

right man in the right place but would have been better for a little more bal last. Our graduates evidently thought they could preach. Yet (we must whisper softer this time), when compared with their less favoured brothers, the graduate preaching seemed stilted and unreal. There was an appearance of petty cleverness which did not suggest genuineness. This kind of preaching was phosphorescent, not ardent; and we noticed that the more florid and ornate the style, so much the more was the absence of worthy subject matter noticeable. (Whisper softer than ever this time). This preaching reminded us of the goody-goody sentimentalisms of the modern novels.

"Outis" has spoken of lay-jealousy. The fact is, we laymen are getting quite jealous of some things. We feel jealous about the dignity of our ministry, and do not wish to see this dignity lowered. We feel quite jealous of QUACKS; we want the genuine Apostolic Orders if possible; if we cannot have clergy, then we are content with lay ministrations. But we accept the latter in the same kind as we accept a corn-doctor when there is no M. D. in the neighbourhood. Now, are not our clergy sometimes apt to force their young favourites on us—the grey haired ones? Sometimes the young one runs the engine while the pastor is standing by. Of course, he takes a delight in this; we, not being so saintly, take a different view of the affair. My fellow-workmen asked me why it was that these youngsters were — well, — he said, so conceited. I gave it up, and said, "Be patient, John, they will grow older presently." But oh! Is it not a pretty thing to hear of 20 warning those of 60 or 70 to give up their youthful frivolities, etc., and the parson sitting by?

When the young man is burning with zeal for his Master's service, the superfluous steam ought to be worked off in outside parish work. It would be well to rein in even the parsonettes. No little harm is often done by the pastor blindly forcing these on an unwilling and irritated congregation. The parson, of course, is charitable, and sees the good side, making full the excuses for the bad side. His congregation are often uncharitable, they instantly see the bad side, and (where their ministers are concerned) they are inexorable in their demand for the best. But I must stop now, for I am already shivering from the anticipatory effect of the anticipatory jeremiads that are likely to be hurled at me.

Yours, Mr. Editor,
O. PRESBUS.

WALKS AND WORDS OF JESUS—A Paragraph Harmony of the Four Evangelists, by Rev. M. N. OLMSTEAD, with an introduction by the Rev. R. S. Foster, D. D., second edition; New York: Hall & Co., Publishers, 139 East 8th St., 1882.

This is an attempt first to harmonize the Gospels by bringing into a connected whole in consecutive chronological order the parallel passages of the several Evangelists, and secondly by the use of small and large type to keep separate the words of Jesus and the words of the Evangelist who recounts them. We can warmly congratulate the persevering harmonist for the eminent success which has attended his labours. The words of Jesus in very large type is an admirable feature and makes much more real the very utterances of our blessed Lord, while the small type show at a glance what is simply the work of the Evangelist. We are particularly well pleased with the design of the book and with the happy way in which it has been executed, and we feel sure that it will give great pleasure to all who may possess themselves of it.

THE QUEBEC CHURCH CATECHIST. Questions and Answers on the Catechism, the Rite of Confirmation, and the History of the Church of England. Prepared by several clergymen of the Diocese of Quebec. Price 25 cents. Sold at St. Matthew's Depository of Church Literature, Quebec.

THE QUEBEC CATECHISM, for the younger classes of Sunday Schools. Prepared and revised by several clergymen of the Diocese of Quebec.

These are two useful attempts of some clergy in a neighbouring Diocese to meet the needs of the children in their Sunday Schools, and of candidates for confirmation.

The demand for the last named of the two, has proved that it meets a want which has not yet been satisfactorily supplied in many Sunday Schools, altho' this is the first notice of it in any paper, religious or secular, it has spread itself in several thousands of copies over several Dioceses without being advertised. It is not equal to its companion in our estimation. The benefits of Baptism, the duties of the Baptized, and the Creed are in it clearly and simply explained. The questions and answers upon the Sacraments, convey excellent instruction on not a few difficult points. The few pages devoted to the Church of England, her origin and reformation will be found especially useful, they contain in brief and intelligible form, just such information as our young people need, in order to understand the position of the Church of England as regards the Church of Rome on the one side, and the various Protestant communities on the other.

The clergy by addressing C. Judge, P. O. Box 1058, Quebec, can obtain any number of copies at reduced rates.

THE RECTOR OF ST. BARDOLPH, OF SUPERANSCATED; by F. W. Shelton. New York: Thomas Whitaker, 2 and 3 Fible House, Halifax: D. MacGregor, Hollis St.

The Rector of St. Bardolph's deserves a wide circle of readers. It treats, in the form of an attractive story, of the relations between pastor and people in an American country parish some 50 years ago; and human nature is so essentially the same, even in the somewhat altered circumstances of our own day, that we cannot fail to recognize the truthfulness of the picture.

The charm surrounding the young, unmarried Rector on his first advent in the parish—the devotion and admiration lavished upon him, particularly by his female parishioners—the disposition to exaggerate his virtues and the temptations to natural vanity to which a young and inexperienced man might be exposed—the gradual waning of his popularity, after his marriage, in spite of his faithful labours—the tendency to find fault where all was previously admired—the petty gossip and mischief which by degrees embitter his life,—is all admirably told. The family of the Willows, who considered themselves personally referred to in a sermon, and "never forgave an injury;" Mrs. Spangles, who goes "whispering about the parish," condoling with people's imaginary grievances and constantly stirring up mischief; Mr. Pipperell, the rich Churchwarden, who assumes office in a "truculent way," and is henceforward a thorn in the side of the calm, devoted Rector,—these and many more types of persons to be met with in actual life meet us in the pages of the Rector of St. Bardolph, which, moreover, abounds in just thought, and contains passages of much force and beauty.

London, Mar. 2.—Another attempt to assassinate the Queen was made to-day. There was a large crowd awaiting Her Majesty's arrival at the Windsor station. When the train had stopped the Queen walked across the platform of the railway station to her carriage, which was waiting to take her to the Castle. John Brown had already ascended to his seat behind the carriage, when a man, standing at the entrance to the station yard among a number of spectators, pointed a pistol at the carriage and fired. To judge from the report, the pistol was not heavily loaded. The Queen, who probably was not aware of what had happened was immediately driven to the Castle, but before she passed the man had been seized by the Superintendent of the Borough Police, who was standing near by.

As soon as the Queen arrived at the Castle she ordered an enquiry to proceed to the depot to inquire if any one had been hurt. The report of the pistol was sharp, but not loud. MacLean apparently intended firing again, when the revolver, which seemed to be a new one, was knocked from his hand by bystanders and handed to the police. The Queen did not sustain any shock.

London, March 3.—From later accounts it appears that McLean fired the shot after the carriage was in motion. The Princess Beatrice and John Brown saw him point the pistol at the carriage. He was exactly 30 paces distant when he fired. Two of the four chambers of the revolver contained only blank cartridges. McLean had walked from Portsmouth to London a week ago.

London, March 4.—The police have ascertained that McLean was formerly in the Wells Lunatic Asylum, and was only discharged in September last. A solicitor has written to the Mayor of Windsor, stating that he defended a man named Roderick McLean at Maidstone in 1874, charged with attempting to upset a train.

London, March 4.—The News says that it may be now pretty safely concluded that McLean is insane. Since his discharge from the Wells Asylum he had been confined in the Weston Super-Mare Asylum. The London police have received information that he was incarcerated in a Dublin Asylum for many months.

ART AND OIL.—The Norfolk Virginian of Jan. 16, 1881, refers to the remarkable cure effected by St. Jacobs Oil in the case of Prof. Cromwell,—known the country over for his magnificent Art Illustrations—who had suffered excruciating torments from rheumatism, until he tried the Oil, whose effects were magical.

LIVER COMPLAINT AND INDIGESTION.—Dear Sir:—My business has been that of an engraver and carver in wood Owing to illventilated rooms my health gradually declined, when I was unable any longer to prosecute my business. At this time I was suffering from great prostration of strength, extreme indigestion and disordered liver. My usual weight was 135 pounds, but I had become so much emaciated that I weighed but 109 pounds. In the early part of May last I commenced taking the PERUVIAN SYRUP, and almost immediately felt its tonic and invigorating influence. In the course of four months I used four bottles. my weight this day is 149 pounds. I have neither liver complaint nor indigestion, but consider myself in a perfect state of health, and in good spirits. JAMES MORSE, No. 43 Pleasant St., Charlestown, Mass. Sold by all druggists.

Testimonial from Capt. Joshua Harper.

SACKVILLE, N. B., Feb. 13, 1877.
J. H. ROBINSON, Esq., St. John, N. B.
Dear Sir,—Early in October last I took a severe cold, which settled on my lungs. After having a bad cough for about six weeks, I had a very severe attack of bleeding from the lungs, while on a passage from Queenstown to Dover. I had daily spells of bleeding for some days, until I lost about two gallons of blood, and was so weak as to be scarcely able to stand. I put back to Queenstown, where I received such medical assistance as enabled me to get home.

I saw an advertisement of your Phosphorized Cod Liver Oil Emulsion in a paper. I immediately sent and got half a dozen bottles, after taking which I feel myself a well man again. My weight, which was reduced to 120 pounds, is now up to my usual standard of 150 pounds. Seeing what it has done for me, I can confidently recommend it to others afflicted with lung diseases.

Yours very truly,
JOSHUA HARPER,
Of the barque "Mary Lowerson."

Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-phosphate of Lime is prepared only by Hanington Bros., St. John, N. B., and is for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00.

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS. When Bronchitis takes the chronic form the attending symptoms become greatly aggravated, and are associated with many of the very worst symptoms of Phthisis, viz., excessive cough, free expectoration, rapid pulse, night sweats, etc., and finally great debility and emaciation. In this stage the diagnosis between this and Tubercular Consumption is sometimes very difficult, and it is in this case that Cod Liver Oil, when the sufferer can retain it, is of special advantage, and PUTTNER'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL can always be easily retained. In such a case it is invaluable. Under its use we find the cough cease, expectoration diminish, the pulse regain its regularity and force, night sweats cease, physical strength return, and the emaciation give place to renewed flesh. As this state of things may be a sequence of a cold which has been neglected, it behoves everyone to be particularly careful of himself while laboring under a cold, no matter how slight it may apparently be. The main thing is to check the disease at its very inception, and the best means by which to attain this end is the early use of PUTTNER'S EMULSION.
