'Bow, wow, Bow!' cried the clerk with all his power, as he saw them preparing to resume their work.

'Confound the dog!' exclaimed both, 'Never mind; go ahead; Bill, and get it open now. I'll fix him when we get in.'

The burglar addressed as Bill turust his hand in once more to wrench off the last piece of wood that obstructed their entrance, when the clerk, having already armed himself with a large, pair of pincers, seized the robber's hand as though in a vice, and set up such an outrageous barking that the whole neighborhood was alarmed.

'For heaven's sake, Jack, lend us a hand here; the cursed sound is biting my hand off!' said the burglar to his confederate.

'Pull it away—pull it away, quick!'

Pull it away-pull it away, quick !'

Pull it away, quick!"

'I can't.'

Give it a jerk!' said the other.'

'U-o-o-! I can't, Murder, murder.

This cry, added to the bellowing of the supposed dog as not brought the police in good carnest, and the one who was at liberty to do so, ran for his life. The policeman's lights shewed that Bill Sikes had been bitten by a pair of pincers! He passed five years of his life. ACCIDENTS

BY ROAD, RIVER, OR BALKROAD:

SHOCKING I—A story is current of a shocking occurrence in Litchfield, Ct. It is stated that a citizen of that town, who was lying quite sick, was left on Monday night to the care of a single watcher—a man of the neighborhood. During the night the watcher was seized with an attack of delirium temens, and in his frenzy assaulted the helpless invalid and beat him to death! When the sick chamber was entered at an early hour in the morning, the madman was found dragging the cerpse of his victim about the floor, kicking and stamping upon it. The head of the dead man was shockingly cut and manyled. The maniac murderer was with difficulty secured, manifesting a savage determination to continue his work of violence, and shouting frantically his intention to 'get the devil out of him.'

The clerk permitted them to go on awhile uninterrupted, knowing that at any time he could stop their efforts by crying out, but he hoped to hear some watchman passing the front of the store, whom he could call to secure the roques, and resolved to wait for this until it would do to wait no longer. But soon the burglars had so much enlarged the hole that they would shortly be able to enter it them selves.

Seeing that he must do something to stop them, the clerk crept into the dark closet at one side of the window, and uttered a fierce but low growl in limitation of the dog. Both of the rogues stepped back at this unexpected interruption.

'Hang it, Bill, there is a cursed dog interruption.
