendor of his agent is representing a sale that the particular machine is fit for the performance of the work or operation it is intended for. The defendant is the administrator of one Huff who was engaged in the sale of the machine. The machine in question was a separator operated by a gasoline engine. This machine had been in use for some time by the defendant's husband and the evidence showed it had performed the work it was intended for satisfactorily. A similar machine owned by Mr. Wallbridge had been successfully operated for some years, except occasionally there would be a little trouble with the engine as usually occurs with gasoline engines. At the time of the sale the engine was put running and seemed all right. The plaintiff after taking the machine home, being quite inexperienced, endeavored to operate it, but was unable to get it to run satisfactorily. He took it to an expert gasoline machine mechanic to place it in repair and paid him the sum of $4.00 for the work done. He also asked Mr. Wallbridge to assist him and finally after new rings were put in the cylinder by Mr. Wallbridge supplied by the defendant and obtained from the makers of the machine, the engine and separator worked satisfactorily and the plaintiff who had refused to pay the note given for it then voluntarily paid the same, and expressed his satisfaction therewith. The defendant was not the maker or the agent of the maker of the machine and is not bound by law in such matter, but only in the general sense that the machine would perform the work. It was a second hand machine in other words, has been in use for some time and no guarantee was given in writing or verbally by the defendant or her agent, the auctioneer that it would continue operating for any period of specified time nor could such an implied warranty be incorporated in the sale. The money reasonably paid out by the plaintiff in order to put the machine in running shape, I think he should be allowed, and the only sum so paid was that given to the witness Roblin, namely $4.00, the other person concerned, Mr. Wallbridge, made no charge for his services, and the defendant obtained and supplied the rings. I must under all the circumstances of the law on the subject which is contained in the reports of many cases that the same was completed on at the time the plaintiff expressed his satisfaction with the machine and then paid for same.

I will therefore give judgment for the plaintiff for the sum of $4.00 without costs. M. Wright for the plaintiff; W. C. Mikel, K.C. for the defendant.

Education in Christian Ethics German Education without Christ—Educational Sermons On Sunday

"Do you know that over five hundred probationers of the Methodist church served overseas and most are returning to complete their education," asked the Rev. R. P. Rogers, B.A., of Napanee at the Tabernacle church educational service. "We as a church have to meet them with open hand and open pocket books, if we are to take our place and do our part."

Rev. Mr. Rogers pleaded for a pre-eminent place in our educational system for instruction in Christian Ethics. "Why are there so many nominal Christians in the world today? Why is it there are so many nominal Christian nations that have for decades been marshalling their hosts? I find the answer in the failure to educate men and nations in Christian ethics. Germany left the church before she entered the war. The universities were giving all the instruction, the churches being empty."

The preacher saw a great need to educate men for missionary work as an extensive world program has been adopted. Imposing a heavy financial burden on the churches.

"We have an irrefutable argument for Christian education in the modern German with his perverted mentality—the result of training in militarism and education without Christ." Any reform or reconstruction to be permanent must be preceded and succeeded by process of education. No system is complete that leaves out the moral and religious. "The Roman Catholics are not without some justification when they say our Protestant schools are Godless." Education by intellect only has been the tragedy of the age. The shattered cathedrals of France and Belgium stand as twentieth century monuments to a system of training that left out Christ.

Mr. Rogers did not paint a rosy picture of our Christian Education. "Perhaps not twenty-five per cent of the people are getting any instruction in Christian ethics beyond attending one or two services a week. How could a student become proficient if he paid so little attention to his studies?"

It is not that Christianity has faded, but that its full program has never been carried out.

A high tribute to the work of the Sunday School and Young People's societies in keeping the youth of the land from falling into sin was paid by Rev. Mr. Rogers on the word of a V.M.C.A. worker who served in France.

At all the Methodist Churches yesterday educational Sunday was observed.

CONDUCTOR HOGAN FATALLY INJURED

Belleville Man Fell Between Cars on the way to the hospital. He was Near Port Hope—Died on Way to Hospital at Port Hope—Remains Brought to Belleville

John P. Hogan, of Olive street, Belleville, a well known G. T. R. freight conductor met with a fatal accident on a way freight running from Toronto to Belleville, yesterday a few miles west of Port Hope.

There was a bad hot box on one of the cars, and a stop was made just east of Newtonville to attend to this. Fearing that the train would be travelling too fast for him to make the caboose, Conductor Hogan caught one of the cars and walked back on the top. It is supposed he missed his footing and fell between the cars. His left foot was severed, his right leg and foot were badly smashed, and his skull fractured. A passenger train following closely brought the injured man to Port Hope, but he died in the ambulance on the way to the hospital. He was 44 years of age and one of the best known railroad men in this district. His wife and three children survive. An inquest has been opened.

The remains arrived here today and will be taken to his late home.

Last fall deceased had the misfortune to lose his brother, Timothy J., a Grand Trunk conductor, who succumbed to influenza and pneumonia. Conductor John Hogan was a son of Mr. Timothy Hogan.

The late J. P. Hogan was a native of Belleville. Besides his family there survive his father and mother, five brothers, Charles of Cleveland; Michael, Frank, William and Vincent of Belleville, and two sisters, Mrs. John Lantz, of Kingston and Mrs. James Boyle, city.

For twenty years he has been in the G.T.R. service. He was a member of two railwaymen's organizations.

The deceased conductor was a member of St. Michael's church.

erved, the Rev. Mr. Rogers, Rev. Dr. Shorey of Port Hope, Rev. Alfred Brown, of Pictou preacher.
