

Business Cards.

LIVER & MACDONALD,
Barristers and Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors, Notaries Public, &c. Office—Corner of Wyandham and Quebec Streets, up stairs, Guelph, Ont. (dw)

DR. BROCK,
OFFICE AND RESIDENCE
Directly opposite Chalmers' Church,
QUEBEC STREET. (dw)

FREDERICK BISCOE, Barrister and Attorney at Law, Solicitor in Chancery, Conveyancer, &c. Guelph. Office, corner of Wyandham and Quebec Streets. (dw)

AUSTIN G. CHADWICK, Barrister and Attorney at Law, Solicitor in Chancery, &c. Market Place, Guelph. Office entrance next door to the Queen's Hotel. (dw)

STEPHEN BOULE, Architect, Contractor and Builder. Working Mill, and every kind of Joiner's Work prepared for the trade and the public. The Factory is on Quebec street, Guelph. (dw)

CHARVER & HATHERLY, Contractors, Well Sinkers and General Jobbers. Excavations of all kinds undertaken by the day or job. (dw)

WILLIAM J. PATERSON,
Official Assignee for the County of Wellington. (dw)

THORP'S HOTEL, GUELPH, remodelled and newly furnished. Good accommodation for commercial travellers. Free omnibus to and from all trains. First-class liquors in connection. Proprietor, May 1st, JAS. A. THORP. (dw)

LEMON & PETERSON,
Barristers and Attorneys at Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers and Notaries Public. (dw)

CHAS. LEMON, H. W. PETERSON,
Attorneys at Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers and Notaries Public. Office, over the Bank of Commerce, Guelph. (dw)

GUTHRIE, WATT & CUTTEN,
Barristers, Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery. GUELPH, ONTARIO. (dw)

F. STURDY,
House, Sign, & Ornamental Painter
GRAINER AND PAPER-HANGER.
Shop next to the Wellington Hotel, Wyndham Street, Guelph. (dw)

JOHN KIRKHAM,
Silver Plate and Brass Finisher
All orders promptly attended to. Shop—opposite Chalmers' Church, Quebec street, Guelph. (dw)

NEW COAL YARD.
The undersigned having opened a Coal Yard in Guelph is prepared to furnish all kinds of Hard and Soft Coal
At moderate prices. Orders left at the store of John A. Wood, opposite Wyandham Street, will be promptly attended to. GEO. MURTON. Guelph, Nov. 1, 1872. (dw)

J. MARRIOTT,
Veterinary Surgeon,
M.B.C.V.S., L., H.P.V.M.A.,
Having lately arrived in Guelph from England, and taken up his residence here, he is continuing the practice of his profession. Orders left at the Veterinary Office, or at H. A. Kirkland's, Paisley Street, opposite Howard's new foundry, will be promptly attended to. Having had great experience in all diseases of Horses and Cattle, and cases placed under his treatment will receive the greatest attention. Charges moderate. Guelph, Oct. 19, 1872. (dw)

DR. ROBERT CAMPBELL,
Licentiate of Dental Surgery, Established 1864. Office next door to the "Advertiser" Office, Wyandham-st., Guelph. Residence opposite Mr. Boul's Factory, Quebec Street. Teeth extracted without pain. References: Drs. Clarke, Tuck, McGilver, Herod, McCreary, and Cowan; Guelph; Drs. Buchan and Phillips, Toronto; Drs. Elliot, & Meyers, Hamilton. Toronto. (dw)

W. M. FOSTER, L.D.S.,
SURGEON DENTIST, GUELPH.
Office over E. Hargy's Drug Store, Corner of Wyandham and Macdonald-sts., Guelph. Nitrous Oxide (laughing gas) administered for the extraction of teeth without pain, which is perfectly safe and reliable. References kindly permitted to Drs. Herod, Clarke, Tuck, McGilver, Keating, Cowan and McGilver, Guelph; W. K. Graham, Dentist, Hamilton. (dw)

G. FITTING
—AND—
STEAM FITTING
Done in the best style and most workmanlike manner.

AT HOWARD'S
All kinds of Fixtures made to order on the shortest notice.

Changing Pipes, &c. or Repairs
Done on the shortest notice. (dw)

NELLES, ROMAIN & CO.,
CANADA HOUSE,
General Commission Merchant
AND SHIPPERS,
34 South Clinton St., Chicago, Ill.

References: Sir John Ross, Banker, London; England; F. W. Thomas, Esq., Banker, Montreal; The Marine Company of Chicago, Bankers; Ross & Carter, London, Ontario; Messrs. Gault Bros., Merchants, Montreal; Senator Frank Smith, (Frank Smith & Co.) Toronto; J. Morton Miller, Esq., P.M., (late of J. N. Miller & Co., Commission Merchants Chicago); Walter Winton, Esq., Banker, New York; D. Hutchins, Esq., Treasurer, Joseph Whitehead, Esq., M.P., Ontario; Chas. Maxwell, Esq., N. P. Hamilton; Guelph, 1st, 1872. (dw)

New Advertisements.

TWO GENTLEMEN WANTED—As Boarders in a private family. Apply at this office. 10417

WANTED—A furnished room with attendance, without board. Enquire at this office. 1443

TO LET—A house situated on the R.C. Globe. Apply to Messrs McMillan & O'Connor, Barristers, Guelph, Jan. 4-6. JOHN HOBSMAN, Trustee.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS—All parties having claims against the Estate of William Brownlow, undertaker, Guelph, will please send them in to the undersigned, Jan. 4-6. JOHN HOBSMAN, Trustee.

TO LET—The large room over the MERCURY OFFICE, formerly used as a Temperance Hall. Suitable for an office or for any light manufacturing purpose, subject to the approval of the County Council. 144

EDUCATIONAL.
MRS. BOOD
Begs to announce that her School and Music Classes will re-open on MONDAY, Jan. 6th, 1873. 12-43

NOTICE!
DR. BROCK has placed his accounts in the hands of Messrs. Hart & Spiers, who are empowered to collect the same and give receipts therefor. All parties owing will please call at their office, No. 4, Day's Block, and settle at once. DR. L. BROCK. Guelph, Dec. 24th, 1872. 1243-3w

NEW BUTCHER SHOP.
The public are respectfully informed that the undersigned has opened a great shop in Baiter Street, and will supply customers with meat of the best quality, at the lowest rates. Meat delivered in any part of the Town. CHAS. FENNELLS. Guelph, Dec. 20, 1872. (dw)

FOR SALE—Lot 71, on Wyandham Street, known as the Blacksmith Shop Lot. Clear title and immediate possession given. Also, a first-class stone house to rent. Apply to Denis Coffey, Guelph, December 27th, 1872. (dw)

TO THE FREE AND INDEPENDENT ELECTORS OF THE WEST WARD.
The undersigned has been requested by a number of influential ratepayers to offer himself for the Office of Councillor. He would therefore respectfully solicit the suffrages of the Voters at the ensuing election. JOHN TYSON. Dec. 21st, 1872. (dw)

AUCTION SALE.
There will be sold without reserve, on Friday, the 10th day of January, 1873, at noon, at the Great Western Hotel, in Guelph, pursuant to the power of sale in a chattel mortgage, made by Messrs. Tyson & Young, two billiard tables made by Bill & May, Toronto, and also a brown horse. Terms Cash. GUTHRIE, WATT & CUTTEN, Guelph, Dec. 31, 1872. (dw)

BAGS AND WASTE PAPER.
Wanted, and must be had by the 1st of January. Fifty Tons of Waste Paper, old Newspapers, old Pamphlets, or Waste Paper of any kind, which will be paid for at the highest price in the Dominion. Will be paid for at the Bag and Waste Paper Depot, corner of King and Queen Streets. Address "BAGS or WASTE PAPER," 214 and 216 King Street West. Will receive from 1 lb. to 100 lbs. D. MURPHY. Hamilton Dec. 14, 1872. (dw)

DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP.
The firm of Oliver, Macdonald & Oler, Barristers, Attorneys and Solicitors, carrying on business at Guelph and Fergus, is hereby dissolved by mutual consent. All liabilities of the firm will be paid by Messrs. Oliver & Macdonald, to whom all debts due the firm are to be paid. R. OLIVER, A. R. MACDONALD, EDWARD OLER. Witness: THOS. A. W. GORDON. Dated at Guelph, 30th Nov., 1872. (dw)

WANTED—A FEW FIRST-CLASS Cabinet Makers; Also, a quantity of Oak and Birch, or Cherry Lumber, Sized to order. BURLI & SKINNER. Guelph, Dec. 31, 1872. (dw)

CURLING RINK NOW OPEN
Tickets to be had of CHAS. DAVIDSON, Secretary. Also, a SKATING CARNIVAL Every Friday Evening until further notice. ADMISSION—15 cents each. Children of members or ticket holders admitted to the rink on Saturdays, from 9 to 1, p.m., free of charge. CHAS. DAVIDSON, Secretary. Guelph, Jan. 2, 1873. (dw)

WEEK OF PRAYER.
JANUARY 5-12, 1873.
Union services in observance of the week of prayer will, D.V., be held in this town as follows: Monday evening, Jan. 6th St. Andrew's Church, 7:30. Tuesday evening, Jan. 7th, Congregational Church, 7:30. Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 8th, Knox Church, 4:30. Wednesday evening, Jan. 8th, Primitive Methodist Church, 7:30. Thursday evening, Jan. 9th, annual Meeting Bible Society, Wesleyan Methodist Church, 7:30. Friday evening, Jan. 10th, First Presbyterian Church, 7:30. Saturday evening, Jan. 11th, Baptist Church, 7:30. See Ministerial Association, Guelph, Dec. 31, 1872. (dw)

RE-OPENING OF SCHOOLS.
The High and Public Schools, Guelph, will re-open
On Tuesday, 7th January next.
The examination of pupils applying for admission to the High School, will be held in the County Chamber, Guelph, on Monday, 7th January, 1873, beginning at 9 o'clock. All candidates to be forward at the time specified. ROBT. TORRANCE. Guelph, Dec. 29, 1872. (dw)

OPPOSITE THE MARKET, GUELPH
First-class accommodation for travellers. Commodious stabling and an attentive hostler. The best Liquors and Cigars at the bar. SEASONED OAK LUMBER.
White Oak Plank and Scantling—Various thicknesses for sale for each or in bulk. Apply to W. M. FOSTER, L. D. S., 34 South Clinton St., Chicago, Ill. Dec. 21, 1872. (dw)

RAILWAY TIME TABLE—Winter Arrangement—On after Monday, 18th November:
Grand Trunk Railway
Trains leave Guelph as follows:

WEST
2:17 a.m.; 9:45 a.m.; 1:50 p.m.; 6:00 p.m.; 8:33 p.m.
*To London, Goderich, and Detroit. To Berlin.
EAST
3:05 a.m.; 7:30 a.m.; 11:00 a.m.; 4:12 p.m. and 8:30 p.m.

Great Western—Guelph Branch.
Going South—6:50 a.m., 12:35 p.m. 1:05 p.m. for Hamilton; 4:55 p.m.
Going North—11:45 a.m. for Clifford; 1:05 p.m. for Fergus; 4:55 p.m. for Fergus; 9:05 p.m. for Fergus.

GUELPH ACADEMY.
Re-opens Thursday, Jan. 9th, 1873.
REFERENCES KINDLY FURNISHED TO Mrs. Jas. Webster, Mrs. Dr. Clarke, Col. Hall, Capt. Gordon, N. Higginbotham, M.P., John Horsman, Esq., John Mickle, Esq., H. V. Thomas, Esq., Thomas W. Saunders, Esq., P.M., Hugh Walker, Esq. 12-dim

Guelph Evening Mercury
SATURDAY EVENING, JAN. 4, 1873

Town and County News.
Mr. George Hall, blacksmith, has been appointed postmaster of Clyde, and will assume the duties of that office in a few days.

The Bible Class in connection with the Baptist Church, Elora, made a presentation to their pastor, Rev. J. Gerrie, on the 27th ult.

The January thaw appears to have been experienced generally throughout Canada. We learn from Montreal, Quebec, Ottawa, and other places, that the winter has become exceedingly mild.

FINAL AUCTION SALE.—To be sure and go to P. C. Allan's closing sale to-night. There will be great bargains in crockery-ware, glassware, crockets, albums, books, fancy goods, &c. As the goods must all be cleared out, they will be had at your own prices.

MAN KILLED ON THE RAILWAY.—We learn that a valuable horse, belonging to Mr. James Hudson, Guelph Township, was struck by a passing train and killed, on Thursday evening last. Mr. Hudson had been at the blacksmith's near Henderson's crossing, and while in the shop the horse went off, and got to the crossing just as a train was passing. The engine struck and killed one of the horses, and, strange to say, the other one was scarcely, if at all, injured.

COAL FIRES.—Never fill the stove more than half or two thirds full of coal, in the coldest weather. When the fire is low, never shake the grate or disturb the ashes, but add from ten to fifteen small lumps of coal, and so let the draft open. When these are heated through, and somewhat ignited, add the amount necessary to a new fire, but do not disturb the ashes yet. Let the draft be open half-an-hour. Now shake out the ashes. The coal will be thoroughly ignited, and will keep the stove at a high heat for six or twelve hours, according to the coldness of the weather. In very cold weather, after the fire is made, add fuel every hour.

Mr. Tyson and the West Ward.
Mr. Tyson requests us to insert the following letter:
To the Editor of THE MERCURY:
Dear Sir,—Permit me through the columns of your popular and liberal journal to contradict certain statements that are being made by rival candidates concerning Mr. Tyson's candidature for the West Ward. It is plain, if not self-evident, that he is not qualified for the position, because he is a tenant under the Corporation, being a lessee of a stall in the market. 2nd. That he is an alien.
Now, sir, the first statement is absolutely incorrect. There is no lease at present subsisting between Mr. Tyson and the Corporation, and when the proper time comes he will be able to show indisputably that he is qualified for the position he seeks. The second statement is a falsehood. Mr. Tyson has been a citizen of this Country and subject of Her Majesty's law for twenty years, whereof he can produce proof, if need be.
So much, sir, for those arguments. Even if true they would be paltry, and none but badly served opponents would try to sway public opinion with such statements. If Mr. Tyson is a fit man for the position, as many of us think he is, let us elect him, if not let the fact be shown upon fair, square grounds.
I remain, sir,
Yours truly,
FAIR PLAY.
Guelph, Jan. 3rd, 1873.

Invitation for a Week of United Prayer
The Evangelical Alliance of England have issued an Address, and the following topics are suggested as suitable for exhortation and prayer on the successive days of meeting:—
Sunday, Jan. 5.—SERMONS.—Subject: The foundation, security and universal extension of the Christian Church.
SHOCKING ACCIDENT IN HAMILTON.—The Times gives the particulars of a shocking and fatal accident which occurred there on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the alarm was a messenger which carried red lines on Friday morning. Joseph Furmen, a colored lad about eighteen years of age, was lying on the box covering the engine which works a portable sawing machine at the Great Western Station. While the engine was at its highest speed, and everything apparently safe, suddenly, with a sort of explosion, the fly-wheel parted in two large pieces, which flew through the board platform, as if it were paper. One went up in the air, and with the noise of a chain-shot, pursued a shrieking parabola in the air, over the depot, over the heads of many passengers awaiting the departure of the morning train, and fell into the bay beyond the emigrant wharf; the other flew up over the Bay street bridge, and lodged in the ground. The one that had plunged over the station and caused the