

and the North-West, that the profits of the trade of that country should be all reaped by the Americans. Mr. Macpherson was afterwards entertained at dinner in the leading hotel of the place.

FORMOSA.

The party were then driven to the village of Formosa. The residents, who are, with few exceptions, Germans, turned out en masse to welcome their former representative. Of all the hearty receptions which had greeted Senator Macpherson, none was more cordial and hearty than this from the honest and independent men of Formosa. The Formosa band, one of the best in Bruce, accompanied the party through the village. The stay was necessarily brief, and, as Senator Macpherson drove off, he was followed with "three cheers and a tiger" from the inhabitants.

MILDMAY.

The village of Mildmay was reached late in the afternoon. It is a new place, but the centre of a fine farming country, as the evidences of prosperity in the village indicate. A large crowd and a band had assembled to meet him. He addressed them on the national policy question, and then returned to Walkerton, arriving there after sunset.

DEPARTURE FROM BRUCE.

On Saturday morning the Mayor, Mr. Shaw, and other leading citizens of Walkerton were invited to meet Senator Macpherson at breakfast at Colonel Sproat's. At noon he was accompanied to the railway station and took the train to Toronto.

The progress through Bruce was one continued triumph, and at all the towns the leading men of both parties joined in extending a welcome to the former representative of the Saugeen Division, whose faithful and unselfish services all seemed anxious to recognize.
