THE TROUBLE IN MAINE.

The Portland Press, one of the best informed and fairest papers in Maine, discusses interestingly the recent disputes between St. John river and American lumber operators around Chamberlain Lake and comes to the conclusion that the St. John men have a substantial grievance and that measures should at once be taken to decide the status of both and see that each gets fair play.

The situation, says the Press, is peculiar, involving international and important issues. A glance at the map shows that the St. John, which after the St. Lawrence, is the chief river of the maritime provinces, takes its rise in Maine and receives its main tributaries thence, the most important tributary from the Canadian side being the St. Francis. The head waters of the St. John or Wolastoek, as it is still called on some maps, are in the northern part of Somerset county, but east of it, and flowing in a parallel northerly direction is the Alleghash, the largest of the tributaries. The Alleghash is the outlet of a remarkable system of lakes, mostly in the northern part of Piscataquis county including the five lakes, Umsakia, Churchhill, Chemquaasabamtook, Heron, or Eagle, Chamberlain and Alleghash. Chamberlain is the largest of these, and the river is over the diversion of the outflow of this into the East Branch of the Penobscot. A short distance south of Chamberlain and flowing into it is a small lake called Tolo, which may be regarded as the upper source of the Alleghash. East of Tolo and but a few miles away is Webster pond, in which the east branch of the Penobscot takes its rise. Given a canal between the two and a dam at the natural outlet of Chamberlain, and the water intended by nature to flow to the sea by way of the St. John is turned down the Penobscot. That is what has happened, and that is why some of the St. John people, being in danger of having millions of their logs hung up on account of low water, have moved to take things into their own hands and blow up the dam with dynamite.

Commenting on these conditions the Press points out that the Ashburton Treaty, of 1842, guaranteeing unobstructed navigation of the St. John applies here as it did in the Van Buren clash of last spring. As the diversion of the water from Chamberlain Lake has undoubtedly impeded the transportation of lumber down the river. It concludes, "the possibility of further collision makes the situation serious, and as the St. John river operators are in danger of large property loss on account of the low water, and as they believe they are deprived of water to which they are rightfully entitled, it is seen that they have a substantial grievance. There are no two ways about it. The meaning of this treaty, which has been the fruitful source of bickering ever since it was negotiated, will have to be settled somehow, through fresh negotiations and perhaps the establishment of an international commission. It will not do to have these quarrels perpetually springing up between clashing lumbering interests."

The easiest method of settlement of these disputes would have been the one suggested last spring—hand it over to the recently appointed international waterways commission. But Maine lumbermen whose interests are apparently better served by a continuance of present conditions had influence enough at Washington to prevent this and to postpone any action whatever. Under the circumstances when the St. John river lumbermen are losing heavily by the illegal action of their competitors and have no present redress, it is easy to understand the violence which has occurred and it is practically certain that unless some move is soon made toward a permanent settlement, by a commission or in the courts, there will be more violence and perhaps bloodshed.

THE PEACE TERMS. The Russian plenipotentiaries profess to be shocked at the enormity of the Japanese peace demands as presented yesterday. That also is part of the diplomatic game. For in view of the semi-official advance reports from Japanese sources the terms are very reasonable. The size of the indemnity—politely styled reimbursement—is to be left for future negotiation, the territory demanded is only what is already in Japanese possession and Russia can certainly have no fair protest against the demand that she evacuate Manchuria for she always declared her occupation of that province was only temporary.

These are the basis of the Japanese terms. The other demands, such as fishing rights off the Siberian coast, the surrender of all interned Russian ships, the cessation of that section of the trans-Siberian railway from Harbin to Port Arthur and the limitation of Russia's navy in the Far East, will probably form a basis for compromise.

And if Japan is willing to modify some of these conditions the sympathy of the world, even of friendly powers, will not follow Russia in a refusal to conclude peace.

A SUMMER INVOCATION. Oh, light your wivn fires, Great Sun, and let her roll! We've spent the dreary winter In freezing-limb and soul!

And growing here, And growing there, Have prayed for brimston and hot air!

Shine out, and lure the summer From many a retreated Let slip the rolling thunder, And boll the rains that beat!

For growing here, And growing there, We prayed for summer everywhere!

And then, when summer strikes us, Her fever has unrolled, Just hear us howling, growling, And crying out for cold!

And, winter gray, Or flowery May, We'll growl our way to Judgment Day!

—Frank L. Stanton.

"OZONE" ITS BEST FORM. The prompt and permanent removal of any internal germs is most surely effected by the use of "Solation of Ozone" if it's the "coupon kind." It means the liquefied oxygen is in the most concentrated form and that in addition is given free with either the 50 cent size, or the one dollar size of the Solation a coupon, good for a twenty-five cent package of Colery King.

This splendid tonic laxative is needed to obtain the best results in the use of the stringent "Ozone" and "Colery King."

LOCAL NEWS.

The str Elaine will have an orchestra on board on her regular trip on Saturday afternoon.

The trustees for the extension of the Shore Line from Carleton to St. John via the cantilever bridge will shortly be begun, and it is hoped that work may be completed before the spring.

The transfer to the C. P. R. of the control of the railway bridge will not in any way interfere with the use of the bridge by the Shore Line. The sleepers for the road are now being delivered in large quantities by the Inglewood Co., and the new steel bridges have also arrived, so that the officials of the road are kept busy with repairs.

Harding Humphrey, the man who came so near losing his life in the falls Tuesday evening, is slowly improving.

Col. McLean was yesterday notified that the Canadian Street Railway Association will meet in St. John on Aug. 30th and 31st. There will be between twenty-five and thirty visitors at the meetings, among them being some of the most prominent street railway men in Canada.

No programme has as yet been arranged, but several meetings have been promised to contribute papers. Among the subjects discussed will be improvements in power equipment, the best style of car, advantages of developing parks and other pleasure resorts, etc. It is likely, too, that a banquet will be held at the Union Club. The St. John Railway Co. will arrange for the entertainment of the visitors.

Col. McManus, of the Newport House, Gormain street, received word yesterday morning that their house at Golden Grove, where they had been staying, had been destroyed by fire on Wednesday night at nine o'clock. There was no insurance. The house has been unoccupied for several years.

A meeting of the I. C. R. employees of St. John was held on Wednesday evening for the purpose of making arrangements for the annual picnic. Little definite progress was made, and the meeting was adjourned until next week. The picnic will probably be held in September. Sussex will be the scene of the outing.

At Welchpool, Campbell, on Monday, the best swimmer on the Wellington. Parker had been under the wharves picking up chips during the afternoon. When he did not come home to supper, his parents became alarmed and a search was made for him. About 8 o'clock his body was found under the wharf at the Station. He was apparently brought there and drowned by the rising tide.
