—What Girls Talk About.
"What do girls talk about?" I asked one of them, "at their luncheons and during calls upon each other?"
"Well," she replied, "there are usually two subjects of conversation at gatherings of girls, and they are about equally prolific. One of them is the man and the other is girls who don't happen to be present. We discuss the men of our acquaintance from every possible point of view, exchange confidence that have been made to us, criticisms with unrestricted freedom, and wonder which of them want to marry and what styles of girls they prefer. Sometimes we are rather sharp in our criticisms, but on the whole the men get out rather easily.
But when it comes to other girls—my!"
"What do you mean by that?"
"I mean that no mercy is shown.
For example, we take up some poor unfortunate who isn't with us and go through the pleasant operation, known as picking her to pieces. We discuss her costumes, her complexion, her manners, her sayings, her tastes, and by the time we have got through with her the Creator wouldn't recognize his work. Then we start in on some other girl!"
"But have you any enemies of this sort?"
"Enemies?" Bless your innocent soul, I haven't an enemy in the world. I love my neighbor as myself."
"You surely don't intend to convey her impressions to my mind, that these girls whose characters you discuss in this cannibalistic way are friends of yours?"
"Why, certainly. For instance, on the north side the other day we were all taking 5 o'clock tea and having a simply beautiful time picking Maria Jones to pieces. Just in the middle of it all Maria came in.
Was she greeted kindly? Well, hardly. We all embraced her, gave her a seat near the fire and changed the subject of conversation to Annie Smith. And how Maria did go for her, to be sure!"—Chicago Post.

ADDISON.
THURSDAY, May 28.—At the last May official meeting of the Methodist church of the Addison Circuit held at Greenbush, it was unanimously resolved that as Bro. Oliver had labored with so much acceptance and so earnestly for the last two years that we ask the Stationing Committee to reappoint him for a third time.
C. STOWELL.

NEWBRO.
Again our turn has rolled around, our only "chaining" light,
And still we find him holding forth in won-derous power and might,
Not in the mystic sciences, but that which soars above,
That burning passion few can gain—a woman's delicate love.
His powers of suasion none deny not e'en the victim of the snare, His grand phisique and talents rare
The wonders are of men, Kind nature's priceless gifts have never by been better used in keeping up the record of a town.
And if at times from wisdom's path he strays in his career To take a sail by moonlight or a glass of lager beer, Why censure him? Did British thrones e'er set a perfect king?
Or can a father perfect be who never caught a "sing"?

His genial nature all admit in all his ups and downs,
And if molested by the boys he never on them trowns, He never yet was known to quarrel with not upon a lark, Not even when he fell a prey to Portland's gaming shark.
Oppression's woe which oft o'erwhelms
the victim of the snare, That crushes down the rising hope and damps the spirit's gay, Was never felt for higher still his gamey spirit rose,
Though lost was all his borrowed spoil and
round him all were foes.
With calm, serene and steady gaze he met his rival's eye As soldier meets that monster Death who dumps the spirit's gay,
Was never felt for higher still his gamey
spirit rose,
Though lost was all his borrowed spoil and
round him all were foes.

Across his rival's swarthy face did fit a baleful smile,
As flashed into his mind the thought, I'll add it to my pile, I call, is heard in Duncan's voice, while cool and sharp it rings, The coat is mine, says wily Tom, these aces beat three kings.
As will flower pressed beneath the foot appears its bend and stalk, His buoyant nature bore him up though realizing from the shock, The coat is lost, he coolly said, 'tis the outside one.
My under one is left me still I'll stake it just for fun.
He stripped off the cards were dealt, it went with all the rest, These fellows are the landlord's call disturbed his hat and vest, These fellows suit and, as a plant is nourished by its roots, He kept alive his staying Power by putting up his boots.
Misfortune's hand which causes men to grovel in the dirt, Had stripped him of his whole attire except his pants and shirt, My is gone except my grit, reluctantly he said,
And as I've nothing more to lose to time to think of bed.
He slept a deep and heavy sleep till late on Sunday morn'g, And dreamed of boyhood's happy hours and manhood's life forlorn, But, cruel fate, the landlord's call disturbed his sweet repose, Then flashed the question to his mind what shall I do for clothes?
As pity ains the human breast for stag that's brought to bay, Kind friend's hand went out to him who now in bed did lay, That sympathetic spirit touched his rival's sore heart,
And the clothes won in the game he gave him back a part.
When evening shades had crowded out the light of sunny day, He turns from that unlucky place and somehow sends his way, But on the hill he faces round upstairs his empty purse,
And at that village he pronounced this long and bitter curse.
"Oh most of liars, rogues and thieves may souldier on them fall, May goblin spirits break their rest and viper round them crawl, May slow starvation be their lot and demons mock their groans, Their bodies not beneath the sun and valtures pick their bones!" Then turned his back upon the scene and bitter thoughts did prey Upon his mind while plodding home 'neath Luna's silvery ray, Mans inhumanity to man shall cease when sounds the knell
That dooms the unrepentant to the endless flames of—The following are a few snappy, sentible ("news items") that the Lime-kill correspondent sent in last week to the Prescott Journal, and the Limekill correspondent's items are a fair sample of the Journal's correspondents' news.
S. Maloney and M. Colwell thought they should have kept quietest.
We notice some of our young ladies look very down-hearted since Jim has gone.
We wonder what took Herman to Prescott Sunday.
What takes Johnny up to Mr. W.
Gore's so often?
It is a wonder Jim does not get a bird for the cage on the hill.
We think the Smith's Crossing correspondent is rather hard on poor Joe.
Wonder where Hugh was Sunday night last.

FORFAR.
TUESDAY, May 28.—Mr. R. E.
Young and Misses Anna Morris and Maud Myers attended the Teacher's Association at Athens.
Mr. Fred Morris spent his holidays with his parents here. He is teaching at Lyndhurst and reports having good success.
Mr. Stevenson of Montreal fixed a number of organs in this locality.
Miss Thomson and Rev. Mr. Bailey of Westport were visiting at Mr.
Pickett's on Friday.

G. H. Pool made W. T. Hales the present of a horse this spring.
Rheumatism is the prevailing disease in this locality. J. Myers, G.
Preston, H. Henderson and W.
McCoy are laid with it, besides those who have recovered.
Miss Anna Leonard has a large music class.

DELTA.
Monday, June 1.—Wm. Johnson has laid the foundation for a fine new residence on Victoria street. We think he will be "able" to have it finished before fall.
While your reporter was taking his usual walk on Sunday afternoon along the water way, I was grieved to see several row boats along the shore and their occupants fishing. Six days shall their labor and the seventh "fish".
Parents look after the boys.
C. E. Wells who has been in Uncle Sam's domain for some months past, is spending a few days with his parents.
The three picnics on Monday were largely attended, and all expressed themselves as having spent a pleasant day's outing.
Mr. Will Seeds of Elgin is assisting in our cheese factory and is becoming quite popular among our fair sex.
Farmers are complaining of the continued dry weather, and say if we don't have rain before long the crops will be a complete failure.
At the last meeting of the Delta Methodist quarterly board it was Moved by Henry Smith, seconded by John Patterson, that we recognize with pleasure the rapid advancement of the cause of God on this Circuit under the charge of Rev. W. H. Bilance as pastor and that we extend to him a cordial invitation to remain the third year.—Carried unanimously.

FRONT OF YONGE.
Monday, June 1.—We attended the Methodist church last Sabbath and as the church is undergoing repairs, service was held in the school house. The remains were held in the school house.
There was no church in Caigtown and when service was held in a private house or in the old square-topped school house. No top buggy in those days.
An Oddfellows' hall will be erected in Mallorytown this summer.
A very large concourse of people attended the funeral of S. H. Dickey which took place on Monday, 26th ult.
The remains were interred in the family burying ground near Yonge Mills.
The Rev. Mr. Servais was the officiating clergyman who delivered a very appropriate discourse for the occasion.
Mr. Washington Mallory of Mallory-town, has one of the finest hop yards in the county.
Here is a singular coincidence. There is a poor family near Mallorytown where the old lady or head of the family married a dummy and the daughter married a dummy also. This lady has enjoyed wedded life for the third time.

DULSEMAIN.
WEDNESDAY, May 27.—Mrs. Hamilton West of Athens was the guest of her sister-in-law Miss Eliza J. West last week.
Mr. Earnest McCready (formerly of this place) now engaged in cheese-making near Brockville paid the paternal home a visit last Sunday. He was accompanied by his cousin Miss McCready of Lynn.
Mrs. Thomas Acton of Iowa is at present the guest of her brother Mr.
John Patience. It is twenty-one years since her last visit here, we cannot see that she has changed very much in those years. Time seems to have past lightly on her brow.
Mr. and Mrs. Gass Haskins and family accompanied by Mrs. Ephraim Haskins are visiting in Plum Hollow this week.
A new partnership business has been entered into, the interested parties were Mr. Herb Leacock our popular blacksmith and Miss Aggie Scott of Redan. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. J. Stiles in St.
Thomas Church, Evansville, on Wednesday May 13th. The Church was pretty well filled when the bride party arrived. As they entered the Church the choir sang a hymn. Mrs.
Stiles presiding at the organ. The bride looked lovely, simply, but beau-

Brockville Cheese Board
Special Reporters.
Ashwood Hall, May 28.—There was a large attendance of members both salesmen and buyers. Business seemed to have regained its ordinary course notwithstanding the presence of those members who objected so much against the auction system recently.
As business progressed it was apparent that the "hatchet was not laid down for good," that there was an undercurrent of discontent among the few confidential and private gentlemen who figured so prominently in the minority at last meeting. Later on we learned that the action taken by them was to get certain salesmen to agree to let them have their goods at say 1 1/2 of a cent per lb. more than was paid on the board by the so-called Small Fry Buyers. From the large number of refusals made by salesmen, who are recognized as willing salesmen, your correspondent is led to think that they made a serious mistake in trying to take in the sun and fry on the great wheel of monopoly.

On the bulletin board to-day the offerings totaled 4,880 boxes of cheese of which 3,126 boxes were colored, the balance white.
The sales were made at from 8 1/2 to 9c, about one half the goods being thus disposed of. White cheese appeared largely in the minority thus far this season.
After adjournment of the board those having their goods on hand made for the confidential gentlemen's rooms.
Some of them of course received the price promised, but others who were not in possession of the promised blessing had to expect much less than was made in public for the goods.
