The public is eating.

A man may wear his last year's overcoat turned. But the day comes when it is beyond restoration. He may have his old shoes repaired. But mended shoes don't last forever.

He can put off buying just so long. Then he is forced to buy. And it isn't a question of WHETHER he will buy, but HOW and WHERE he will buy.

That is the situation facing the manufacturer today. The public is buying. Not, it is true, as it bought a year or two ago. Not extravagantly or wastefully; but carefully, thoughtfully. Buying so as to get the most for its money. Buying by trade-mark—buying through advertising.

Advertising protects the buyer. It is his guarantee of quality and his price protection. And because that is true it is the most important factor today in influenc= ing public buying decisions.

It is a wise manufacturer who recog= nizes that fact—and acts upon it. Who advertises consistently today, not only to swing present-day sales but to clinch future business. Who realizes that the man wearing half-soled shoes today will be buying new shoes tomorrow, and that advertising is going to determine WHOSE shoes he will buy when he does buy them.

It is a wise manufacturer or merchant who definitely establishes his name with the public through the medium of the daily newspaper.
