POLICE PROTECTION

The supplying of the Queen St. residents and merchants with adequate police protection must be considered by the Commissioners. The project has passed the stage of advisability—it is an immediate necessity.

Just at the present time a vigorous and business-like session of the Police Commissioners would be particularly satisfactory to the public and beneficial to the best interests of the community. There are several matters to which the gentlemen of the Commission might devote energetic attention with profit to the people and credit to themselves.

The claims of the residents and businessmen in the out-lying districts of our city to a better system of police protection—particularly at night—must be recognized. The continued repetition of petty burglaries and other depredations, more or less serious, should ere this have opened the eyes of the authorities to the necessity for some action. Loafers create annoyance and oftentimes breed criminality—and loafing is habitually practiced and unmolested in the outlying portions of Chatham. Add to this condition of affairs the disgrace and offensiveness connected with the existence and operation of what are presumably houses of ill-repute at many of these points, and surely the absolute necessity for some definite course of action becomes apparent.

Again, The Planet has referred more than once recently to the frequent outbursts of profane and obscene language which pedestrians on our streets are frequently forced to overhear. We trust something may be done in this serious matter to strengthen the hands of the police.

In Mr. M. Houston, chairman, the police magistrate; Mr. Arch. Bell, the county judge, and Mr. Wm. E. McKeough, mayor of the city, Chatham should have a splendid board of vigorous and energetic police commissioners. They are gentlemen in whom The Planet has much confidence and it is not for this journal to dictate to them their course. We desire, however, to bring these important matters before their notice and call their attention to the necessity for immediate consideration and effectual methods in reference thereto.

HARBINGER OF PEACE

The significance of the visit of President Loubet of France to England, and the warm welcome extended to him, cannot be over-estimated, pertinently comments the St. Thomas Times. It is a harbinger of peace and good will between the two powerful and enlightened nations and will exercise a beneficent influence on all the civilized world. A few years ago Britain and France were at sword's points over their respective interests in Africa. The Warlike tension over the "Fashoda incident" has not been forgotten, and one cannot help wondering that the two powerful and Christian nations should have been so near breaking into war over a strip of African territory. Millions of pounds would have been expended over a piece of land worth comparatively nothing, all because of the unreasoning attitude of the French firebrand, Major Marchand.

Happily the statesmen of these two countries have decided that the welfare of the nations will be promoted, not by bloodshed, but by an amicable discussion and settlement of all their outstanding differences. This is the significance of the recent exchange of visits between King Edward and President Loubet. The French President, speaking at Dover, said, "Great Britain and France have both founded their prosperity on liberal institutions and they have dedicated a like attachment to the maintenance of peace. Their accord, useful and profitable to themselves, cannot be less so to the progress of civilization and the welfare of humanity."

Such sentiments will apply not only to the two nations immediately interested, but to the whole civilized world. There are people who advocate war because it "makes business lively," adds to a nation's prestige and brings out the nobler qualities in man. While war brings out heroic qualities in some men, it makes demons of many others. While it may bring prosperity to some it oppresses many others, and causes destruction to the happiness of thousands of families. The business prosperity is only temporary, and a reaction invariably follows. Whatever makes for the peace of the world is for the good of humanity, and it is fitting that the two great nations mentioned should lead the world in a method of settling disputes amicably and reasonably. Let us hope that all differences between France and

The satisfaction of having the washing done early in the day, and well done, belongs to every user of Sunlight Soap.

Great Britain will be settled without war, and that among them the French Shore question of Newfoundland, in which Canada is vitally interested, will be included.

MR. DRYDEN VINDICATED.

We confess in all honesty that we do not believe one word of the insinuation in the Reformer that Dryden appointed John Tamblin to the post-office. Dryden has lived among us all his life; he is known to all the grown people and even the children of this riding. His record has been before us for a generation as a public man, and to accuse him of appointing Tamblin is to insult our intelligence. In all these years when fat appointments, and lean appointments as well, were filling the air, did anyone ever know of Dryden appointing anyone but a blood relation? It would be contrary to the drift of his whole life to stoop to such an act; it would be a flagrant and unpardonable inconsistency, so absurd that we refuse to believe one word the Reformer has stated.

GRAND CENTRAL

On Thursday last Theodore Bourassa took possession of the Grand Central Hotel, which was owned up till that time by John Pleasence. The price paid was $13,100, and Mr. Bourassa will spend another couple of thousand in new interior fixtures, repainting and repapering.

Mr. Bourassa a few years ago kept the Montana House here, but sold out and went to Wallaceburg where, as proprietor of the Tecumseh House, he had the reputation of keeping the best hotel in that town. The new proprietor of the Grand Central will endeavor to keep up his excellent Wallaceburg reputation here.

NEW PARK

"North Chatham will have a park yet," remarked grandfather Thomas Martin this morning. "There is a street in the borough over the river called Joseph street, and on that street J. R. Walker owns a lot which, being interpreted, means a plot of real earth. On this plot there is no building, but there is a good crop of burdocks. Thomas French and myself are considering purchasing this lot, which lies between Dan Clement's and Charles Morrell's residences. We will allow the city to use the place as a park until we can form a joint stock company. Then we will use the lot ourselves and go into the manufacture of Burdock Blood Bitters. Meanwhile the burdocks grow."

HOME FROM THE WEST

James Rankin, a former resident of this city and brother-in-law of Donald Martin, arrived in the city Tuesday evening from Amnoda, Mont. Mr. Rankin has been working for the Amalgamated Copper Company, but their works have been closed to enable the workmen to complete the erection of the largest smoke stack in the world. The stack is 300 feet high and the flues leading to it are over 3,000 feet long. During the month of May the mill turned out fourteen million pounds of copper. This may give some idea of the amount of copper mined at Amnoda. The mill turns out about 4,500 tons in 24 hours.

MANUAL TRAINING

The meeting of the manual training committee, composed of representatives from the city School Boards, which was announced to meet at eight o'clock at the Central school Tuesday evening, did not materialize. The secretary of the committee, S. B. Arnold, and James A. Gordon, of the Separate School Board, were the only two members of the committee who attended. A citizen hints that it is a matter of regret that this very important part of the school work should be neglected, and it is time for the ratepayers to think about sending men to these public positions who will take interest enough in public matters to turn out to meetings.

S. B. Arnold had a vast amount of correspondence from different places throughout England and America where such schools are established, all being unanimous in considering that the faculties of the boys are brought out more by manual training than by any other means, and that it is a great help in every way.

FINE TRIP

Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Rutherford have returned from a pleasure trip to Duluth, Fort William and Port Arthur. They left eight days ago and took the steamer "Monarch" of the Beattie Line, from Sarnia. They enjoyed the trip very much. In speaking to The Planet this morning the doctor said—

"We had very pleasant weather and enjoyed a most delightful trip. It was rather cold on Lake Superior; Fort William and Port Arthur have a great future before them. They are the shipping points for the whole of the Northwest, and they will soon be to the Canadians what Duluth is to the Americans. They are at present growing very rapidly."

"Land is very high in those cities but it bids fair to be more valuable, although it is claimed that more is worth at the present time. I met Fred. Morris in Port William. He was once a law student in Matthew Wilson's office and is now city solicitor at Fort William. It is said that there is more tonnage shipped out of Duluth than from any other city in the world."
