Monday Morning, May 12, 1884.

It seems highly probable that when the record of 1884 has been completed, the democratic free trade faction at Washington will prove to have been the event of the year.

As far as regards the war between protection and free trade, the American press, all shades of economic opinion included, has been hammering away at the great vote of nearly two weeks ago in the house, and the subject is not yet exhausted.

Many and various are the theories of the situation which are offered by our American contemporaries. To a certainty the weakened party must be considerably weakened in this year's contest by its failure to agree upon a trade policy for the country, and this is evidently felt by many journals that do not like to admit the fact in so many words.

The present controversy between the pope and the freemasons is only an incident in a long-standing dispute. The Roman catholic church opposes all secret societies, and regards the freemasons as the most dangerous, because the most powerful of these organizations.

Whatever may be said of the freemasons of France, Germany and Italy, the freemasons of America are in no way allied with political conspirators or religious sects.

The laxity of the United States divorce laws has become so scandalous that many church organizations are seeking to stem the tide which threatens to wash away the foundations of the social system.

The Grant & Ward failure in New York is turning out a far bigger one than was at first imagined. A prevailing estimate is that the losses will foot up to something like ten million dollars.

The Greeley grants. Gen. Grant and his family are the self-concocted victims of inordinate greed. Enriched by the gratitude and generosity of their fellow countrymen, they were not content with a liberal income from legitimate investments, but must needs seek the large profits and quick returns which are sometimes made by stock gambling.

Senator Edmunds has introduced a bill placing Gen. Grant upon the army retired list, with a salary or pension of $19,000 per annum. The bill will probably carry, as no opposition to it need be looked for from the republicans, and the democrats will be deterred from opposing it for fear of being taunted with enmity to the conqueror of the South.

It is a main fact in the case that the territorial areas in not contracting, but in on the contrary rapidly extending. The old story used to be some what as follows: Protection does indeed hold possession of the ground in New England and in Pennsylvania.

New York. Bituminous coal furnaces, and various industries that thrive well in proximity to them, have in a dozen years transformed Indiana from a democratic to a republican state.

Chicago, and to get a free trade vote from the state of Illinois is now an impossibility. The development of manufactures in St. Paul and Minneapolis has made Minnesota all but "solid" for protection.

The Hamilton Spectator thinks that it is absurd "to talk about washing water." We can assure our contemporary that washing water is in considerable demand hereabouts. What the Hamiltonians wash with we cannot undertake to say.

The Almanac and the poets inform us that this is the month of May, but it looks and feels a good deal more like the showery month of April. If, however, the present coolness and moisture be succeeded by a dry warm spell there will be a rustle of green things growing in the land.

The Montreal Herald says that the withdrawal of Sir Charles Tupper may mean the downfall of the conservative party. Although written in Montreal it is a maritime province opinion, and will not be subscribed to in Ontario.

adopted in some Swedish cities, where the liquor shops are limited to a very few in number, and no private individual is permitted to embark in the trade, the profits of which all go into the public purse.

The license law of Ontario is a pretty good one, but it is not enforced with sufficient vigor. Another need in this country is an efficient inspection of the liquor sold.
