Mrs. Oridge has demonstrated her sympathy with the sufferers by undertaking the collection of sufferers by undertaking the collection of sufficient clothing for those who have lost even the necessaries of life in the fire. An appeal is made to the charitably disposed to send in such donations of wearing apparel as they can, and Mrs. Gridge will attend to their being temperal described. gives twice who gives quickly.

Attention is directed to the advertisement in another columns of the concert to be given in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church by its fullest capacity.

A Word of Warning. Citizens are warned to be prepared to receive visits from alleged collectors for the New Westminster relief fund who have no authority to solicit or receive donations. Last night a lady resident of the city had a call from a man after dark asking for money "towards the fund," and responded with a donation. She afterwards wondered whether the man had any authority. It would be well for all to be on their guard in this direction, for the opportunity is too good a one to be missed by some of the smooth fakirs in the city.

Some Rumois Which Created Alarm in the Devastated City on the Fraser.

New Westminster, Sept. 14.-(Special) Every man who can drive a nail or cut piece of wood straight is at work in New Westminster rushing up new buildings. Columbia street is a busy thoroughfare, and look where one may, buildings may be seen in course of erection. The business portion of the city is centered around the city hall square, and there lots are being cleared of debris and business continued as if nothing had happened.

A real estate deal of some magnitude has taken place, George Meade, one of the pioneers of the city, having disposed of the corner lot fronting on Columbia street, and extending up Mackenzie street to their being forwarded promptly to the street, and extending up Mackenzie street needy New Westminsterites. Again, he to Thomas Dunn, of Vancouver. The price is said to have been in the neighberhood of $10,000. It is reported that Oppenheimer Bros may buy a lot and erect a brick block. Organist Burnett in aid of the relief fund. There will be an attractive programme, and the object is so good that the church will probably be crowded to at 10 o'clock last night. The car was devoid of its contents in a remarkably short time.

It was feared yesterday and to-day that there had been at least one fatality through the fire, for Frank Andrews, T. S. Annandale's bookkeeper, was reported to be missing. The news was flashed around like wildfire, and anxious inquiries were made as to when Andrews had been last seen. A fellow employee | speakers. at last furnished the solution. Andrews had disappeared before the fire, leaving his books in order, and to-day it was learned that he was safe in Vancouver.

Another wild rumor was affoat to-day to the effect that a letter had been found on the Port Moody road, some miles out, by a man named Ankers, who resides at Sapperton. To more than one he alleged that the letter contained a threat to finish what is left of the city on the night of September 29th. Rev. Dr. Wilson, of Victoria, sent word to-day that he and the adherents of the Reformed Episcopal church had shipped by the Rithet to J. J. Johnston, boxes of wearing apparel and other goods for distribution. Frederick Davey, also of Victoria, grand Secretary of the I. O. O. F., has written asking what assistance could be rendered by the Oddfellows of the city. Mayor Ovens and City Clerk Glover have also received many more offers of assistance.

(From our own Correspondent.) New Westminster, Sept. 13.-I have nor do I ever expect to witness the ruins of a city which has been so destroyed. If, however, that view ever greets my picture presented here to-day. If a fleet of hostile war vessels or a squadron of dynamite cruisers of the Vesuvius type had appeared in the Fraser and shelled the late Royal city the demolishment could not have been more com-plete or the tout ensemble more chaotic. The city is now nothing more than a collection of ragged brick piles, irregular gables and chimneys. Along the there is at this writing nothing more han a mass of badly-charred piles, with the track of the C. P. R. lines hanging over the embers as ribbons on a clothes line, bent and nielted in all shapes. It was about the centre of the water front where the living flames which ate up the city and its contents sprang suddenly into life, and here to-day the remwith rakes are scattering the still burn-ing rubbish around in the hope of giving the denial to a story which has

Royal City Planing Mills, which are untouched, although they were uncomfortably close to the fire, to the C. P. R. dederwear of all descriptions. Thinking pot and wharves the scene of desolation is terrible. A few irregularly charred our citizens we venture piles stand like big blocks of charcoal, anticipation of giving it as though dumbly saying, "Look at me: VICTORIA LODGE I was a fine wharf, on which stood a depot and freight sheds lined with fleight, for the burnt-out city." Passing on over the none too safe embers of blackened planking, the scene of coal sheds of the new Vancouver Coal Co. greets the eye, and there the flame still lingers, for although the advertisement was a most costly one, it went to show that the coal of that company burnt very well. At the time of the fire two heavily laden coal barges were tied up to this wharf, and now the barges are floating embers, bearing the message to sea that there has been a fire and the coal they bore is filling the

The drill hall last night was the scene of a very enjoyable promenade concert gotten up in aid of the sufferers. The members of the 5th Regiment band, Mrs. Trouncer, Messrs. Herbert Kent, Ross Munro, Voorhees and D avies, the Regina Mandolin and Guitar Club, all gave their services free and treated f e audience to one of the most enjoyable musical programmes which has been presented in the city for a long time. The hall and attaches were placed at the service of the band by Lieut.-Col. Gregory, Messrs. M. W. Waitt & Co. lent the plano free of charge and thanks are also given to the Colonist and Times and to Messrs. Greenwood, Smith & Randolph for the advertising and printing. The gross receipts were $103.50, and this amount will be sent to the New Westminster fund.

Charitable Entertainments. The musicians of the city are sparing no effort in the work of assisting the relief fund, and entertainments have been arranged and will be arranged for every evening for the next week or so.

To-night.

This evening the St. Andrew's Presbyterian church will be the scene of a con-cert arranged by Organist Burnett, which will afford real enjoyment to all who attend. Among those who will take part are Miss McNiffe, Mr. James Pilling. Mr. Ernest Powell, and Mr. Burnett will preside at the organ.

To-morrow Evening.

The principal attraction to-morrow night will be the repetition of the Geisha in the Victoria theatre: The full company will take part and as this is the seventh time the opera has been produced in public it will in all likelihood go with in public it will in all likelihood go with a smoothness and vim such as is only found in the production of plays which have the success meriting a long run. The performers and the orchestra, upon which sol muchoof the charm of the opera depends, have all deputed their services, the theatre is placed at the disposal of the company by Mr. Jamieson without charge, and everybody connected with the production is taking part absolutely withproduction is taking part absolutely with-out any other recompense than that which comes from the satisfaction of resisting in a good cause. Seattle's Help. The following telegram was sent to Mayor Ovens at New Westminster by the Postntelligencer:

"Car load of supplies collected by the Red Cross Society, the Post-Intelligencer and Seattle relief committee leaves Seattle Tuesday morning by the Seattle & International railroad. Please arrange customs matter. What do you need?"

The following reply left no doubt as to the advisability of the action already taken in securing and loading a car:

"New Westminster, B.C., Sept. 12. "New Westminster, B.U., Sept. 12.
"Post-Intell'gencer: Your prompt and practical response is most cheering. Arrangements have been made with customs officers for the free entry of goods. Provisions and clothing are most needed.
"THOMAS OVENS, Mayor."

In response to the telegram of condolence sent Sunday night by Mayor Humes was received the following:

"New Westminster, B.C., Sept. 12.
"Mayor T. J. Humes: Many thanks for sympathy. Food and clothing would be inost acceptable.

Seattle's first helpful message to her broken sister city across the line leaves this morning, but Seattle will not stop there. Several more cars will be sent. Already there is almost sufficient for a second car, and no trouble is antic'pated for filling it to-day. The Red Cross Society has found a work of practical relief as urgent as the need of United States soldiers in the recent war, and Seattle has now an opportunity to show her grateful remembrance of ald given after her conflagration of 1889, when the sufferings of the people of the Queen City were skin to those now. of the Queen City were akin to those now being experienced in New Westminster.

Natural Advantages It Enjoys in Consequence of Its Location.

New Westminster is located on the north bank of the Fraser, 12 miles distant from Vancouver. It is beautifully situated on a sloping hillside, overlooking the river—the main branch as well as the north arm. The population is estimated at about 7,500. New Westminster is known as the Royal City, it having been named by Her Majesty many years ago 2 50 when it was known as Queensboro. It is the freshwater terminus of the C.P.R., 1 00 Great Northern ralway, giving the 5 00 Westminster Southern ralway, giving the 10 00 city connection with the United States in 175 this way, as well as the C.P.R. One of its earliest pioneers was John Maclure, C.E. and P.L.S., now of Matsqui, who arrived there in 1857, he being one of the Royal Engineers sent out by the Imperial government to superintend and lay out public works in connection with the colony. In the next year he commenced surveying the present streets of the city. Derby, on this side of Langley, was expected at that time to be the future city, but when Col. Moody arrived, he said that it was too far inland for commercial purposes. Mr. Maclure was then notified to proceed with the work of laying out the new city. He laid out all the main streets running north and
