Previous to their departure for the west, S. B. Hillock and wife, of St. George, were presented with some valuable tokens of esteem. The congregation at Bocabec presented the pastor with a purse and Mrs. Hillock with several pieces of embroidery and fancy work. Mr. and Mrs. R. Peacock celebrated their golden wedding on Tuesday evening last. Fifty years ago, with Mr. David McRoberts as best man, Mr. Peacock and Miss Agnes Craig were made man and wife by Rev. Dr. Alley, of St. Andrews. The years that have elapsed since then have brought their share of happiness and sorrow to this worthy couple, but they are still enjoying the best of health and entered into the spirit of the golden wedding celebration with much zest. Mr. McRoberts, who is also in good health, was able to be with them. Among the guests present were their daughter, Mrs. Stewart Harding, her husband and son, of Dorchester, Mass., also Mrs. John McFarin and husband, of Bayville, and J. M. Peacock. A delightful evening was spent.—St. Andrews Beacon.

HANDCUFFED HE WAS UNABLE TO GET FREE.

A Practical Joke at Sussex by Which the Joker Got into a Tight Corner.

A well-known St. John musician got the worst of a joke he attempted at Sussex a couple of nights ago. A companion left his watch on a chair for a few moments and while his back was turned the musician took the time piece as a joke. The owner of the watch was ill at ease for a few moments at the loss of the watch, but on being quietly informed by a third party, it was decided to give the joker a taste of his own medicine. A fake warrant was issued, and with the aid of a special exhibition officer the joker was placed under arrest. To him it looked serious as the stolen watch was found in his possession. He was almost desperate, but his mind was relieved somewhat on being told that the tables had been turned on him and the "bitter bitten." This case got the musician on most friendly terms with the special officer who kindly consented to allow the young man to try on the handcuffs just to see what they were like. He got them on, but the efforts of the officer and others could not free him, as the cuffs being old, and the lock rusty, the key would not work. For over an hour he struggled to free his hands and continue his playing in the orchestra, but it was no use. It was only when he walked from the exhibition building to a carpenter shop about half a mile distant that he got free, and then only when the carpenter broke the lock with a hammer.

When the blood of business is slack, a telling advertisement will quicken the flow.—J. Walker Thompson, N. Y.

WILL VOTE ON UNION NEXT WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Waterloo Street Baptists to Decide For or Against Amalgamation With Brussels Street.

On Wednesday evening next the members of the Waterloo Street Baptist Church will vote on the question of union with the Brussels street church. Since this proposal was opened by the deacons and the advisory board, question slips have been handed around to the members, requesting their views, and now that ample time has been allowed for consideration it is hoped that all will be in a position to give definite expression of opinion.

Various considerations are involved in this proposition. Against the union there is the natural sentiment held by those who desire to remain in the church where their fathers worshipped. In favor of it there is the feeling that work can be better carried on by strengthening of the district will result.

When the Waterloo street church was of the Free Baptist denomination, its congregation was drawn from all parts of the city, and not from that district which the building stands. Free Baptists came some from North End, from Lower Cove, from Courtenay Street and from the Haymarket Square districts. But since the union, since all have become United Baptists, the reasons for this have disappeared. While the Waterloo street church has not met with serious losses, the fact remains that certain former members now attend the United Baptist churches nearest their own homes. The result is that the Waterloo street church is placed in competition for United Baptists with the Brussels street and Tabernacle churches. On the other hand, the Brussels street church has been suggested, certain members considering that the district covered is not strong enough for so many churches and that by union more effective work could be done. The proposal involves the selection of the Brussels street church as the place of worship and the result of the vote is being looked forward to with much interest.

MEYER COHEN HAS TROUBLES OF HIS OWN

Part of His Tool Was Lost for a Time—He Meets With Opposition at Sussex.

When Meyer Cohen, the moving picture manager, arrived at Sussex Monday morning he found himself in a peck of trouble. In the first place a part of his big black tent had been lost while being transferred from St. John exhibition grounds to Sussex. The St. John police were notified and soon learned that a young man named Costigan had found the section on Mill street.

The next part of Manager Cohen's troubles was with the Sussex exhibition management for they had allowed good space in one of the buildings between the main building and the Pike, to a rival picture machine man. Mr. Cohen is always ready for such cases and a quick action brought the distribution of thousands of the following cards which are being scattered about the fair grounds:

Warning! Beware! Do not be deceived by any so-called moving picture show located elsewhere than in the big black tent "On the Pike." Remember the show you want to see is on the grounds. Look for the big electric sign "San Francisco Pictures."—Direct from St. John Exhibition. Enquired for Chatham Exhibition. Last night Miles Bros big black tent was playing almost to its capacity.

TOLD HER TROUBLES TO A POLICEMAN

And Now John Collins Is Wondering What Sort of Creatures Women Are.

An elderly lady created some excitement in the depot this morning. She approached Officer Collins and made him acquainted with the fact that she had lost her pocketbook, which contained a considerable amount of money. The officer at once began a search accompanied by the lady who showed great emotion. She had just a few minutes left to catch her train and she couldn't go without her money. The shed, waiting rooms and main building were searched but no pocketbook was found. As the gong sounded for the east bound train to leave, the lady's son appeared on the scene, carrying his mother's pocketbook. "Why," she said, "I forgot all about giving it to you." Peace was restored and as the train pulled out Officer Collins was seen mopping the sweat from off his manly brow, exclaiming, "What awful things women are."

A SECOND WEDDING.

There was a very happy gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Ring, 198 Newman street, last evening. Mrs. Ring's daughter, Miss Katie M. Reed, became the bride of George H. Kimball, the ceremony being performed by Rev. David Long at half-past eight o'clock. Scarcely had these two been made man and wife, when Rev. Mr. Long was requested not to stop, but to continue his good work and marry another couple. The principals in the second event were Frederick W. Ring, half-brother of the bride in the first ceremony, and Miss Alice B. Duffy. Mr. Long performed the ceremony, and a brief reception was held, followed by supper. Mr. and Mrs. Ring will reside on Acadia street.
