Dusseldorf, Feb. 28.—The most startling feature of the Ruhr occupation is the calm complaisance with which both the French troops and the inhabitants accept the idea that there will be another Franco-German war as soon as Germany is able to

That is the ultimate answer one gets in answer to the question, "What is going to be the outcome of the occupation?"

For the immediate present a more pressing question is, "Will the French and Belgians ever get out, and on what conditions?" The correspondent has asked Premier Poincare, General De Gouette,

Herman Meyer, a grimy German mine foreman, and many persons in the invaded territory.

Premier Poincare said, "We will re-

Essence of opinion, gathered by the correspondent in Paris and in the Rhineland, leads to the belief that French ideas are swinging more strongly each day toward a policy of "security above everything else." It is felt the French and Belgians should maintain control over the Ruhr in some manner, without annexation, for a long period, thus preventing Germany getting into a position to war on France again.

E. V. Buchanan Would Pay For Neighboring White Swans Only.

"If you don't succeed once, try again," must be a civic slogan in St. Thomas, because the parks department of that city is once more mak ing a strong effort to persuade E. V Buchanan, general manager of the London public utilities, that in offering their zoo for sale to the Forest City they are submitting a gilt-edged proposition that has no earmarks of a "white elephant."

Mr. Buchanan is not greatly im pressed with the animal collection now enjoying the beauties of Pinafore Park, and said today that the only two animals in the St. Thomas menagerie which he would consider as real aquisitions to the Forest City stock farm at Springbank were the white swans. It happens, however, that the neighboring officials are loath to part with these birds, and until they change their mind, the general manager inferred that all negotiations were off between the departments of the two cities. Mr. Buchanan explained further that the local zoo authorities had not developed as yet the bad habit of purchasing animals to graze at Spring oank. He considers, however, the S Thomas white swans to be the "rea hing," and declared he would pay the price asked, if the authorities in that city were willing to sell.

The utilities manager suggested who are in the habit of making trips to the north country every now and
