

Séminaire annuel des étudiants du 2^e cycle et du 3^e cycle

Pour plus de renseignements sur le quatrième Séminaire annuel des étudiants du 2^e cycle et du 3^e cycle (« La démocratie et les sociétés ouvertes peuvent-elles surmonter les causes des conflits dans un monde divisé? » qui a eu lieu du 29 avril au 3 mai 2002) prière de consulter le site Internet du Centre canadien pour le développement de la politique étrangère au www.cfp-pec.gc.ca. Voici quelques œuvres de l'an passé :

Louis Bouchard (l'Université du Québec à Montréal)
L'ordre international : vers une féodalisation des rapports?

Christine Finnerty (University of Northern British Columbia)
Canadian Peacebuilding: Managing Conflict in a Divided World

Erika Burger (Saint Mary's University)
The Democratic Value of Social Responsibility: a Basis of a New Paradigm for Peaceful and Equitable Development?

Taylor Owen (University of British Columbia)
Locating the root Causes of Conflict: Human Security, GIS, and the identification of Spatially Referenced Vulnerabilities

Caroline Khoubessierian (Dalhousie University)
Resolving the Global Divide: an Option for Canadian Foreign Policy

Virginia Guiboche (University of Regina)
Canada's Role in Building an Inclusive, Power-Sharing Global Village

Nader Hashemi (University of Toronto)
Rethinking Religion, Secularism and Democracy: Toward a Democratic Theory for the Muslim World

Cornelio Thiessen (University of Manitoba)
The Democratic Peace and the Possibility of its Expansion

Linda Tabar (School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London)
A Clash of Civilisations? Relations between the Arab World and Western Countries after September 11th: Dialogue or Disengagement?

Pamela Chrabieh (l'Université de Montréal)
La construction de laïcités proche-orientales au risque des identités religieuses

Kari Roberts (University of Calgary)
Banking on Democracy: Russia and the United States' Struggle to Define the 'New Relationship'

Jakeet Singh (University of Victoria)
How Open are Open Societies?

Alessandra Dibos (University of Toronto)
Democratic Citizenship Education and the Broadening of Spaces Where Conflict Can be Understood and Dealt with More Responsibly

Emmanuel Raymundo (University of Victoria)
We're all Americans now: The Problem of Identity and Community after September 11th

Abdellatif Moutadayene (l'Université Laval)
Les événements du 11 septembre : entre le choc des civilisations et le choc des politiques

Tooryalai Wesa (University of British Columbia)
The Afghan Agricultural Extension System: The Impact of the Soviet Occupation on the System and Prospects for the Future

Jessica Grant (Memorial University of Newfoundland)
Finding Zion in the Aftermath of September 11th: The Creation of Communitas involving the 'Plane People' in Newfoundland