ADOLPHUS - MARCARST.

Some of the Magniticent Gifts to the Young Couple

From Royalty-a New House from the Duke-Greatest Social Event of the Year.

CHESTER, England, Dec. 12.-The mariage of Prince Adolphus of Teck, brother of the Duchess of York, to Lady Grosvenor third daughter of the Duke of Westmin ster, said to be the richest man in England, is regarded as the great social event of the year, and Eaton Hall, where the ceremony took place, is the most splendid of all the stately homes of England.

Lady Margaret was attended by six bridesmaids, all chosen from her own family. Lady Margaret wore a splendid white satin gown, Brussels lace, and the ever necessary orange blossoms. The bridesmaids were dressed in white, thick-corded Glace Ondyn silk, which had a very rich appearance. Their dresses had pointed vests of white pleated chiffon, lost beneath girdles of pale, sky-blue velvet. The vests were bordered down either side with bands of thick, cream colored Italian lace. They wore folded collars of blue velvet, narrowly edged with sable, and the long narrow cuffs from the elbows were finished with bands of blue velvet narrowly edged with similar fur. The top portion of the sleeves, arranged in ample hanging puffs from the shoulders to the elbows, were of accordion-pleated chiffon, having bands of the lace inserted down them at intervals. The little girls' dresses were similar in all respects, save that the whole bodies were of accordion-pleated chiffon, with points of the rich-looking, cream-colored ace inserted down both body and sleeves; while instead of velvet girdles the child bridesmaids wore sashes of pale sky-blue silk, tied at the back in large, handsome bows. The hats were of ivory-white felt, with soft round Tudor crowns of pale sky-blue velvet. The brims were lifted up at one side and caught up with groups of snowy ostrich plumes, while similar plumes were laid on the brim at the back. The bridesmaids wore heart brooches of blue and white enamel from the bridegroom. The only deviation from the pale blue and white-white being the favorite color of the bride-was in the bouquets of the bridesmaids, which were of pink carnations from the Eaton Hall conser-

THE PRESENTS. The wedding presents were numerous and of a costliness in accordance with the high positions of the donors. Conspicuously and rather incongruously placed was a huge Cheshire cheese, which recently won the prize at the Cheshire dairy show, and which was presented by the Dairy Farmers' Association of Cheshire.

Queen Victoria sent by special messenger from Windsor Castle a diamond brooch and a huge silver salver, accompanied by a congratulatory letter of the most cordial description, which was considered a very special mark of royal favor, given probably because Lady Margaret's father is one of her Majesty's aides-de-camp. A handsome box of silverware was sent with best wishes from Albert Edward, Alexandra, May MacDuft and Victoria and Maud.

The Duke and Duchess of York presented the bride with a superb princess' oronet, a circle of gold bordered with ermine, with fleurs de lis, crosses pattee antl strawberry leaves alternately. The Princess of Wales sent a diamond and pearl crescent and a flag brooch, The Duchess of Teck gave a bracelet with rose diamonds and a daisy brooch in diamonds. The Duke of Teck gave a diamond brooch. The Duke of Westminster gave a collar of pearls and diamonds; and also presented the young couple with one of his grace's new houses in Carlos Place. Lord Rothschild sent a magnificent silver flower basket, and Baroness Burdett-Coutts a uniquely perfect set of Chincilla furs. There were literally tables full of other beautiful and costly things, Lady Margaret receiving 350 and Prince Adolphus 115, ranging from houses, horses and carriages all through the catalogue of valuables down to Mr. Gladstone's "Gleanings from Past

Years" in nine volumes. The princess' 'going away" gown was of blue glace velvet, trimmed handsomely with exquisite sables—a dress that cer-tainly set off her fair, blushing face and golden hair to the best advantage.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS

Meet in Annual Convention at Ridges THAMESVILLE, Dec. 12.-The annual Sunday school convention of the Ridgetown district of the Methodist Church was held here yesterday and today. Tuesday morning the opening exercises were led by

Rev. Mr. Parsons. A large number of schools were reported to be in a flourishing condition. Rev. Mr. Holmes, of Florence, discussed "The Object of Conventions" in a manner highly creditable to himself and profitable to the audience. At 3 p.m. a mass meeting of the children was addressed by Rev. Mr. Philp and W. E. Gundy, barrieter, of Ridgetown.

At the evening session many valuable papers and addresses were enjoyed by an everflowing house. This morning there was a fair attendance. Many important topics were discussed, chief among which were the use of Sunday school literature; of a more healthy moral throughout our schools, and that papers be bought of our own publishers and not of American. The convention then Millions In It. Boston, Mass., Dec. 12.—The directors of the American Bell Telephone Company today declared the regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent and an extra dividend of 11 per cent, the latter "out of surplus earnings of the six months ending Dec. 31."

Murdered for Her Insurance. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 12.—Evi-dence is now well in hand to the effect that Harry Hayward was the local member of an insurance swindling gang whose operations extende d over the country. The police are, however, looking for at least three others who are wanted in connection with the murder of Catherine Ging. The insurance on Miss Ging's life is now said to have been $25,000 instead of $10,000. Thousands of cases of rheumatism have been cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. This is abund antreason for belief that it will cure you.
