

BUT WE MUST CONDEMN THEM BY NAME

Ardmore, Pa., July 10.—Pennsylvania's latest exemplification of the Ku Klux Klan's shoot-and-run tactics, perpetrated here last Thursday, has left two men in the hospital, one fighting for his life, and has literally raised the countryside hereabouts. Virtually every civic and patriotic body along the Main Line offered its services to the authorities and fervently joined in a search for two members of a hooded and sheeted gang of 300 who are responsible for the crime.

As a result, on Tuesday four men were arrested and committed to the county jail in default of $2,500 bond each. They include a policeman and two post office clerks. The hearing was held in secret and the men immediately whisked away to Norristown because of the high feeling engendered by the crime. They were charged with inciting riot, assault and battery by firearms and intent to kill. Later, two were released on bond.

Those in the hospital are Charles ("Buck") Roy and Albert Miller, members of the Lower Merion township police force. Roy has a bullet in his abdomen and also was shot in the foot, and Miller was shot in the leg.

Roy started for a woods near Haverford College shortly before 11 o'clock Thursday night when citizens telephoned to Ardmore that members of the Ku Klux Klan were burning a cross in the woods terrorizing the negroes in a nearby settlement. On the way, he picked up Miller, who was unarmed.

The two policemen found the 300 sheeted figures milling about the burning cross. Roy drew his revolver and demanded to know what the members of the gang were doing. At that, two who wore no masks started to run. Roy, thinking them ringleaders, called for them to halt, whereat both turned and fired point blank at the policemen. The sheeted men immediately scattered, leaving the two men lying where they had been shot. Miller crawled to the side of Roy, who had fallen unconscious, seized his revolver and fired at the two fleeing men, but apparently without effect. He then crawled half a mile to a telephone, reported to the police station and collapsed.

Chief of Police Donaghey, who has an enviable record as a detective while a member of the Philadelphia force, when he learned of the crime, immediately offered $1,000, every cent he had in the bank, as a reward, and vowed his men would never leave the trail till they had apprehended the men who had fired the cowardly shots at his policemen.

Among the organizations offering Chief Donaghey their aid were three posts of the American Legion, Franklin D'Olier, former commander-in-chief of the American Legion, is a member of one, and was active in obtaining the pledge of the post to assist in running down the criminals.

Chief Donaghey announced, following the arrest of the four men, that he is in possession of a complete record of the Klan's activities in this part of the State. It is said two of those arrested have admitted being members of the Klan party, but deny firing any of the shots.

The identity of one man was learned through the bolts in the cross burned in the woods, Chief Donaghey said. He compared them with those in a stockroom of a factory where Joseph Boyd, of Ardmore, works, found they were similar and searched the garage at Boyd's home. He said that at Boyd's home he found chips chopped from the base of the cross, and that later Boyd admitted he made the cross. Mr. Donaghey added that evidence in his possession points conclusively to two of the other men arrested as those who fired the shots.

SEVENTH CENTURY CHAPEL UNEARTHED

Paris, July 10.—The methodical excavations which have been carried on for some time on the site of the city of Alesia, in Burgundy, a rampart of Gallic independence, twenty centuries ago, have led to the discovery of a primitive chapel where Christian worship was held in the Merovingian epoch, that is to say about the Seventh Century. The excavations revealed a pavement of mosaic, an elevation indicating the location of the altar, baptismal fonts, some human skeletons and several sarcophagi ornamented with Latin crosses. The shape of the sarcophagi and the objects found around them prove that the chapel dates from the Merovingian times.

This is the primitive church in which the remains of Saint Reine, who lived at Alesia, were venerated. The relics were transferred in the Tenth Century to the Benedictine Abbey of Flavigny.

A SMALL PERCENTAGE ONLY FOUR CATHOLICS AMONG NINE NEW JUDGES IN SOUTHERN IRELAND

Dublin, Ireland.—Of nine judges appointed to the Supreme High Courts by the authorities in the twenty-six counties of Southern Ireland, four are Protestants. Two of these Protestants are the sons of men who were leading members of the Masonic order in Ireland, and one of them has followed in his father's footsteps in that respect. The other two belong to the Presbyterian branch of the Protestant Church. One of them, Mr. Justice Wylie, was adviser to the British Government in Ireland in 1919-1920. From 1915 to 1918 he held a commission in the British army.

Under the British regime, the majority of the judges were always Protestants; and taking the whole of Ireland, the same arrangement still applies. In reality only four of the judges in the Supreme and High Courts of the twenty-six counties are Catholics. One of the nine new appointees does not practice any religion.

In the Belfast High Court, there are five judges, and only one of these is a Catholic. Therefore, of the fourteen judges in all Ireland, only five are Catholics, or, roughly, about the same proportion as under the British regime. In former days the complaint was universal that the majority of the population was, in regard to the judiciary, boycotted and proscribed. Notwithstanding the change in Government, Catholics are, taking the country as a whole, just as small a minority among the judges as they were in the British days.

The significance of these facts will be better understood when it is stated that Catholics number 74% of the population of all Ireland, that they constitute 84.4% of the population of the six Northern counties subject to the jurisdiction of the Belfast Government and that in the twenty-six counties of southern Ireland Protestants number only 10% of the population. This 10% is given practically 60% of the high judicial positions. Two of the Catholic judges dismissed by the authorities in the twenty-six Southern counties took an active part in religious, social and philanthropic associations, and they are comparatively young men.

Mr. Hugh Kennedy, the former Attorney General, replaces one of these, and a Masonic Judge takes the place of the other.

JESUIT MARTYRS' SHRINE

The Shrine, dedicated to the memory of the eight Canadian Jesuit Martyrs, reopened Sunday, July 6th, and will remain open to pilgrims till the end of August. A priest will be in residence at the Shrine and Mass will be said daily at eight o'clock. On Sunday High Mass is sung at eleven o'clock, and at three o'clock in the afternoon there is a procession of the Blessed Sacrament followed by Solemn Benediction. Every Sunday during July and August hundreds of pilgrims come from all parts of Ontario to spend the day on Martyrs' Hill which is believed to be the scene of Brobeur's and Laleman's martyrdom.

There is a boarding house near by for the accommodation of pilgrim boarders. An auto meets the C. P. R. train at Fort St. Ignace. Thousands of pilgrims visited the Shrine last season and many have returned this year in thanksgiving for spiritual and temporal favors obtained through the intercession of the Canadian Martyrs.

Greater interest in the Shrine is expected henceforth as we have every reason to hope our Holy Father will declare Blessed the eight Jesuit Martyrs, seven of whom died for the faith on Ontario soil.

Should they be Beatified next year, it is hoped that contributions will have been sufficient to erect a memory of those who were amongst the first to bring the light of the true faith to a then pagan people and whose blood was the seed of a deep-rooted Catholicity so evident among our people of Ontario.

CANADIAN GENERAL INSURANCE CO.

The Bill authorizing The General Animals Insurance Company of Canada to change its name to Canadian General Insurance Company has now passed its third reading in the Dominion Parliament and received Royal Assent.

The General Animals was incorporated in 1907 under a Dominion Charter with Head Office in Montreal; and operated for seven years in Plate Glass, Live Stock and Automobile insurance.

In August of 1923 the control of this Company passed into the hands of the Directors of The Toronto Casualty, Fire and Marine Insurance Company and the Head Office was removed to Toronto, the Company being operated under the management of the Toronto Casualty Officers as an allied company.

The Directors propose to increase the Company's capital in order to secure power to extend their operations to other classes of insurance.

It will continue to operate as a non-board company.

"LEGISLATION FOR WOMEN"

GOVERNMENT TO PRINT NUN'S STUDY OF SUBJECT

Washington, D. C.—A 158-page study on "Legislation for Women in Oregon," written by Sister Miriam Teresa, of the Sisters of the Holy Names of Jesus and Mary, for her Ph. D. degree at the Catholic University of America this year, will be published by the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor as a government document, the Bureau has announced. Sister Miriam is an authority on legislation for women.

The work is comprehensive, covering the status of women in Oregon since the old "Oregon Country" came into the possession of the United States, and tracing legislation for women up to the present complex State which has followed the granting of the suffrage. Some of the topics considered are "Property Rights," "Administration of Estates," "The Matter of Support," "Personal Rights of Women," "Women and Education," "Marriage and Divorce," "Women in Industry," "Child Labor Law," "Ten-Hour Law for Women," "Minimum Wage Law," and "Political Rights of Women."

Sister Miriam, who was Miss Caroline J. Gleason, of Minneapolis, Minn., is peculiarly fitted to write such a work, and the decision of the Women's Bureau to publish the study was a recognition of the value it gained from her authoritative knowledge of her subject. She has been active in efforts to improve the economic conditions of wage-earning women in Oregon for years. She participated actively in the administration of minimum wage, maximum hour and mothers' pension legislation; made an investigation for the Consumers' League of Oregon into the cost of living and working conditions of wage-earning women of the State, and made a survey of the housing conditions in Portland.

After her graduation from parochial schools, she took her A. B. degree from the University of Minnesota; took a course in the Chicago School of Civics and Philanthropy; served as secretary of Oregon's first State Industrial Welfare Commission, and took her M. A. degree from the University of Oregon in 1916. In the same year, she entered the novitiate of the Sisters of the Holy Names of Jesus and Mary. Since that time, she has taught in catholic schools and studied at the University of California and the University of Chicago. She entered Trinity College here in 1922 as a student of Catholic University, where she did the work for her Ph. D. degree.

A REAL CAMP HOLIDAY

Algonquin Park offers a diversity of interest that is not frequently found in Summer resort districts. Besides the Highland Inn, headquarters for tourists in the Park, Nominigan Camp and Minesing, consisting of a series of log cabins located seven and ten miles respectively from headquarters, offer comfortably furnished quarters, with bathrooms, hot and cold water, and other modern conveniences. These cabins will accommodate parties up to eight in number, and afford that splendid seclusion so desired by many city dwellers.

For information address, Manager, Highland Inn, Algonquin Park Station, Ont., or any Agent of the Canadian National Railways.

OBITUARY

JOHN STANTON

In the death of the late John Stanton, of North Osnolow, Que., the local community loses one of its best and most outstanding citizens. A man endowed with most kindly qualities of heart, breadth of view, and always a most loyal son to his church, he will be missed by a host of friends. He was of that type of Catholic citizen which can always be depended upon to further the interests of Holy Mother the Church, in face of any trial or difficulty. His life was a model to his fellow-Catholics, and as such he was granted the inestimable grace from Almighty God of a death as good as his life had been. He was a true friend to all neighbors, irrespective of class or creed, and was particularly shown by the very large concourse which attended his funeral on Sunday.

The late Mr. Stanton had been ill for nearly a year with anæmia, from which he died on July 8. Deceased is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Stanton, one son Joseph, and one daughter, May; also his aged mother, Mrs. Walter Stanton, four sisters and six brothers.

The funeral which was very largely attended from all parts, was held at St. Bridgid's church, North Osnolow, at which High Mass was celebrated by a cousin of the deceased, the Rev. (Capt.) A. Stanton, of Corkery, Ont. May his soul rest in peace.

The sermon in English was given by the Reverend Father E. J. Cornell, O. M. I., of Ottawa; a sermon in French by the Reverend Father J. N. Dupuis of Montreal, and a sermon in Flemish by the Reverend Father Van Lisroy of Chicago.

The Marconi message states that the members of the Canadian Pilgrimage are all in excellent health and had a very enjoyable voyage from Montreal to Cherbourg.

IRISH FARMERS MUST CO-OPERATE

Unless Irish farmers organize and co-operate for the export and marketing of their produce they have been warned they cannot hold their own against such formidable competitors as Denmark. The Catholic clergy have taken every opportunity of putting before the farmers of the country the advantages of cooperation.

On the initiative of Father Maguire, P. P., the farmers of Monaghan County have determined to establish a central egg and poultry store for the whole county. The egg trade is of immense value to Ireland. During the first five months of this year, the value of the eggs exported was four times that of the butter exports.

The butter trade of Ireland is not in as flourishing a condition as it might be. Denmark is a nation smaller in area than the twenty-six counties of Southern Ireland. Yet in five months, the export of butter from Denmark to the English market was twelve times as great in quantity as the butter exports to the same market from Southern Ireland. The value of the Danish export was fourteen times that of the Irish export. Priests and other advocates of cooperation are satisfied that if their advice is generally adopted, the exports of agricultural produce can be very substantially increased. It is also felt that life on the land can be made more attractive. For many years the tendency has been to migrate from the rural areas to the cities and towns.

The result has been congestion of the labor market in the large urban districts, and the creation of unemployment to an extent which is somewhat disquieting. Thoughtful students of national economics realize the necessity of arresting the migratory movement and providing upon the land a sufficient outlet for the energies of the rural population.

THE WATER ROUTE TO THE WEST

For those who this summer are intent upon seeing the glories of Jasper National Park, the Canadian Rockies or the Pacific Coast, traveling part of the way by water makes a delightful break in the long journey.

By rail to Sarnia—thence to Port Arthur aboard the luxurious steamers of the Northern Navigation Company, the traveller loses very little time and is amply repaid by the change of scene, cool lake breezes and social life aboard.

There is dancing every evening, concerts, sing-songs and promenading not to mention the quiet hours reclining in a comfortable deck chair with a book or magazine. The cuisine is excellent and the state rooms rival the comfort of the great ocean liners.

Any agent of the Canadian National Railways or Northern Navigation Company will gladly give full particulars or illustrated booklet.
