

TO-DAY

By PERCY WHITE, Author of "Park Lane," "The West End," etc. 6/-

"A vivid modern book, brimming with interest."—Hearth and Home.

"'To-day' deals so vividly with topical questions that it is sure to be one of the successes of the season. In 'To-day' Mr. White proves once more that no point in the great (or little) social game can escape his eye or his irony."—Punch.

"A delicately conceived satire."—Spectator.

PRISCILLA

By Mrs. GEORGE WEMYSS, Author of "The Professional Aunt," "People of Popham," "A Lost Interest." 6/-

With 3 Illustrations in Half-tone, and a Frontispiece in Colour by Balliol Salmon.

(2nd Impression)

"The Professional Aunt" and "People of Popham" have won Mrs. Wemyss a large following of readers, who have delighted in her magnetic quality of humour and sentiment, her thorough knowledge of English town and country life, and especially her jolly English children. Her latest story, of the adventures that befall a charming young woman because of her too ready sympathy with the misfortunes and entanglements of others, is her most delightful book.

THE JUNE LADY

By R. E. VERNEDE, Author of "Meriel of the Moors," "The Pursuit of Mr. Flaviel," etc. 6/-

The June lady is an attractive and original heroine, who, on receiving a legacy of a fine old country mansion, conceives the notion of gathering together a miscellaneous house-party for the month of June. The adventures and misadventures of her oddly assorted guests form a diverting background for the love story of the June lady herself.
