BRIEFLETS.

🕶 Rev. Father Gaire came down from La Grande Clairière last Wednesday.

The Southeastern Railway began running regular trains yesterday. The people of St. Ann's mark this as a red-letter day.

His Grace the Archbishop of Montreal, who was expected here about the middle of December, has posponed his visit to some later date.

Answer to the Rev. J. McD.-Father Gerard's book is soon to have a second and improved edition. Many thanks for praise of our numbers 16 and 17.

The Very Rev. Mother Olivier and Rev. Mother Martin of the Ascension left last week for Oregon and the Pacific coast where they will visit the houses of the Order of Jesus and Mary.

In a few days Rev. Father Lacombe, O.M.I., will give a lecture on "How to become an Indian Chief" in the hall of the Cercle Ville-Marie in Montreal. We envy his hearers the treat they will then enjoy.

His Grace Archbishop Langevin returned from Rat Portage last Wednesday evening and left the next morning for St. Laurent, Man., where he will spend eight or ten days making his annual retreat.

The popular mayor of Winnipeg, Mr. Andrews, has received requisitions from over two thousand ratepayers asking him to accept the nomination again. If he consents, he will very likely be elected by acclamation.

The Yukon map the receipt of which we acknowledged last week and mentioned as coming direct from the Minister of the Interior was, we since found, a is confined to the heading; the body of the article merely says that St. John's is the oldest English college in the west.

In his address to the English pilgrims, Oct. 14 th, the Pope referred to his visit to London fifty years ago and his meeting with Queen Victoria and Prince Albert, Lord Palmerston, Lord Aberdeen, and others. The pilgrims made an offering of about £70 as Peter's Pence. The statement of a correspondent of the daily press that the Holy Father's increasing debility created a painful impression on the English visitors does not accord with the report of our representative, who says the Pontiff looked even better and stronger a the end of the somewhat fatiguing function than at the beginning .- L'pool Cath. Times.

The notorious anti-Catholic lecturer, Slattery, has, it appears, returned to England. He is advertised to lecture at Bristol on Monday next. We hope Catholics will make his history known to the Protestants of that city. A certain Pastor Corneloup, described as an "ex-French priest" (!) is advertised to lecture to night (Friday) at Blackburn. Perhaps some of our readers may be able to give information as to his career. Ex-convict Widdows is to lecture against Rome at Hope Hall, Liverpool, on November 4th. It is expected that in the course of some time all the gaol birds of Europe, Asia, Africa, America, and Oceania will be on the road as Protestant lecturers against the rascalities of "Rome."-L'pool Cath. Times.

MCDONALD-DAVIES.

On Wednesday morning a simple yet impressive cevemony took place at St. Mary's, when Mr. Hugh Mc Donald, son of Mr. J. McDonald of West Selkirk, and Miss Bessie Davies, daughter of the late John C. Davies, formerly of Tillington, Hereford, England, were united in the bonds of Holy Matrimony. The nuptial Mass was celebrated and the matrimonal knot tied by the Rev. Father McCarthy. The bride, who was attired in a very becoming costume of electric blue cloth trimmed with pearl and steel passementerie and blue velve and blue toque to match, was assisted the bridegroom was supported by his brotner, Mr. James Mc Donald. After the wedding the bridal party repaired to breakfast at the bride's home where a substantial repast awaited them. Father McCathy graced the board with his genial presence and added greatly to the enjoyment of those assembled.

Since Sanday the weather is bitterly cold, there is a little snow on the ground, but not enough to interfere with the summer roads, which are now splendid.

A REMINISCENCE OF COLONEL JOHNSTON.

The recent death of Colonel Richard Malcolm Johnston, the well known Catholic literary man, induces a writer in the Atlanta Constitution to recall the following incident, which shows the good feeling that existed between Colonel Johnston and his non-Catholic friend, Mark Twain, the celebrated humorist:

"At one time Johnston had been prvailed on to give a reading in Baltimore, and Thomas Nelson Page had volunteered to assist him. But a death in Mr. Page's family prevented him from appearing in the entertainment. Mark Twain heard of it. The people of Baltimore had long wished to have Twain appear there, but he had steadfastly refused to resume his lectures. But he went on that occasion, for he appreciated the genius of Richard Malcolm Johnston, and, desiring to honor him, he left New York at a great personal sacrifice, and appeared with him on the occasion. There was never such a crowded house in a Baltimore theatre. When the entertainment was over Colonel Johnston, with his accustomed fairness and courtesy, tendered Twain the bulk of the receipts. 'No,' said Mark, 'not one cent. It is such a great honor to know you that I am the one who owes you a debt of gratitude.' Well,' said the Colonel, 'at least let me defray your expenses.' 'I have a through ticket,' said Twain, 'Goodbye, and may God bless you.' "

If a similar spirit of good comradeship were more frequently exhibited, more of us would be living in accordance with the Golden Rule.-Sacred Heart Review.

gift from Mr. Alexandre LaRivière, to whom we now offer our best thanks.

Rev. Father Lebret, O. M. I., arrived from Macleod at the Archbishop's house last Sunday morning. We regret to learn that the zealous missionary, so well known in Winnipeg, is condemned to absolute rest. He is now seventy years of age.

The Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post send us a puff of the late Harold Frederic's posthumous novel, "The Market Place," which, the S.E.P assures assures us, "is destined to be the book of the year". Before we endorse that sentiment we want to see the book. "Don't prophesy until you know."

In the absence of Mr. I. Pitblado, his partner, Mr. Joseph Bernier, is presiding over the primary law examinations. This responsible post reflects great credit on so young a lawyer and confirms the hopes entertained of him when he graduated at the head of his class a little more than five years ago.

The heading of the Telegram's fine article on St. John College is misleading. The title of "PioneerEducational Institution of the West" really belongs to St.Boniface College which antedates St. John's by several years. This ing parents and other friends. The ceremony was rendered doubly interesting to Catholics from the fact that the contracting parties are members of old Catholic families which have ever remained true to the Faith and in bygone years have borne up against the storms of persecution, vielding not their vantage ground, but standing firmly in the shadow of that Cross planted on the hill of Calvary so many centuries ago. Such unions are the consalation of the zealous priest and the hope of the Church's future.-Com.

At last our threshing machines are put into winter quarters. All the threshing at St. Pie is done, and almost all at Letellier. Some of our farmers were getting very anxious about their grain, but three nearly fine weeks settled the matter for everybody. The harvest has been bountiful, and things are generally prosperous. It is rumored that a bazaar will shortly be held at Letellier. On Tuesday, Nov. the 22, Mr. Joseph Fortier was united in the bonds of Holy Matrimony to Mademoiselle Maria Proulx, both of St. Pie. The happy pair will pass the winter at the bridegroom's father's and next spring establish themselves on their farm at Bellevue near Dufrost. The married friends of the family were invited to dine at Mr. Proulx' and to take supper at fact is recognized by the Univer-sity which gives precedence to our Catholic College.
