Mrs. Lizzie Almas

Here Is the Reason Why Canada Has So Many Healthy Women!

Toronto, Ont.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can be relied upon as a woman's medicine. I found it so very beneficial that I do not hesitate to recommend it to others who suffer. I had suffered with a severe nervous breakdown, caused through my having feminine weakness. I had no control whatever over my nerves, could not sleep and I suffered with backaches and pains extending down into my limbs. I also had severe heart-down pains. I was a physical and nervous wreck when I was advised to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It put me right on my feet and removed all the trouble. My nerves became strong and I did not suffer any more with any of the above ailments."—Mrs. Lizzie Almas, No. 235 Ontario St.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG body Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair turned that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will receive a bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say everybody uses Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound because it deters no naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use. You simply wash your hair with a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By massaging the hair with this mixture, after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.—Adv.

ITCHING ECZEMA DRIED RIGHT UP BY THIS SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and discomfort. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like a cold cream.—Adv.

Has Your Husband Got Indigestion?

Nothing creates domestic discord quicker than an attack of indigestion, and nothing gets rid of indigestion quicker than Bisurated Magnesia. No man can be a good husband if he is good natured or even fair minded when his stomach is constantly full of gas, bloated and upset with after-eating distress. If your husband has stomach trouble neither acid nor indigestion, it is safe, prompt and sure and it can be obtained at small cost from any reliable drug store.—Adv.

PREMIER TO URGE ADOPTION OF BRITISH PLAN WITH BILLS TO CURTAIL SENATE POWER

Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King Outlines Proposed Plan To Curb Activities of Upper House Chamber—Senators Powerless When Commons Pass Any Measure Twice.

CLAIMS CONSTITUTION MUST BE AMENDED

Canadian Press Despatch. Port Arthur, Ont., Oct. 1.—Reiteration of his proposal to curtail the powers of the Canadian Senate was made tonight in his address in Port William and Port Arthur by Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, prime minister of Canada, who opened his Western tour. Mr. King suggested an amendment to the constitution by which a measure which twice had passed the House of Commons could not be refused by the Senate on its third presentation. Such an amendment would bring the Canadian practice into line with that of the British parliament.

Mr. King and his colleagues, Hon. Charles Stewart, Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, and Hon. H. B. McGivern, addressed two audiences which totalled probably 2,500 persons, it is estimated. Mr. King defended the general policy of his government, and declared the lack of any demand for a general election was evidence of satisfaction. There would be no election this year, but there might be the next year or the year after.

Only National Policy. He said the government's fiscal policy was the only one which could be called truly national. It was founded on the development of natural resources, not in the interests of one province or one class, but for the whole dominion and sound economic principles. The prime minister declared the government has practiced economy in administration, and balanced its budget, reduced taxation and produced a genuine surplus. The prime minister refused to be alarmed by reports of a movement of Canadians to the United States. Statistics would show, he said, that in the present fiscal year 50,000 Canadians in that country would return to the Dominion, and the tide was running in again strongly from Great Britain.

Mr. King referred to the "wallings and bemoanings and berating" of Mr. Meighen as an obstacle in the way of immigration. "The European horizon," said Mr. King, "is brighter than it has been since 1919. That is a fortunate thing for us, and we shall all feel the effect in our trade." The premier said there had grown up in Canada a "class of privileged persons, so far as taxation is concerned," made up mostly of those who during the war were able to invest large sums in tax-free victory bonds.

Defend Record. Mr. King's ministers also defended the government's record in some detail, and told what had been done for agriculture and for industry and commerce in general.

Mr. King spoke first in the Fort William city hall, and then drove to the Port Arthur armories, where a large crowd had gathered. His colleagues also addressed the two meetings. The prime minister said the purpose of the tour was to gather information of first-hand which they could agreeable to turn to account at the council table. They hoped also to be able to impart some knowledge of the government's policy to the problems of the government. To emphasize the national unity as begotten of mutual understanding in the midst of the position of Canada as a self-governing dominion of the British Empire.

The premier said he believed it to be an actual support by statistics that Canada was in a better position than any other nation on the globe. He recalled the difficulties which the government is in its financial administration. Interest on war debts was greater than total national expenditures before the war. Obligations to the war of pensions and benefits had grown out of the war and had to be met. National railway deficits formed another uncontrollable expenditure. Altogether about $200,000,000 had to be raised each year to meet fixed and uncontrollable obligations.

Mr. King pointed out the difficulties of an administration involved in the group system of membership and in the lack of assurance that government measures would pass the senate, in which their opponents had a majority.

Actions Ruthless. Bills considered of public benefit, especially to Western Canada, had passed the commons only to be thrown out ruthlessly in the upper house. "By situation is such," continued the premier, "that I think, having regard to democratic government, we are justified in saying we will introduce legislation similar to that introduced in Great Britain some years ago, and have the constitution amended so a measure which twice has been supported by the House of Commons will not be defeated by the Senate on the third occasion it is brought before parliament."

The premier said no one in Canada wanted a general election at the present time. The present government had now brought down its third budget and each had resulted in an improved condition, while the opposition showed the first national surplus in ten years. The success of the recent refunding loan was cited as evidence of financial stability. Advances to the National railways should not be added to the national debt, he insisted, and in this regard the government had made no departure from the custom of the past twenty years. Tax reductions effected by the last budget saved the people $24,000,000 in taxation.

Evidence all went to show, said Mr. King, that the country had vastly increased its export trade, while imports were slightly decreased. He believed the people were buying more of their goods at home, and consequently customs returns were somewhat lower.

Gasoline Prices Cut In Province

Further Drop Possible As Crude Oil Slumps.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, Oct. 1.—Following a reduction of 15 cents per barrel on crude oil in the mid-continent field, the retail price of gasoline today dropped two cents per gallon in Toronto and several other points, where it is generally throughout Ontario, except at one or two points, where discrepancies in prices already existed. Further reductions are believed possible, as crude oil is rather weak.

DUNBROOK FAIR ONE BIG REUNION

Thousands Gather For Annual Get-Together and Exhibit at Dorchester.

Special to The Advertiser by Staff Correspondent.

Dorchester, Oct. 1.—Dunbrooke fair, which has the reputation of being the classic of the rural fairs of Western Ontario, today lived up to reputation, and drew a bumper crowd, numbering into the thousands.

Dunbrooke is the annual reunion point for old friends who come for scores of miles to enjoy a day together. Families make this their annual outing, and individuals hasten hither to renew old acquaintances and make new friends. While exhibits are always interesting and the amusement features strong drawing cards, there is no more outstanding feature than the reunions. All day long there was a series of hearty greetings as old friends met. Not till a late hour tonight were the streets cleared of the merry-makers, who assisted in making the fair of this year another marked success.

Weather conditions were excellent. Old King Sol was at his best, and his coming was particularly appreciated after the rain of yesterday and last night. The direct of the fair had long faces yesterday, but today they were all smiles. Early in the day the crowd began to come. The representatives of the keen interest with exhibitors eager to get their entries made and exhibits placed. Smiles became contagious, and the strenuous work was carried out without a hitch.

Exhibits Good. Exhibits this year were well up to standard in both number and quality. This was particularly true of horses, cattle and poultry. In the main building the space was taxed by exhibits of vegetables and fruits and all kinds of fancy work. The women of this section take in this annual event. Judging was not an easy matter before the full reports were available. Winners had every reason to feel particularly proud of their achievements. Those taking second or lower places or even not in the winners list had no reason to feel at all discouraged for they had given the winners "a run for their money."

Dunbrooke always has many amusement features, and this year was no exception. All available space was taken up with sideshows and games of skill, which attracted young and old alike. Peanuts, popcorn and hot lemonade played the day a success, while dogs were eagerly purchased, particularly by the younger generation. Dunbrooke must be a place to visit without these features. Then the rows of midway attractions where one could get a fortune told or try skill at throwing the ball or the rings for kewpie dolls or other prizes. The hawking of the concessionaires, the cheering of the winners and the means and grounds of the losers added to glamor and clamor of the day. The strong man had his opportunity to get a cigar by ringing the bell at the top of the high post. Many of the mighty fell short of the prize and were roundly laughed at by the onlookers, because the chap in charge, though less husky in appearance, could ring the bell at will.

Hither and thither the crowd surged, from one attraction to another, and in the midst of it all old friends met and insisted on recalling the days of long ago and the success of previous fairs. Rule by Women. Naturally the main building contained the special features which attracted the women folk, and more than half a dozen "ladies" were in charge of the crowd to have a peep at the vegetables. Fancywork of all kinds was displayed, and the home-baking exhibits drew many words of praise with the usual amount of suggestion and criticism. Another milestone has been marked by Dunbrooke fair and the thousands who come for this annual event are now beginning to plan for the show of next year, all determined that each year shall see some improvement over the past, and also definitely decided that whatever else may be missed during the year Dunbrooke must be a place to visit.

Internal Vs. External. There is a difference between what are called internal foreign governments and external loans. The internal loan is payable in the currency of the country, while the external loan is payable in the currency of the country where they are issued. There is a vast difference as is obvious on the face of it and investors should check this up before placing any money in German bonds.

Moody's Opinion. John Moody of Moody's Investment Service issued a letter on the "Rise and Fall of the German Mark" on September 1924. In this letter he goes into the whole question in detail, giving legal authority for his statements. In conclusion he sums up as follows: "Considering the situation from all possible angles, we find it difficult to account for the meteoric rise in German bonds and still more to justify it. We cannot help feeling that these securities are for all practical purposes worthless and that only by a miracle could their real value be enhanced. We cannot conceive of how any one can imagine for a moment that the financial assistance to Germany could result in such an appreciation in paper marks that the interest payments on the bonds will some day repay the cost of collection."

Moody quotes an article from the London Times. "The gamble in German bonds," it says, "there can hardly be a doubt in the mind of any one who has followed the course of the mark in Germany that the consequences equally distressing and disastrous to participants."

A Pure Gamble. Moody's letter quotes lengthy legal articles from German statute books showing as he says that theoretically there may perhaps be some sort of an adjustment of Germany's pre-war indebtedness, but that in practice it is to build up an argument in this connection. "For all practical purposes, however," writes Moody, "any hope of recovering an appreciable part of the pre-war value of such obligations is bound to be thwarted. No serious-minded person will consider any security as possessing intrinsic merit which moves from 720 to 1,800, declining to 850 only two days thereafter, or an issue which during the same period advanced from 625 to 1,900, then dropping to 1,400."

It is plain that those who purchase German government internal bonds participate in a pure gamble. If they are bought from this standpoint well and good, they are lost. If they are bought from the standpoint of the investor is likely to repent at leisure.

ASQUITH SCORES LABOR'S ACTIONS

Much Excitement in Political Circles Over Attitude Toward Sedition Charge.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Oct. 1.—Liberal members of parliament displayed a critical attitude towards the government at a party meeting today which was presided over by the Liberal leader, H. H. Asquith. The dropping of the sedition charge against J. R. Campbell, editor of the Communist weekly, The Workers' Weekly, and the question of the Anglo-Russian treaty were discussed at length.

Mr. Asquith indicated that if a vote of censure were tabled in connection with the Campbell case it ought to receive Liberal support on the strength of the explanation so far given in parliament for the dropping of the prosecution. Mr. Asquith should table a motion in parliament expressing readiness on the part of Liberals to support practical, businesslike steps to improve the Anglo-Russian trade relations, but opposing the treaty in its present proposed form on financial and other grounds.

NOTED STOCKMAN CLAIMED BY DEATH

Anthony Hughes Was Born Near Strathroy—Ill For Several Months.

Special to The Advertiser.

Sarnia, Oct. 1.—The death occurred today at the Sarnia general hospital left on a motor trip for many years proprietor of the Myrtle Lodge dairy and stock farm. Mr. Hughes was aged 68 years, and for the last nine months had been suffering from an incurable disease. He was widely known as the owner of fine herds of purebred Ayrshire and Jersey cattle. He was born near Strathroy and came to the Myrtle Lodge farm about twenty years ago. He was also a well-known member of the Methodist church in Sarnia township.

Survivors are the widow, four daughters, Mrs. Charles C. Johnson of Parry Sound, Mrs. Charles Leckie of Sarnia, Mrs. John Braden of Detroit, and Miss Mary, nurse-in-training at Saginaw, Mich., and three sons, Thomas in Manitoba, Wilfred, Sarnia township and Dalton at home. The funeral will be held from the family residence, Sarnia township, on Friday to the Strathroy cemetery.

The S. S. Huronic left Duluth last evening for Port Arthur and Point Edward, carrying 1,250 tons of flour, and is due here Friday morning, according to word received by the Northern Navigation Company today. Scare rumors concerning the safety of the Huronic on the present trip are quite groundless.

The wedding took place today of Helen Addah, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Taylor, Queen street south, and Dr. William J. Bentley, Dr. J. J. Patterson performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Bentley left on a motor trip for Toronto and points east. Two civil cases entered for trial at a sitting of the Lambton county court were traversed to later dates. The case of Fischer versus Robinson was continued to October 21, and November 17 was fixed as the date for the trial of the suit of McLean versus Aylmer.

BOTH SIDES MARK TIME IN PLEBISCITE CAMPAIGN

Special to The Advertiser.

Tillsonburg, Oct. 1.—Both sides in the plebiscite campaign are simply marking time by going over the voters' lists and preparing for a big drive the last week of the campaign. The court of appeal will be held here on Thursday, October 9, and present indications are that a very few names will be presented by either organization, as the list was pretty thoroughly completed a couple of months ago.
