Dear Sir:

I thank you for informing me as to the extent of investigation by the Rockefeller Foundation of methods of treatment of the personnel of business organizations. The abstract which you kindly sent me I read with interest.

You may be interested to know that this Society is composed of employers of New York City and its immediate vicinity who feel that an exchange of methods, experiences, and successes in dealing with the means of selection, training, and direction of employees will be of mutual benefit to the employers and to the employees. The closeness of the relationship between the members ought to be a force which will effect the adoption of those findings which seem to organizations such as yours and others similar to be expedient.

I shall be very glad to receive such reports of the progress of your work as you may from time to time distribute to organizations such as this Society.

Very truly yours,

John N. Hazen

Secretary.
