

HONOR ROLL.

In the fall of that year he entered the University of New Brunswick, holding the Kings County Scholarship. He graduated from the University of New Brunswick in 1902 with first class honours in Natural Science and Chemistry. For the next two years he took post-graduate work in Chemistry and Natural Science at Queens University. The following year he spent at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., U. S. A., as an assistant in Chemistry.

On account of the sudden death of his father he was unable to return to Wesleyan University. He successfully wrote the Provincial Grammar School License examinations, and became the Principal of Dorchester High School. After two years he resigned and entered the Dalhousie Law School. In 1911 he received the degree B. C. L., being graduated as the leader of his class. During the fall of that year he wrote the New Brunswick Bar examinations and was admitted to the bar at the head of the list. He was offered and accepted a position in the Department of the Attorney-General of Alberta, where later he became Solicitor to the Attorney-General.

He enlisted and received a commission with the 115th Battalion, but was unable to leave his department at the time of his enlistment. He joined the unit at Bramshott, England, August 18, 1916. When this unit was broken up, he was attached to the 112th Battalion, but was soon transferred to the Machine Gun Corps. His military training was taken at Pirbright and Crowborough. He went to France with the 7th Machine Gun Company in May, 1917. In August of that year he conducted the provincial overseas elections for the Province of Alberta. He was killed in action at Passchendaele on October 30, 1917.

Of Lieutenant Fenwick his commanding officer wrote: "We were all very much affected by the death of Mr. Fenwick, for he was so keen, full of enthusiasm and a most likeable man. As he was in civil life prominent in his profession, so he was out here a most efficient and courageous officer. He was always thorough, and everything that was given him to do was done well and in a most cheerful spirit. . . . The army has lost one of the kind we can ill afford to lose."

Charles Murray Lawson.

CHARLES MURRAY LAWSON, of Loyalist descent, was born at St. John, August 19, 1883, the son of William and Julia Lawson. He was educated at the St. John High School and the University of New Brunswick, being graduated from the University with first class Honours, 1903. After graduation he engaged in teaching. He taught at Rothesay Collegiate School, Western Canada College, Sussex Grammar School, Fredericton High School and St. John High School. On his enlistment he was granted leave of absence from the St. John staff.

He was, before the war, a Lieutenant in the 62nd Fusiliers, and, shortly after the outbreak of the war, he received his commission as Lieutenant in the well-known 26th New Brunswick Battalion. He went to France in September, 1915, and was killed on the night of November 26, 1915, while making a reconnaissance in No Man's Land, for which duty he had volunteered.

James Talmage Hanning.

JAMES TALMAGE HANNING, son of the late James Hanning and Jane McElveny Hanning, was born at Fredericton on February 15, 1887.

He was educated at the Fredericton High School and the University of New Brunswick. He became a qualified Civil Engineer and Deputy Land Surveyor. He followed his profession for eight years, five years being spent with Mr. G. G. Murdoch in St. John.

He declined a commission with the Canadian Engineers and paid his own expenses to England to join the Royal Flying Corps, January 15, 1916. He obtained the rank of Second Lieutenant.

He was actively engaged in artillery observation and reconnaissance work during all the heavy fighting on the Somme in 1916.

On November 27, while endeavouring to carry out a reconnaissance at a very low altitude, his machine was shot down in flames by machine gun fire from the ground and fell within the German lines.

Burdette W. Harmon.

BURDETTE W. HARMON was born at Peel, N. B., on April 3, 1888, his parents being Allison W. Harmon and Louisa Harmon. He came to the University of New Brunswick with a High School training received at Woodstock, and was graduated in 1912 with the degree of B. A. After graduation he was appointed Assistant Inspector of Fish Hatcheries with the Dominion Government, and was engaged in this work at the outbreak of the war. He first enlisted as a private with the Canadian Engineers, but had several transfers, the first to the Imperial Army with the West Yorkshires, then to the 52nd Battalion in a Manitoba regiment, and finally to the Royal Flying Corps with the rank
