EGGS SHOULD NOT BE EXPOSED TO LIGHT

At the present time when our every energy and effort is being put forward to increase the production of food products and make Canada more than ever before a large factor in the winning of the war, one's attention naturally turns to the food stocks available, and the waste evidenced in their handling of eggs.

During the past few years special endeavor has been made to bring this matter to the attention of producers and the wholesale trade. This appeal, however, is addressed more particularly to retailers, many of whom do not seem to realize the extreme perishability of eggs.

It is a common practice at this season of the year for many retailers to advertise the increasing supply and the rapidly falling prices, by displaying piles of eggs in their store windows. The eggs thus exposed in many cases come under the direct rays of the sun, and are subjected to a temperature behind the plate glass window of about 100 degrees. The excessive heat resulting causes serious deterioration through evaporation accompanied by loss of flavor. Further at this time of the year a large percentage of the eggs marketed are fertilized, and as it is common knowledge that a temperature of 70 degrees is sufficient to start incubation, the possibility of serious deterioration will be readily seen.

It is good business to advertise, but window displays of eggs defeat the aim of the advertiser, in that the resulting deterioration of the eggs causes dissatisfaction among consumers, and so retards consumption. Eggs should be kept in the cleanest, coolest, driest place in the store, removed from moisture, food, or other sources of contamination.

The food value of eggs, their freedom from waste, the saving in time, labor and fuel in their preparation, and the favorable way they compare in price with other articles of food places them in an important place in the diet of our people. Now, as never before in the history of the Dominion, the conservation of food supplies must be one of our chief considerations, and the waste now apparent in the handling of eggs, that can be eliminated by careful and up-to-date methods, is a consideration that will appeal to every citizen who has at heart the best interests of his fellow citizen, his country, and the Empire as a whole.

HUNTON-KIRKLAND MINE
APPARENTLY RICH ONE.

Special to The Standard.
Toronto, March 22.—Harry Cecil, managing director of the Hunton-Kirkland Mines, considers the ore for a distance of 18 feet in the shaft phenomenally rich. The vein, which is seven feet in width, has been stripped for about 200 feet, and there is indication that it persists at depth.

So much gold has been broken in development work that the company shortly will ship 30 or 40 days' consignments of ore which will run in the neighborhood of $5,000 per ton.

Leslie B. Cumming appeared on the charge of assaulting Gordon Faden on board a schooner. From the evidence given it was learned it was a row among some of the crew and the case was dismissed.

Five drunks were fined the usual amount.
