the first productive act. The manner in which the holders of land have been able to enslave the people is a most shameful story. As quickly a an occupant of the land makes an im-provement he is subjected to a twofold burden, more taxes and more rent. For some years there has been an agi-tation going on in that country to get the taxes removed from all imported goods, and to place the taxes so tha-they will come out of the incomes of the dukes. This is an effort to relieve in-oustry from the Theubus under which it had been groaning for years and cenbusity from the incubus under which it had been groaning for years and ceal-turies. This movement has gained such strength that in March last a bill intro duced into Parliament by Dr. Macna-mara was so nearly carried that if was defeated on the second reading by only la votes. votes.

Here, therefore, is a movement which if successful, will bring immediate relief to the industrious classes by diminishing to a small degree the luxuries of the pal-ace. At this juncture Chamberlain come ace. At this juncture Chamberlain come forward with a proposal ostensibly to increase the unity of the Empire, but by a method that would ensure the enslave
