As a Resu t it May Have to Declare the Spanish River Pulp Deal off

Toronto, April 3. - The Ontario

Government is in a serious quan-dary over the Spanish River pulp concession, the ratification of which was opposed in the Legislature last week by Mr. Whitney. The reason the Premier was so louth that a straight division on the subject should take place last Thursday was partly lack f confidence in his own supporters of confidence in his own supporters. It has now leaked out that the agreement has been a subject of fierce debate in several of the ministerial caucuses which have taken place since the publication of its details. The Government got its followers for the most part in line, however, before the matter was introduced in the House. The ministers, however, had not counted on an amendment, such as that framed by Mr. Whitney. Some of the Government members have refused point blank to vote against the Opposition leader's proposal to ex-plore and ascertain the extent of our pulp wood resources, and his conten-tion that all such properties should be disposed of in public conpetition. The Government is puzzled as to how to frame an amendment to the amendment that will salve the consciences of the Liberal representatives, and also include the matter of the original motion, which simply calls for ratifi-cation of the agreement: There is incation of the agreement: There is in-deed a possibility that it will give up the task, and that the matter will be left over for a year. The debate on the motion, owing to the leniency of the speaker, stands indefinitely ad-journed, and no one will be surprised if it should be one of the items which has not been reached on the day of prorogation. The Cabinet held a meeting on Saturday at which the above matter was discussed.

The Ministers also put the finishing touches on several Government mea-sures, which will be introduced in the House on Thesday, It is understood this will be the last legislation brought in by the Government. It was reported that an attempt would be made to wind up the session by Enstern But there seems to be three Easter: But there seems to be three weeks' work ahead yet. A good deal depends upon the character of the supplementary estimates, which the administration has only begun to prepare. Mr. Whitney has given fair warning that large appropriations will not be rushed through at the last moment, as was the case at the pre-vious session, but the Opposition will demand time for fair discussion. demand time for fair discussion.

Among the measures considered on Saturday was one dealing with the question of a municipal sanitarium for consumptives. Municipalities will be empowered to erect, equip and maintain sanitariums, and the Government will aid on the same basis as it contributes to other hospitals.

A Deep Mystery.

It is a mystery why women endure Backsche, Headache, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Melancholy, Fainting and Dizzy Spells when thousands have proved that Electric Bitters will quickly cure such troubles. "I suffered for years with kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Phebe Cherley, of Peterson, Iw., "and a lame back pained me so I could not dress myself, but Electric Bitters wholly cured me; and, although 73 years old, I now am able to do all my housework." It overcomes Constipation, improves Appetite, gives perfect health. Only 50c. at A. I. McCall & Co's drug store.

A lazy liver may be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. A stick is all right for the back of a lazy man. But it would be a savage as well as a stupid thing to beat a weary man or a starving man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging liver it is a great mistake to lash it with drastic drugs. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred a torpid or sluggish liver is but a symptom of an illnourished body, whose organs are weary with overwork. Let your liver alone. Start with the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nu-trition. Put them in proper working order, and see how quickly your liver will become active and energetic. Dr. Pierge's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvellous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood making glands, leanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

Pretty combinations of silk braid and narrow faces are seen among the new trimmings.

Her Irish face looked not altogether pleased at sight of the young man who stood outside the threshold. He was fairly good looking, but he need ed a shave, and his rather shabby clothes looked as though they had been thrown at him instead of being put on decently and in order. He held an open account book in his hand. "Shure is it you again?" said Mrs. Maloney, her hand on the broken door "Yes, it's me," said the young man

"Your insurance is back four weeks now, so fork out the dough." His voice was somewhat gruff. "Aw, let it go wan more wake," urged Mrs. Maloney in a wheedling tone. "Shure, it's mesilf'l pay ye ivery cint on Monday nixt.' 'What do you think I am-a beak?' queried the collector, pushing his hat back on his head. "When you don't pay I have to advance the money my self or your policy lapses. I've done that four weeks for you already. This time you've got to pay up or I let her lapse. "Aw, pay it now, just this wanst like the good-lookin' young feller that ye are," pleaded Mrs. Maloney. Then she came closer and continued in a loud whisper, pointing inside the room with a clawlike finger, "The ould mon lies there a-reathin' his lasht. waker and waker he grows ivery minnit, and the tony doctor in the high hat that the society sint says he can't live till the mornin'. dollars on that policy," she cried, her hands up to her face, "and now I'll be widout a pinny in the worrld, and me ould man'll have to die and be buried on the town, with divil a mass to rest his soul."

The collector listened unmoved. It was an old story to him. "Are you going to pay up or not?" he asked with a weary air.

"Shure, if I had the mony, wouldn't I paid ye this long ago to get rid o' the sight o' your ugly face?" cried Mrs. Maloney in wrath. At this moment the argument was interrupted by a second young man who stumbled up the dark stairs and now came toward them, his eves blinded by the light that streamed through a window in Mrs. Maloney's room. This young man carried a clothes wringer, and he evidently took as a good omen the odor of warm soapsuds that greeted his nostrils. "Good morning, madam," he began, with a beaming smile at Mrs. Maloney and ignoring the insurance man.

"I called to-day to inquire if you have one of our patent, improved wringers, by the help of which you can do your washing in half the time. Fifty cents down and twenty-five a week buys this elegant labor-saving—"

"Go long wid ye now," interrupted Mrs. Maloney, "do yez think I'm a millionayer? Shure its lucky I am to have clothes to wash. Fifty cints indade. Its monny a long day I can tell ye since I had my teeth in a fifty cint piece."

Here the insurance man interposed. He had thrust his account book into his pocket. "I think you do need the clothes wringer, Mrs. Maloney," he said pleasantly. "I'll lend you the 50 cents and you can return it to me

Mrs. Maloney stared at the speaker in astonishment, but as the insurance man winked the eye that was furthest from the agent in a comprehensive manner she said nothing. The agent jumped at the sale with avidity, and in less time than it takes to write it he had the instalment lease made out and had gone on his way rejoicing, leaving the wringer in Mrs. Maloney's hands. The insurance man leaned against the doorway and waited until the sound of the agent's footsteps on the stairs had died away before he spoke. "As soon as he's had time to turn the corner," he said laconically, "take that thing across the street and pawn

t. You can get enough to pay me back my 50 cents and settle up your insurance besides. "Shure it's a bright one ye are," cried Mrs. Maloney as she hurried

Before the next Monday had rolled around Mr. Maloney was sleeping the sleep that knows no waking, and Mrs. Maloney, having buried her spouse in state, after giving him a wake that was the talk of the tenements round about for many a day, had embarked in the steerage for her native land, there to enjoy the distinction incident to being a "rich widdy."

The insurance man, on the strength of Mrs. Maloney's sudden affluence, has insured the life of every man, woman and child in the crowded tenement.

When looked upon in a moral light this story may have flaws, but viewed from the viewpoint of the greatest good to the greatest number it takes on another aspect, as the only loser in the transaction was the agent who sold the wringer. He is out of pocket a small sum of money and out of mind a large slice of his faith in human nature, but then even he is richer in ex-
