CHATHAM, DECEMBER 2, 1880.

Our Lumber Trade.

We have, in previous issues, given the statistics of lumber shipments of the ports of Miramichi, Dalhousie, Carleton Place, and Baie Verte to the United Kingdom and Europe, etc.

For the season of 1880, compared with that of 1879, and with us this week enabled to add those of Bathurst and Richibucto. The Bathurst returns are as follows:—

Table with columns: Species, Tons, Value. Includes items like Spruce, Pine, Fir, etc.

Notwithstanding the transfer of a large proportion of Mr. McLeod's shipping business from Kent County to Newcastle, it is gratifying to observe that the total business from Richibucto shows a slight increase over that of last year.

The above shipments were for ports in the United Kingdom, excepting two cargoes to France. In addition thereto a cargo of boards, etc., was shipped from Cocagne to St. Pierre, Miquelon.

The comparison of shipments between 1880 and 1879 is as follows:—

Table with columns: Species, Tons, Value. Includes items like Spruce, Pine, Fir, etc.

General Shipments. Besides the above, Mr. McLeod shipped 24,900 tons, palings; J. B. Wright, 2,400 tons, palings and 3,000 tons birch timber.

Young is, but his political horizon was much wider than that of the latter gentleman.

and like Sir John Macdonald, he would never relinquish public patronage so long as he could hold it without sacrificing personal interest.

Mr. Young having, because of the weakness of those whom he has retained in the Government, been thrust at the head of Provincial affairs, and Messrs. King and Kelly had resigned, was forced by an over-estimate of the efficiency of cunning, to retain the place so novel and strange to him.

The result was that while his whole attention was given to balancing himself in his new position, his assistants in the Government, and friends and relatives outside of it were playing "ducks and drakes" with public affairs.

The Government required his most careful management and manipulation. He had no sooner assured himself that he had moulded Messrs. Landry, Hanington and Adams to his purposes in one respect than he discovered them to be getting beyond his reach in others.

Then, he devoted his sole attention to Mr. Adams for a while and, finally, concluded an offensive and defensive political alliance with him.

Mr. Young's friends associated together as a Board for the management of the Lazaretto and, considering the amount of public money expended in connection with the institution, it was the centre of much petty corruption.

When it was proposed to have the Sisters of Charity engaged to look after the lepers Mr. Young's proteges on the Board objected, for they knew that the Board should be checked on their questionable doings.

They were obliged to accept them, however. A few years ago the same gentlemen began to grow weary of the restraints placed upon them through the influence of their chairman, Rev. Mr. Babineau, their Secretary, A. K. McDougall, Esq., and one or two other members, so appeal was made to Mr. Young to rid them of the last gentleman.

Mr. Young and Mr. Adams joined in requiring the Government to dismiss Mr. McDougall, but were refused. Meantime, Mr. Babineau, Mr. McDougall, and others had pretty thoroughly ventilated the wrong-doing of Mr. Young's friends in the management of the Institution.

Messrs. Young and Adams secured the appointment of sufficient new members to vote for the dismissal of Mr. McDougall from the Secretaryship. The exposure, however, continued, and Mr. Young and Mr. Adams found themselves at the end of their tether.

Public opinion demanded investigation and reform. An enquiry was held by members of the Government and so had was the management of the majority of the Board shown to be, that the whole commission was cancelled and the Board of existence. Then, three members of Government undertook to manage the Institution, but could not.

Messrs. Young and Adams had, therefore, signally failed and the influence of the Government was again brought to bear on the authorities at Ottawa, who closed the long pending negotiations and took "the elephant" off the back of Young and Adams.

action is taken. This action, we think, ought to take the form of a systematic opening of good roads, and the lands should be sold for at least a dollar an acre.

It is a matter for after-consideration entirely. The great object to be sought, is the raising of the public mind to a sense of the agricultural resources of the Province, and the procuring of legislative authority for speedy and practical operations.

This has been obtained, a pamphlet describing the country and its resources, and a short but comprehensive history of the various settlements in the country. To this might be added practical directions to settlers, and a few sketches of the progress made by individuals in the country.

It is a matter for after-consideration entirely. The great object to be sought, is the raising of the public mind to a sense of the agricultural resources of the Province, and the procuring of legislative authority for speedy and practical operations.

There is an eloquence about these plays which no one can deny, and we would propose to tell short and simple accounts, such as this, (for it is not a solitary case, which has been found to be the case in other parts of the Province.)

The time is ripe for a successful effort, and the Province will hold its own in the West. The opportunity pass by unimproved.

The Capital does not forget that Surveyor-General Adams issued a pamphlet intended to enlighten people abroad in reference to the capabilities of the Province and its attractiveness to prospective immigrants.

There is value in the suggestions of our contemporary, but we fear that they will not be acted upon by the present Surveyor-General.

Mr. Edward Jack's Visit. Mr. Edward Jack of the Crown Lands Department has been visiting the Miramichi during the past week or two, and has written to the Star and, perhaps, some other provincial papers, giving the public the benefit of his observations.

Mr. Jack's visit to the Miramichi was for the purpose of writing letters to the press lauding the faithfulness, energy, intelligence, etc. of members of the Government, and said that the Surveyor-General had introduced the system.

At the time of his visit we did not know that Mr. Jack was in this part of the Province, nor had we observed his letters in the press, nor had we seen any of the fact that he had for many years, been an intelligent and remarkably well-informed correspondent of the press who has done much towards the advancement of the Colonization of the Province, both at home and abroad.

He has, we think, generally written under his own name, a fact that has commanded for his letters an interest and value far above those attached to the writings of Hiding these views it will be readily understood that we did not allude to Mr. Jack when we directed attention to the "puffing arrangement" of the Surveyor-General. This even more plainly appears from the reading of the paragraph in question.

The Capital is urging the Local Government to adopt a more effective policy in the matter of peopling our settlement lands. It seems to realize the fact that very little has been done for two or three years in founding new settlements, and Crown Lands Department plan to allow the little colonies planted or planned by Surveyor-General Stevenson to their natural course.

The Canada Temperance Act.

The uncertainty of law are well illustrated by the experience of Kings County in the Temperance Act matter. A case is now before the court on a review by Judge Palmer is as follows:—

The Queen vs. Archib. H. Prescott. This is a review from the conviction of the defendant under the Canada Temperance Act for selling spirituous liquors in the County of Kings in the month of July last.

The only question in the case is whether the second part of that Act was then in force in said County. The voters had elected a new Council, and the Act should be in force from the day of the election.

There were no annual licenses in Kings County after the adoption of the Act. The County Council held their semi-annual meeting on the 1st of June, 1880, and the licenses run from that date to the 31st of December, 1880.

There is an eloquence about these plays which no one can deny, and we would propose to tell short and simple accounts, such as this, (for it is not a solitary case, which has been found to be the case in other parts of the Province.)

was cry, "On to Mayo!" Let us rise to action and help our brothers!

DELRIN, Nov. 24.—Thirty tenants on the estate of Sir J. Denbury at Tipperary, refused to pay rent, except according to Griffith's valuation, the agent told them.

"It is since the depth of religious thought have been probed and the influence of religion has again been recognized, that a certain and fashionable prelates have become favored guests in the refined saloons of the night, and while apparently indulging in the vanities of the hour, have re-established the influence which in old days qualified a Man of letters or the mother of Castanets."

"You must come and dine whenever you like in boots. It is a settled thing that M. P.'s may dine in boots."

"A little knowledge of the world is a very dangerous thing, especially in literature."

"Foragers rarely know more than one English manner at a time, but they compensate for their ignorance of the language by being overbearing in the quality of the individual with whom they are acquainted."

"The only use of being in opposition is that we may enjoy ourselves."

"All things change, and quiting Virgil is the next thing to disappearing. In the last Parliament we often had Latin quotations, but never from a member with a new constitution. I have heard Crusk quoted here, but that was long ago, and a great mistake—the House was quite alarmed."

"London is deficient in dining capitalities. Any table in a thoroughly perplexed and dispirited they soon cease to mark distinctions between political parties. The country is out of sorts and the Government is held accountable for the disorder."

"Sensible men are all of the same religion. Any table in a thoroughly perplexed and dispirited they soon cease to mark distinctions between political parties. The country is out of sorts and the Government is held accountable for the disorder."

"Every political party changes its principles on an average once in ten years."

"You must show that democracy is aristocracy in disguise, and that aristocracy is democracy in disguise. It will carry you through everything. That is the charm of a principle—you have always an answer ready."

"It will be private life there, and that is the article the British public want now."

The Ross-Trickett Race.

Interest in boat-racing seemed to have waned almost entirely after the Hanlon-Trickett match and the race for the Hop Bitters prize which followed. People had almost forgotten that Ross of St. John and Trickett of Australia were to race on Monday last, until the result, or rather draw was announced from the telegraph offices.

LOSLOW, Nov. 29.—What was expected to be the last of a long series of events on the coast of Australia, took place on Monday last, until the result, or rather draw was announced from the telegraph offices.

The telegrams say:— LOSLOW, Nov. 29.—What was expected to be the last of a long series of events on the coast of Australia, took place on Monday last, until the result, or rather draw was announced from the telegraph offices.
