Adverse Evidence Was Given, However, by a Sherbrooke Lawyer.

NEW YORK, July, 9 .- Harry Thaw today completed his second day on the stand as a witness for the state, in Thaw's trial before Supreme Court Justice Hendrick and a jury. At the end of his testimony he was excused without cross examination. During today's hearing Thaw told his own story of how he shot and killed Stanford White and he gave his ideas about alienists who have testified for the state at previous proceedings. Thaw's examination was conducted by Deputy Attorney-General Frank K. Cook. With but one or two exceptions Thaw answered every question put to him directly and with emphasis. Spectators remarked that he seemed sure of himself. Three residents of Sherbrooke, Que., John C. Cavanaugh, a lawyer, Lucian Bourget, a life insurance agent, and Eugene Archambault, a waiter, followed Thaw to the stand. Cavanaugh said he "was sorry to say that he thought Thaw was irrational" when he saw him in the jail at Sherbrooke. An adjournment was taken until Monday. PRESENTATION MADE
