

CHIGNECTO POST AND BORDERER.

SACKVILLE, N. B., FEB. 10, 1887.
CONCERNING MR. WOOD.

The Liberal-Conservative candidate for Westmorland can congratulate himself on the circumstance that his opponents have not succeeded in attacking his record for the four years of his public life. Mr. Wood has not in parliament four sessions, and has been recognized as one of the leading Maritime Province members. He has taken an important part in many debates. His speeches and votes are in the public records, so that he who runs may read. If he has failed in his duty to his country or his country the record does not show it.

Mr. Wood is one of those who believe in the future of this country, and who have sought to bring the resources of the land within the reach of the people.

While some others laughed at the idea of the return of the C. P. R. loan, and while one of the New Brunswick colleagues declared that in two years from 1884 the thirty-five millions of Canadian Pacific bonds taken as security would not be worth a thousand dollars, Mr. Wood, with the judgment of a business man, formed the opinion that the investment was necessary and safe. The future has justified that view for the railway is completed and the loan was repaid long before it was due. And before the date fixed by contract for the completion of the C. P. R. to Ottawa has arrived, the trans-continental line will connect by the shore with the Intercolonial at Salisbury.

While Mr. Wood's critics were pouring forth complaints over the decline in the shipbuilding industry, and the prospective decay of the lumber business, and bemoaning the effects on the laboring men and the farmers' markets, Mr. Wood has given his best thought and work to legislation for the encouragement of other industries of a more abiding character. Steamships may displace sailing vessels, the timber may disappear before the woodman's axe, but the people will still use the products of the workshop and factory. Instead of ship and saw mills we may have cotton factories, refineries and foundries. Little Rhode Island makes its lumber and builds its ships, but the state is a hive of industry, and the farmer with a few acres of land has the best market in the world. What the possibilities of New Brunswick may be in this direction we cannot say, but a man who like Mr. Wood is doing something by legislation and by personal experiment to work it out is worth more to the country than many lawyers, whose business is with the estates of the departed, and whose ideas are connected with issues long since dead.

Mr. Wood was not in 1882 so prone to election promises as his opponent is today. He spoke with modesty and reserve of what he could do for his country, and has been one of the politicians who are better than their word. If Mr. Emmerson had been the member for the county and had succeeded in convincing the Government and parliament of the railway from Sackville to the Cape, he would, no doubt, have made many speeches in honor of himself, even though the road had never been built. The railway itself, and the pier at the shore terminus are Mr. Wood's speech to the electors who have long looked forward to the realization of this enterprise. Elsewhere in Westmorland like addresses are made to the people.

Westmorland has never had a representative who made less display of his own achievements, and never had a representative who has been anything near as valuable to the county as Mr. Wood, nor has the county been represented by any man, not even by Sir Albert Smith in his best days, who would give a better account of himself before the public, or a better defence of the principles he supports, than the latest member.

DR. WELDON IN ALBERT.

Dr. Weldon may or may not be about to be elected in Albert, but he is making some of the best speeches ever made in the County. There is nothing hide-bound about Dr. Weldon's politics. He is an independent man and a thinking man, and no party can hope to oust or run him. It is impossible to conceive of persons or parties influencing Dr. Weldon to do or say anything he does not believe to be right. The people of Albert by electing such a man will have a representative to be consulted on great questions as well as small, not a delegate to represent Elgin or another section of the county, but the whole of it, and the whole of Canada. These considerations will, undoubtedly, have great weight with the constituency, which will hardly care to take the risk of rejecting a candidate who has the largest, richest and most cultured constituency might be glad to elect. The appeal against him on the score that he is an outsider is a false one for Albert County will be more his home henceforth than any other. The hearty reception which Dr. Weldon meets wherever he goes, and which all who know him were sure he would meet everywhere that he became known, points to his success on the 22nd.

The Opposition have made all the capital they can of the east of High Commissioner's deceit and venial glasses, but they are unable to show that the Government or the taxpayers have contributed one cent to provide anything to put in the glasses, the bottles or even the wine bin.

The tone of the French official press indicates a firm determination on the part of Premier Goblet and his Cabinet not to do anything that would precipitate an open quarrel with Germany.

Lord Randolph Churchill has left England for a cruise to Algiers.

WATCH THEM.

Mr. H. R. Emmerson, meets with new and unexpected difficulties in his ostentatious proclamation that he is purer than all politicians that have gone before him. Everywhere that Mr. Emmerson speaks, the principal seats on the platform are occupied by party managers, who not long ago were engaged with Mr. Emmerson in an attempt to carry an election by the methods that Mr. Emmerson denounces. They know just what sort of an elector the candidate is, and when he makes lofty pretensions they look at one another with a wink as the ancient Argurs were supposed to do when their clients backs were turned.

It will be well to keep a strict watch on the "party of purity" in this country, notwithstanding their threats about jailing and prosecuting boodlers. During the late election contest in the province of Ontario, the statement was wired all over Canada that a Dominion Government agent was busy bribing the electors of Perth to vote for one Mr. Hess, and that he would be arrested and sent to jail. The man was arrested the night before the election, but the arrest was not made by the men who started the report. It was made at the instance of Mr. Hess himself, and the briber proved to be an agent of the Reform party, so called. He was committed to jail and is now out on bail. During the late Manitoba local contest word came from Ontario that some prominent supporters of Tory premier Norquay would be arrested and imprisoned. An arrest did take place there, after and the party sent to jail was no less than the gentleman who opposed Norquay in his own constituency.

A SKELETON AT THE FEAST.

We counsel Mr. McConnell of the Transcript not to allow himself to be excited over the official return which shows him to have received something over $400 as inspector of weights and measures during the period which intervened between his appointment and the commencement of operations. The only material difference between the Grit boodler as Mr. McConnell, and the Tory boodler denounced by Mr. McConnell, is that in the latter case the boodler is a public officer or contractor who receives money for services performed, while the former is a public official who receives money for services not performed. It seems to please Mr. McConnell to say that Minister Howell, ex-Minister Aikens, and the clerks of the Island Revenue office are liars and slanderers. But this does not alter the record nor return into the treasury the $400 which Mr. McConnell does not deny he took out of the West. $400 is not a very large sum, and the Port would not have made the exposure had it not been led to suppose that the deacon would be glad to be reminded of his own liability to sin. It should be said if Mr. McConnell, in rebuking evil in others, should himself become a castaway. The skeleton at the feast is an old institution which once served a useful purpose, and when Mr. McConnell's banquet of political morality, it was done with motives that it has almost spoiled the supper.

MR. BLAKE'S QUALIFICATIONS.

Has any body heard any good reason why Edward Blake should be made Premier of Canada. Has his recent attempt to swallow the National Policy, and his latest declaration to the Ontario farmers, that he is not now in favor of the abolition of four duties, qualified him for the position. If so it has disqualified his associates, who are still denouncing the National Policy. Has Mr. Blake's obstruction to railway construction east and west shown him to be fit to take charge of the public offices in a country like this? Is his recent alliance with the race and revenge party in Quebec an argument in his favor? Should his party be sustained because it comprises annexationists, repealers, Bellies and sectionists of all kinds? If no, we see no sound claim for the Opposition leader.

Whatever sharp turns the Grits may make in the hope of securing votes, it is scarcely to be expected that they will be able to change their character and propensities at once. This being the case, the party event in Westmorland will be watching. It is has always been one of their characteristics that when they were engaged in wholesale attempts to debauch the electors they were loudest in their charges of bribery and corruption against their opponents. The old cry of Tory bribery is again being brought into use, and there is reason to believe that history will repeat itself with regard to Grit corruption. Mr. Emmerson is reported by the Transcript to be telling some very apocryphal stories about "boodlers," and including in threats of prosecution against any in "the Tory camp who shall attempt to bribe the electors." Judging by past experience, Mr. Emmerson will therefore do well to be on the lookout for an organized attempt by the "party of purity" to corrupt the constituency.

We protest against the application of such epithets as "Boodle Bait" to our friend of the Transcript. The phrase has a somewhat pleasing alliterative ring, and it seems to fit very closely to the truth, but we submit that it is not sufficiently dignified to be used in connection with a purveyor of "thoroughly reliable information on political questions" and an apostle of political purity.

The Quebec Legislature has adjourned till March 16th, to allow the new Ministers to go before their constituents for re-election.

STRANGE ALLIES.

It is currently reported that Rev. Mr. Lawson, an excellent and venerable Baptist minister, is actively engaged canvassing for Mr. Emmerson, like Sir Charles Tupper, is a Baptist minister's son. Nobody disputes Mr. Lawson's right to canvass for the man of his choice, whether he be the son of a Baptist minister or not, and few would find fault with him for preaching political sermons if he conscientiously thinks they are required, but as poverty is said to make strange bedfellows, so the exigencies of Mr. Emmerson's case are likely to give Mr. Lawson some strange allies. Foremost among these will probably be Messrs. Frechette and Langevin, will promote missionaries recently imported from Quebec in answer to the Macedonian cry of Mr. Weldon, of St. John. These missionaries have come among the Canadians of this Province to convert them from the errors of Toryism, and it is likely that "the noble county of Westmorland" with its large French population will be neglected. It is not to be expected, however, that they and Mr. Lawson, although striving for one end, will work together or even in the same part of the vineyard. Mr. Lawson is not likely to accompany the missionaries to the French settlements to tell the Canadians about the unholiness of the French domination. On the contrary, he is likely to be at the instance of the missionaries to go with Mr. Lawson to the Baptist communities of Westmorland to show the people that Kiehl is a genuine martyr, and that the Government should be overthrown for permitting the sentence against him to be executed. It is not even to be expected that Mr. Lawson and his allies will speak together from the same platform, for their work can best be performed apart from each other. It may be well however for Mr. Lawson to reflect whether the work his allies are brought here to do is such as he can conscientiously approve. If he believes their coming will promote harmony and general welfare of the community he will do well to work in the same ranks, but if he thinks their mission will have a tendency to stir up religious strife he will certainly decide not to labor for a cause which requires such expedients.

The favorite canvass of the Grits is the extravagance of the Government in increasing beyond the limits of the country, ex-Minister Aikens, and the clerks of the Island Revenue office are liars and slanderers. But this does not alter the record nor return into the treasury the $400 which Mr. McConnell does not deny he took out of the West. $400 is not a very large sum, and the Port would not have made the exposure had it not been led to suppose that the deacon would be glad to be reminded of his own liability to sin. It should be said if Mr. McConnell, in rebuking evil in others, should himself become a castaway. The skeleton at the feast is an old institution which once served a useful purpose, and when Mr. McConnell's banquet of political morality, it was done with motives that it has almost spoiled the supper.

Ancient Order of Office Seekers.

Some of the Grabs Made by Fellows in the Past.

(St. John Sea.)

"In halcyon days of old," said the president, "the question of salary was of less importance to the soldier of fortune than the character of the country to be conquered and the amount of plunder likely to fall into the hands of the victors. The soldier of fortune, with his gleaming armor, his keen and ready sword, his noble ambition, and his dauntless soul, has passed forever from the stage. But the type is not extinct. Its modern representatives are the Office Seekers, or Political Adventurers, of whom we are which. We are therefore justified in calling ourselves an Ancient Order. We are the product of the evolution of the soldier of fortune, who was the product of the evolution of the marine monsters of the reptilian age that were plated with steel-like armor and were fierce and terrible in their nature—as described in works on geology. The motto "to the victors belong the spoils," was his and it is ours. It is the connecting link that proves our common origin. With us, as with him, the question of personal interest is paramount. And because this is the case, I have caused to be prepared the record of the successes of Fellows of our noble Order in the past. They did not, of course, capture castles, and possess themselves of princely jewels and rich and costly plate, but they did, in the most honorable way, secure for themselves capture castles, and possess themselves of princely jewels and rich and costly plate. These opening remarks of the president were made to a full house. Every available seat was occupied, and wherever a Fellow could find standing room, there stood a Fellow. Outside there were Fellows clinging to the window sills, and Fellows on the roof. They all wanted to hear the president read his "little list."

After complacently surveying the eager faces assembled before him, the president adjusted his spectacles, took up a slip of paper, and proceeded to read and comment as follows:—

Fellow Blake.....$800.00

"This was Fellow Blake's charge for one day's argument in the Ontario supreme court. He is a lawyer and an ardent friend of the poor man."

"One thousand dollars per day was the pay received by Fellow Mills for appearing before the privy council on the Ontario boundary case. Fellow Mills belongs to the equitable distribution of wealth, but maintains that he must acquire it before he can begin the work of distribution."

"Fellow Davies was one of the counsel engaged in the fishery arbitration case. He did not argue. But he drew his pay. He is therefore an authority on fishery matters."

Fellow Nelson.....$14,000.00 per annum

"Fellow Nelson, chief proprietor of the Toronto Globe, and a Scottish gentleman, is a firm advocate of paying contracts in supplying school books to the children of Ontario."

Fellow McCleod.....$3,000.00

"Fellow McCleod's fee was supposed to have been seriously damaged by the I. C. R. Hence the $3,000.00."

Fellow Laird.....$35,000.00

"Amount of boodle received in two years."

Fellow Vail.....$125,000.00

"Amount captured from Dominion and provincial governments during eleven years. Fellow Vail, and also Fellow Jones, rubbed noses with Fellow Anglin in the matter of printing contract."

Fellow McConnell.....$417.93

"Fellow McConnell received this amount and also some flattering compliments for the masterly manner in which he did nothing for 300 days after his appointment as inspector of weights and measures."

"This commission went to Philadelphia at the expense of the government. The total cost was as stated. House rent was paid at the rate of $4,000 per year. House maids, and cooks and other servants were hired, and house furnishings, provisions, champagne, sherry, claret, brandy, bouquets, photographs, ice cream and candy were paid for. Tupper's outfit was nothing compared with it. The commission was a 'bully' time."

Fellow Moore, Glenora and Wilson.....$20.00

"The contract for the Guelph Harbor works was awarded to these Fellows, though a thoroughly competent and reliable man had entered a tender lower than theirs by the amount mentioned. They had been very useful Fellows."

Fellow Cook.....$20,000.00 acres timber lands

"Fellow Cook received this limit on order of council at the Mackenzie Government was defeated, but before the ministry had resigned. He was also forgiven a debt of some thousands of dollars owed to the Government for a timber lot on Indian land."

Fellow Cook.....$1,500 to $2,000 to the funds during a conflict such as we are about to enter."

Fellow McCleod.....$5,907.58

Address to the Electors.
Independent Electors of the Counties of Westmorland and Cumberland:
The 22nd of February approaches, and nothing having been done to save the country, we propose to cut the Gordian Knot and offer ourselves for election.
We are clear Grit Conservative Liberal Repealers, Radical Tory Prohibition Secessionists.
We believe in Sir Charles Tupper, Henry Waide Emerson, Captain Kidd, Christopher Columbus and Father Bradley.
We are in favour of Reciprocity, Free Trade, Trial by Jury, The Scott Act, Vote by Ballot, Draw Taker and the Magna Charta.
We are also in favour of Railway Extension, Bitter Beer, Irelity at Elections, Raw Oysters and Universal Suffrage.
If elected we will advocate the appointment of four Sheriffs and six Registers for each County, with power to add to their number.
We will legislate in favour of Confederation, Annexation, Separation, Defamation, or any other action that may turn up.
We are in favour of the Labour Question, but don't know which side of the question we are on at present; will probably be able to tell after the election. We may not uphold Knights of Labour, but neither do we uphold Days of Labour. By the way, speaking of days of Labour reminds us that we are not as much vexed with orders in our Custom Tailoring Department as we were last month, and can give especial attention to all orders received.
A special reduction will be made to all intelligent voters up to the 22nd inst., and no questions asked.

Address to the Electors.
Independent Electors of the Counties of Westmorland and Cumberland:
The 22nd of February approaches, and nothing having been done to save the country, we propose to cut the Gordian Knot and offer ourselves for election.
We are clear Grit Conservative Liberal Repealers, Radical Tory Prohibition Secessionists.
We believe in Sir Charles Tupper, Henry Waide Emerson, Captain Kidd, Christopher Columbus and Father Bradley.
We are in favour of Reciprocity, Free Trade, Trial by Jury, The Scott Act, Vote by Ballot, Draw Taker and the Magna Charta.
We are also in favour of Railway Extension, Bitter Beer, Irelity at Elections, Raw Oysters and Universal Suffrage.
If elected we will advocate the appointment of four Sheriffs and six Registers for each County, with power to add to their number.
We will legislate in favour of Confederation, Annexation, Separation, Defamation, or any other action that may turn up.
We are in favour of the Labour Question, but don't know which side of the question we are on at present; will probably be able to tell after the election. We may not uphold Knights of Labour, but neither do we uphold Days of Labour. By the way, speaking of days of Labour reminds us that we are not as much vexed with orders in our Custom Tailoring Department as we were last month, and can give especial attention to all orders received.
A special reduction will be made to all intelligent voters up to the 22nd inst., and no questions asked.
Vote early and often—we mean camel early and come often.
"Sic semper tyrannis." God save the Queen.
