

ENFORCING CITY BY-LAWS.

Police Are Carrying on a Pretty Vigorous Campaign.

Lord's Day Act Case To-day, and Fine Imposed.

Rule of the Road Case Also Before Magistrate.

That the police are working hard since donning their summer togs is evident by the large number of law-breakers that face the Magistrate each day.

Constable Ducaan had Dennis Bennett, Joseph Bennett and Henry Ainsborough charged with being disorderly.

The constable said they were quarrelling on the street and creating a disturbance.

It was explained by Ainsborough that he was walking with the two Bennetts and they started to fight, and Ainsborough was trying to quieten them when the policeman arrived.

Ainsborough was allowed to go. Jos. Bennett was fined $3 and Dennis Bennett had not been served with a summons.

A charge was brought against H. Smernoos for breaking the Lord's Day Act by selling goods on Sunday.

J. G. Gauld appeared for the defendant, who pleaded not guilty. A small boy gave evidence that he had purchased ice-cream for which he had paid 20 cents to a clerk in the employ of Smernoos.

He did not eat the ice-cream in the store, but had it placed in a box and took it home. Saris Vinik, another small boy, backed up this statement and said he saw the money paid for the ice-cream for which the boy's mother had sent him. The constable said he was on John street south when he saw the boys with the ice-cream and enquired as to where they bought it. They replied at Smernoos.

Mr. Gauld questioned the policeman as to the nature of business carried on by the defendant and the officer said it was a restaurant and ice-cream store. The policeman had visited the place and could not say that people were not served with what they wanted. Smernoos said he had kept the restaurant for eighteen months and had served his customers with whatever they wanted, whether lunch or ice-cream.

He was found guilty and fined $10. H. Hyslop was charged by Mrs. Nevills with holding back $1.80 wages. He said the agreement he had with his employer was that two days' pay be held back if no notice was given of their intention to leave. Mrs. Nevills had neglected to give notice.

Mrs. Nevills said her husband had been ill and she was unable to work, but had sent notice.

"I broke your heart to give me what you did," said Mrs. Nevills.

Dora Shaw also was charged with holding back $5.50 wages. She explained the terms on which she had been hired. She said Hyslop had given her her walking ticket because she would not clean a show window facing the street.

"We try to do our best by these people," said Hyslop, "but they don't understand it."

The Magistrate allowed both claims. Two women, a boarder and a keg of beer caused quite a row on Jackson street, and as a result Mrs. Elizabeth Bradley had Georgina Anderson charged with assault. "Jim," Bradley, said she overheard Mrs. Anderson say she would turn him out, whereat they came to words, then to blows, and consequently much hair-pulling.

"She pulled my hair," said Mrs. Bradley.

"She pulled my hair and slapped my face first," said Mrs. Anderson.

"They were both pulling hair, as far as that goes," said a witness.

"She struck you first, you say?" asked the Magistrate, of Mrs. Anderson.

"Yes," answered Mrs. Anderson.

"The case is dismissed," concluded the court.

Mrs. Emma McIngle was charged with theft. It was alleged that she had taken lace curtains, valued at $1.50, in part payment of a bill that was owing her.

"I made a present of them to a young lady that was being married," said the defendant, when the Magistrate asked her what became of the curtains.

The case was laid over to give her a chance to pay for them.

A charge of ill-treating a horse was laid against Sydney Stewart, the stallion being the one in a small hole in a property stall and on various occasions neglected to feed it. The stable on Macaulay street west. P. C. Atkins said the stable was in very bad condition and not fit to keep a horse in. The stall was boxed in, with only a small hole for ventilation. A witness said word had been sent to the police to tell Stewart to feed the animal properly.

Mrs. Gallagher said the horse on Saturday was lame and unable to go out. They tried to take it out, and it was difficult to get it as far as the water trough, and it was again taken back to the stable. "I have often telephoned to the police because of the manner in which it had been treated," said she, and she continued, "the smell from the stall comes into my back door."

Mr. A. Lewis, who was appearing for (Continued on Page 10.)

Daily Beach Service. Our Beach business this season is very encouraging, the splendid service, the correctness of filling all orders, is responsible. If you intend sunbathing at the Beach or Burlington we can make your stay pleasant. Kindly favor us with a trial order. We call for and deliver your order promptly. We keep everything to be found in a first-class grocery.—Bain & Adams, 80-91 King east.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES To rent at $2 a year, and upwards, for the storing of deeds, bonds, stocks, wills, silver and other valuables. TRADERS BANK OF CANADA.

CANNOT UPSET THE LIGHTING CONTRACT

That Was the Opinion Freely Expressed in the City Hall This Morning.

In the City Hall to-day the aldermen and officials refuse to treat seriously the threatened attack in the courts on the city's five-year lighting contract with the Cataract Power Company. The letter from S. F. Washington was referred to the Board of Works, and it is expected that there it will die a natural death. The ground on which the Hydro people are hoping to upset the contract is said to be the fact that last year's Council made a contract for this year's Council, beginning July 1. Whatever there may be in this contention it is thought will be offset by the fact that the Board of Works this year has given the company directions about moving poles and placing lights and the Council has confirmed it by approving of the reports submitted by the committee. The city officials are satisfied that at this late date there is little danger of the courts interfering. If application were made for an injunction to restrain the city from entering into the contract, the court would have discretionary power, and it is not thought probable that any action would be taken which would throw the city in darkness.

SAVES BOY.

Dog Carries Rope in Teeth to Drowning Lad.

Fell Overboard After a Narrow Escape From Capsizing.

New York, June 15.—Just as soon as Freddie Pudmore gets money enough, he is going to buy Blitzen. It is doubtful, however, if he ever will accumulate a sum sufficiently large to tempt "Jack Helper," who owns Blitzen. Blitzen is only a "mut" dog, but, well—

Freddie, who is sixteen years old, and lives at 501 East 112th street—the present tense is due to Blitzen—was rowing down the Harlem river late yesterday afternoon when the swell from a railroad tug began to toss his frail craft until he was afraid it would capsize at any moment.

With all the strength of his young arms he pulled for a boat house at 124th street, reached it safely, pulled his boat up on the float and remarking a self-congratulatory tone to a man who was loitering near by: "Gee, that was a narrow squeak!" promptly missed his footing and fell overboard.

There was a swift tide running and Freddie was swept among the spiles of a dock, only a few yards away, but a difficult place to reach. The man on the float was ready with a line. He took in the situation at a glance, turned his head and whistled. In a moment a nondescript cur, which never won a blue ribbon in his life, ambled down from the boat house. He was none other than Blitzen.

"Here, said the man, who had obtained a rope in the meantime. He tossed one end of it to Blitzen, who caught it between his teeth. Then he whispered something which only Blitzen could understand, and in a second the dog was overboard. He made straight for Freddie, who was just able to catch the rope. The man and the other end pulled and in a few moments the lad was on shore, where a few revolvers on a barrel effectually pumped him out.

"Here, said the man, who had obtained a rope in the meantime. He tossed one end of it to Blitzen, who caught it between his teeth. Then he whispered something which only Blitzen could understand, and in a second the dog was overboard. He made straight for Freddie, who was just able to catch the rope. The man and the other end pulled and in a few moments the lad was on shore, where a few revolvers on a barrel effectually pumped him out.

"Here, said the man, who had obtained a rope in the meantime. He tossed one end of it to Blitzen, who caught it between his teeth. Then he whispered something which only Blitzen could understand, and in a second the dog was overboard. He made straight for Freddie, who was just able to catch the rope. The man and the other end pulled and in a few moments the lad was on shore, where a few revolvers on a barrel effectually pumped him out.

"Here, said the man, who had obtained a rope in the meantime. He tossed one end of it to Blitzen, who caught it between his teeth. Then he whispered something which only Blitzen could understand, and in a second the dog was overboard. He made straight for Freddie, who was just able to catch the rope. The man and the other end pulled and in a few moments the lad was on shore, where a few revolvers on a barrel effectually pumped him out.

"Here, said the man, who had obtained a rope in the meantime. He tossed one end of it to Blitzen, who caught it between his teeth. Then he whispered something which only Blitzen could understand, and in a second the dog was overboard. He made straight for Freddie, who was just able to catch the rope. The man and the other end pulled and in a few moments the lad was on shore, where a few revolvers on a barrel effectually pumped him out.

"Here, said the man, who had obtained a rope in the meantime. He tossed one end of it to Blitzen, who caught it between his teeth. Then he whispered something which only Blitzen could understand, and in a second the dog was overboard. He made straight for Freddie, who was just able to catch the rope. The man and the other end pulled and in a few moments the lad was on shore, where a few revolvers on a barrel effectually pumped him out.

"Here, said the man, who had obtained a rope in the meantime. He tossed one end of it to Blitzen, who caught it between his teeth. Then he whispered something which only Blitzen could understand, and in a second the dog was overboard. He made straight for Freddie, who was just able to catch the rope. The man and the other end pulled and in a few moments the lad was on shore, where a few revolvers on a barrel effectually pumped him out.

"Here, said the man, who had obtained a rope in the meantime. He tossed one end of it to Blitzen, who caught it between his teeth. Then he whispered something which only Blitzen could understand, and in a second the dog was overboard. He made straight for Freddie, who was just able to catch the rope. The man and the other end pulled and in a few moments the lad was on shore, where a few revolvers on a barrel effectually pumped him out.

"Here, said the man, who had obtained a rope in the meantime. He tossed one end of it to Blitzen, who caught it between his teeth. Then he whispered something which only Blitzen could understand, and in a second the dog was overboard. He made straight for Freddie, who was just able to catch the rope. The man and the other end pulled and in a few moments the lad was on shore, where a few revolvers on a barrel effectually pumped him out.

"Here, said the man, who had obtained a rope in the meantime. He tossed one end of it to Blitzen, who caught it between his teeth. Then he whispered something which only Blitzen could understand, and in a second the dog was overboard. He made straight for Freddie, who was just able to catch the rope. The man and the other end pulled and in a few moments the lad was on shore, where a few revolvers on a barrel effectually pumped him out.

"Here, said the man, who had obtained a rope in the meantime. He tossed one end of it to Blitzen, who caught it between his teeth. Then he whispered something which only Blitzen could understand, and in a second the dog was overboard. He made straight for Freddie, who was just able to catch the rope. The man and the other end pulled and in a few moments the lad was on shore, where a few revolvers on a barrel effectually pumped him out.

"Here, said the man, who had obtained a rope in the meantime. He tossed one end of it to Blitzen, who caught it between his teeth. Then he whispered something which only Blitzen could understand, and in a second the dog was overboard. He made straight for Freddie, who was just able to catch the rope. The man and the other end pulled and in a few moments the lad was on shore, where a few revolvers on a barrel effectually pumped him out.

"Here, said the man, who had obtained a rope in the meantime. He tossed one end of it to Blitzen, who caught it between his teeth. Then he whispered something which only Blitzen could understand, and in a second the dog was overboard. He made straight for Freddie, who was just able to catch the rope. The man and the other end pulled and in a few moments the lad was on shore, where a few revolvers on a barrel effectually pumped him out.

"Here, said the man, who had obtained a rope in the meantime. He tossed one end of it to Blitzen, who caught it between his teeth. Then he whispered something which only Blitzen could understand, and in a second the dog was overboard. He made straight for Freddie, who was just able to catch the rope. The man and the other end pulled and in a few moments the lad was on shore, where a few revolvers on a barrel effectually pumped him out.

"Here, said the man, who had obtained a rope in the meantime. He tossed one end of it to Blitzen, who caught it between his teeth. Then he whispered something which only Blitzen could understand, and in a second the dog was overboard. He made straight for Freddie, who was just able to catch the rope. The man and the other end pulled and in a few moments the lad was on shore, where a few revolvers on a barrel effectually pumped him out.

"Here, said the man, who had obtained a rope in the meantime. He tossed one end of it to Blitzen, who caught it between his teeth. Then he whispered something which only Blitzen could understand, and in a second the dog was overboard. He made straight for Freddie, who was just able to catch the rope. The man and the other end pulled and in a few moments the lad was on shore, where a few revolvers on a barrel effectually pumped him out.

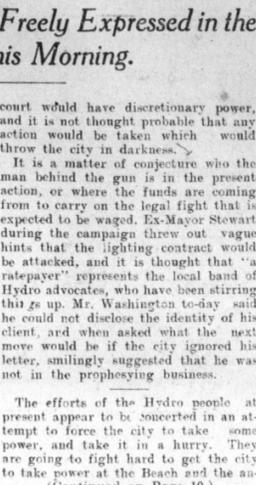

"Here, said the man, who had obtained a rope in the meantime. He tossed one end of it to Blitzen, who caught it between his teeth. Then he whispered something which only Blitzen could understand, and in a second the dog was overboard. He made straight for Freddie, who was just able to catch the rope. The man and the other end pulled and in a few moments the lad was on shore, where a few revolvers on a barrel effectually pumped him out.

"Here, said the man, who had obtained a rope in the meantime. He tossed one end of it to Blitzen, who caught it between his teeth. Then he whispered something which only Blitzen could understand, and in a second the dog was overboard. He made straight for Freddie, who was just able to catch the rope. The man and the other end pulled and in a few moments the lad was on shore, where a few revolvers on a barrel effectually pumped him out.

"Here, said the man, who had obtained a rope in the meantime. He tossed one end of it to Blitzen, who caught it between his teeth. Then he whispered something which only Blitzen could understand, and in a second the dog was overboard. He made straight for Freddie, who was just able to catch the rope. The man and the other end pulled and in a few moments the lad was on shore, where a few revolvers on a barrel effectually pumped him out.

MARCHED TO CAMP.

Col. Rennie's Men Made Record Tramp to Niagara-on-the-Lake.

LIEUT.-COL. RENNIE (Special Despatch to the Times.)

Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., June 15.—Lieutenant-Col. Rennie, with his sixty-one men of the Twelfth Field Ambulance Army Medical Corps, arrived in camp last night, after a fifty-six mile march from Hamilton. The boys from under the mountain are in good condition and excellent spirits, notwithstanding their long tramp. They started from Hamilton on Saturday afternoon, rested part of Sunday on the road, bivouacked and covered twenty-eight miles yesterday. The colonel is justly proud of his men. He offered to let them rest on the road again last night, but they voted to march on to the camp ground. This morning, naturally, they are taking a deserved rest.

The joint summer meeting of the Carluke and Glanford branches of the South Wentworth Women's Institute was held on Saturday, June 12, in the Mount Hope Methodist school room. On account of the busy season the attendance was small, only forty ladies being present, but an interesting programme was given, and the meeting was greatly enjoyed by all. After the opening exercises there was a short business meeting of the Glanford branch, a new method of work was announced for the year just beginning. A list of topics for the entire year is being printed, and will be placed in the hands of the members. The membership is to be divided into groups, each group to have charge of a meeting, so that once during the year each member will have some part in a meeting.

Mrs. Reed then introduced Miss Millar, of Glanford, who opened by a short talk on institute work, urging co-operation in the new plan of work. Miss Grace Hines gave an instrumental solo, and Miss Millar followed with her address on "What Money Cannot Buy," giving her hearers very practical ideas of the truly important things of life. Miss Hines played again, and a question drawer filled the remaining time. At the close of the meeting lunch was served and a social hour spent.

The joint summer meeting of the Carluke and Glanford branches of the South Wentworth Women's Institute was held on Saturday, June 12, in the Mount Hope Methodist school room. On account of the busy season the attendance was small, only forty ladies being present, but an interesting programme was given, and the meeting was greatly enjoyed by all. After the opening exercises there was a short business meeting of the Glanford branch, a new method of work was announced for the year just beginning. A list of topics for the entire year is being printed, and will be placed in the hands of the members. The membership is to be divided into groups, each group to have charge of a meeting, so that once during the year each member will have some part in a meeting.

Mrs. Reed then introduced Miss Millar, of Glanford, who opened by a short talk on institute work, urging co-operation in the new plan of work. Miss Grace Hines gave an instrumental solo, and Miss Millar followed with her address on "What Money Cannot Buy," giving her hearers very practical ideas of the truly important things of life. Miss Hines played again, and a question drawer filled the remaining time. At the close of the meeting lunch was served and a social hour spent.

The joint summer meeting of the Carluke and Glanford branches of the South Wentworth Women's Institute was held on Saturday, June 12, in the Mount Hope Methodist school room. On account of the busy season the attendance was small, only forty ladies being present, but an interesting programme was given, and the meeting was greatly enjoyed by all. After the opening exercises there was a short business meeting of the Glanford branch, a new method of work was announced for the year just beginning. A list of topics for the entire year is being printed, and will be placed in the hands of the members. The membership is to be divided into groups, each group to have charge of a meeting, so that once during the year each member will have some part in a meeting.

Mrs. Reed then introduced Miss Millar, of Glanford, who opened by a short talk on institute work, urging co-operation in the new plan of work. Miss Grace Hines gave an instrumental solo, and Miss Millar followed with her address on "What Money Cannot Buy," giving her hearers very practical ideas of the truly important things of life. Miss Hines played again, and a question drawer filled the remaining time. At the close of the meeting lunch was served and a social hour spent.

The joint summer meeting of the Carluke and Glanford branches of the South Wentworth Women's Institute was held on Saturday, June 12, in the Mount Hope Methodist school room. On account of the busy season the attendance was small, only forty ladies being present, but an interesting programme was given, and the meeting was greatly enjoyed by all. After the opening exercises there was a short business meeting of the Glanford branch, a new method of work was announced for the year just beginning. A list of topics for the entire year is being printed, and will be placed in the hands of the members. The membership is to be divided into groups, each group to have charge of a meeting, so that once during the year each member will have some part in a meeting.

Mrs. Reed then introduced Miss Millar, of Glanford, who opened by a short talk on institute work, urging co-operation in the new plan of work. Miss Grace Hines gave an instrumental solo, and Miss Millar followed with her address on "What Money Cannot Buy," giving her hearers very practical ideas of the truly important things of life. Miss Hines played again, and a question drawer filled the remaining time. At the close of the meeting lunch was served and a social hour spent.

The joint summer meeting of the Carluke and Glanford branches of the South Wentworth Women's Institute was held on Saturday, June 12, in the Mount Hope Methodist school room. On account of the busy season the attendance was small, only forty ladies being present, but an interesting programme was given, and the meeting was greatly enjoyed by all. After the opening exercises there was a short business meeting of the Glanford branch, a new method of work was announced for the year just beginning. A list of topics for the entire year is being printed, and will be placed in the hands of the members. The membership is to be divided into groups, each group to have charge of a meeting, so that once during the year each member will have some part in a meeting.

Mrs. Reed then introduced Miss Millar, of Glanford, who opened by a short talk on institute work, urging co-operation in the new plan of work. Miss Grace Hines gave an instrumental solo, and Miss Millar followed with her address on "What Money Cannot Buy," giving her hearers very practical ideas of the truly important things of life. Miss Hines played again, and a question drawer filled the remaining time. At the close of the meeting lunch was served and a social hour spent.

The joint summer meeting of the Carluke and Glanford branches of the South Wentworth Women's Institute was held on Saturday, June 12, in the Mount Hope Methodist school room. On account of the busy season the attendance was small, only forty ladies being present, but an interesting programme was given, and the meeting was greatly enjoyed by all. After the opening exercises there was a short business meeting of the Glanford branch, a new method of work was announced for the year just beginning. A list of topics for the entire year is being printed, and will be placed in the hands of the members. The membership is to be divided into groups, each group to have charge of a meeting, so that once during the year each member will have some part in a meeting.

Mrs. Reed then introduced Miss Millar, of Glanford, who opened by a short talk on institute work, urging co-operation in the new plan of work. Miss Grace Hines gave an instrumental solo, and Miss Millar followed with her address on "What Money Cannot Buy," giving her hearers very practical ideas of the truly important things of life. Miss Hines played again, and a question drawer filled the remaining time. At the close of the meeting lunch was served and a social hour spent.

The joint summer meeting of the Carluke and Glanford branches of the South Wentworth Women's Institute was held on Saturday, June 12, in the Mount Hope Methodist school room. On account of the busy season the attendance was small, only forty ladies being present, but an interesting programme was given, and the meeting was greatly enjoyed by all. After the opening exercises there was a short business meeting of the Glanford branch, a new method of work was announced for the year just beginning. A list of topics for the entire year is being printed, and will be placed in the hands of the members. The membership is to be divided into groups, each group to have charge of a meeting, so that once during the year each member will have some part in a meeting.

Mrs. Reed then introduced Miss Millar, of Glanford, who opened by a short talk on institute work, urging co-operation in the new plan of work. Miss Grace Hines gave an instrumental solo, and Miss Millar followed with her address on "What Money Cannot Buy," giving her hearers very practical ideas of the truly important things of life. Miss Hines played again, and a question drawer filled the remaining time. At the close of the meeting lunch was served and a social hour spent.

The joint summer meeting of the Carluke and Glanford branches of the South Wentworth Women's Institute was held on Saturday, June 12, in the Mount Hope Methodist school room. On account of the busy season the attendance was small, only forty ladies being present, but an interesting programme was given, and the meeting was greatly enjoyed by all. After the opening exercises there was a short business meeting of the Glanford branch, a new method of work was announced for the year just beginning. A list of topics for the entire year is being printed, and will be placed in the hands of the members. The membership is to be divided into groups, each group to have charge of a meeting, so that once during the year each member will have some part in a meeting.

Mrs. Reed then introduced Miss Millar, of Glanford, who opened by a short talk on institute work, urging co-operation in the new plan of work. Miss Grace Hines gave an instrumental solo, and Miss Millar followed with her address on "What Money Cannot Buy," giving her hearers very practical ideas of the truly important things of life. Miss Hines played again, and a question drawer filled the remaining time. At the close of the meeting lunch was served and a social hour spent.

The joint summer meeting of the Carluke and Glanford branches of the South Wentworth Women's Institute was held on Saturday, June 12, in the Mount Hope Methodist school room. On account of the busy season the attendance was small, only forty ladies being present, but an interesting programme was given, and the meeting was greatly enjoyed by all. After the opening exercises there was a short business meeting of the Glanford branch, a new method of work was announced for the year just beginning. A list of topics for the entire year is being printed, and will be placed in the hands of the members. The membership is to be divided into groups, each group to have charge of a meeting, so that once during the year each member will have some part in a meeting.

Mrs. Reed then introduced Miss Millar, of Glanford, who opened by a short talk on institute work, urging co-operation in the new plan of work. Miss Grace Hines gave an instrumental solo, and Miss Millar followed with her address on "What Money Cannot Buy," giving her hearers very practical ideas of the truly important things of life. Miss Hines played again, and a question drawer filled the remaining time. At the close of the meeting lunch was served and a social hour spent.

The joint summer meeting of the Carluke and Glanford branches of the South Wentworth Women's Institute was held on Saturday, June 12, in the Mount Hope Methodist school room. On account of the busy season the attendance was small, only forty ladies being present, but an interesting programme was given, and the meeting was greatly enjoyed by all. After the opening exercises there was a short business meeting of the Glanford branch, a new method of work was announced for the year just beginning. A list of topics for the entire year is being printed, and will be placed in the hands of the members. The membership is to be divided into groups, each group to have charge of a meeting, so that once during the year each member will have some part in a meeting.

Mrs. Reed then introduced Miss Millar, of Glanford, who opened by a short talk on institute work, urging co-operation in the new plan of work. Miss Grace Hines gave an instrumental solo, and Miss Millar followed with her address on "What Money Cannot Buy," giving her hearers very practical ideas of the truly important things of life. Miss Hines played again, and a question drawer filled the remaining time. At the close of the meeting lunch was served and a social hour spent.

The joint summer meeting of the Carluke and Glanford branches of the South Wentworth Women's Institute was held on Saturday, June 12, in the Mount Hope Methodist school room. On account of the busy season the attendance was small, only forty ladies being present, but an interesting programme was given, and the meeting was greatly enjoyed by all. After the opening exercises there was a short business meeting of the Glanford branch, a new method of work was announced for the year just beginning. A list of topics for the entire year is being printed, and will be placed in the hands of the members. The membership is to be divided into groups, each group to have charge of a meeting, so that once during the year each member will have some part in a meeting.

Mrs. Reed then introduced Miss Millar, of Glanford, who opened by a short talk on institute work, urging co-operation in the new plan of work. Miss Grace Hines gave an instrumental solo, and Miss Millar followed with her address on "What Money Cannot Buy," giving her hearers very practical ideas of the truly important things of life. Miss Hines played again, and a question drawer filled the remaining time. At the close of the meeting lunch was served and a social hour spent.

The joint summer meeting of the Carluke and Glanford branches of the South Wentworth Women's Institute was held on Saturday, June 12, in the Mount Hope Methodist school room. On account of the busy season the attendance was small, only forty ladies being present, but an interesting programme was given, and the meeting was greatly enjoyed by all. After the opening exercises there was a short business meeting of the Glanford branch, a new method of work was announced for the year just beginning. A list of topics for the entire year is being printed, and will be placed in the hands of the members. The membership is to be divided into groups, each group to have charge of a meeting, so that once during the year each member will have some part in a meeting.

Mrs. Reed then introduced Miss Millar, of Glanford, who opened by a short talk on institute work, urging co-operation in the new plan of work. Miss Grace Hines gave an instrumental solo, and Miss Millar followed with her address on "What Money Cannot Buy," giving her hearers very practical ideas of the truly important things of life. Miss Hines played again, and a question drawer filled the remaining time. At the close of the meeting lunch was served and a social hour spent.

The joint summer meeting of the Carluke and Glanford branches of the South Wentworth Women's Institute was held on Saturday, June 12, in the Mount Hope Methodist school room. On account of the busy season the attendance was small, only forty ladies being present, but an interesting programme was given, and the meeting was greatly enjoyed by all. After the opening exercises there was a short business meeting of the Glanford branch, a new method of work was announced for the year just beginning. A list of topics for the entire year is being printed, and will be placed in the hands of the members. The membership is to be divided into groups, each group to have charge of a meeting, so that once during the year each member will have some part in a meeting.

MARCHED TO CAMP.

Col. Rennie's Men Made Record Tramp to Niagara-on-the-Lake.

LIEUT.-COL. RENNIE (Special Despatch to the Times.)

Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., June 15.—Lieutenant-Col. Rennie, with his sixty-one men of the Twelfth Field Ambulance Army Medical Corps, arrived in camp last night, after a fifty-six mile march from Hamilton. The boys from under the mountain are in good condition and excellent spirits, notwithstanding their long tramp. They started from Hamilton on Saturday afternoon, rested part of Sunday on the road, bivouacked and covered twenty-eight miles yesterday. The colonel is justly proud of his men. He offered to let them rest on the road again last night, but they voted to march on to the camp ground. This morning, naturally, they are taking a deserved rest.

The joint summer meeting of the Carluke and Glanford branches of the South Wentworth Women's Institute was held on Saturday, June 12, in the Mount Hope Methodist school room. On account of the busy season the attendance was small, only forty ladies being present, but an interesting programme was given, and the meeting was greatly enjoyed by all. After the opening exercises there was a short business meeting of the Glanford branch, a new method of work was announced for the year just beginning. A list of topics for the entire year is being printed, and will be placed in the hands of the members. The membership is to be divided into groups, each group to have charge of a meeting, so that once during the year each member will have some part in a meeting.

Mrs. Reed then introduced Miss Millar, of Glanford, who opened by a short talk on institute work, urging co-operation in the new plan of work. Miss Grace Hines gave an instrumental solo, and Miss Millar followed with her address on "What Money Cannot Buy," giving her hearers very practical ideas of the truly important things of life. Miss Hines played again, and a question drawer filled the remaining time. At the close of the meeting lunch was served and a social hour spent.

The joint summer meeting of the Carluke and Glanford branches of the South Wentworth Women's Institute was held on Saturday, June 12, in the Mount Hope Methodist school room. On account of the busy season the attendance was small, only forty ladies being present, but an interesting programme was given, and the meeting was greatly enjoyed by all. After the opening exercises there was a short business meeting of the Glanford branch, a new method of work was announced for the year just beginning. A list of topics for the entire year is being printed, and will be placed in the hands of the members. The membership is to be divided into groups, each group to have charge of a meeting, so that once during the year each member will have some part in a meeting.

Mrs. Reed then introduced Miss Millar, of Glanford, who opened by a short talk on institute work, urging co-operation in the new plan of work. Miss Grace Hines gave an instrumental solo, and Miss Millar followed with her address on "What Money Cannot Buy," giving her hearers very practical ideas of the truly important things of life. Miss Hines played again, and a question drawer filled the remaining time. At the close of the meeting lunch was served and a social hour spent.

The joint summer meeting of the Carluke and Glanford branches of the South Wentworth Women's Institute was held on Saturday, June 12, in the Mount Hope Methodist school room. On account of the busy season the attendance was small, only forty ladies being present, but an interesting programme was given, and the meeting was greatly enjoyed by all. After the opening exercises there was a short business meeting of the Glanford branch, a new method of work was announced for the year just beginning. A list of topics for the entire year is being printed, and will be placed in the hands of the members. The membership is to be divided into groups, each group to have charge of a meeting, so that once during the year each member will have some part in a meeting.

Mrs. Reed then introduced Miss Millar, of Glanford, who opened by a short talk on institute work, urging co-operation in the new plan of work. Miss Grace Hines gave an instrumental solo, and Miss Millar followed with her address on "What Money Cannot Buy," giving her hearers very practical ideas of the truly important things of life. Miss Hines played again, and a question drawer filled the remaining time. At the close of the meeting lunch was served and a social hour spent.

The joint summer meeting of the Carluke and Glanford branches of the South Wentworth Women's Institute was held on Saturday, June 12, in the Mount Hope Methodist school room. On account of the busy season the attendance was small, only forty ladies being present, but an interesting programme was given, and the meeting was greatly enjoyed by all. After the opening exercises there was a short business meeting of the Glanford branch, a new method of work was announced for the year just beginning. A list of topics for the entire year is being printed, and will be placed in the hands of the members. The membership is to be divided into groups, each group to have charge of a meeting, so that once during the year each member will have some part in a meeting.

Mrs. Reed then introduced Miss Millar, of Glanford, who opened by a short talk on institute work, urging co-operation in the new plan of work. Miss Grace Hines gave an instrumental solo, and Miss Millar followed with her address on "What Money Cannot Buy," giving her hearers very practical ideas of the truly important things of life. Miss Hines played again, and a question drawer filled the remaining time. At the close of the meeting lunch was served and a social hour spent.

The joint summer meeting of the Carluke and Glanford branches of the South Wentworth Women's Institute was held on Saturday, June 12, in the Mount Hope Methodist school room. On account of the busy season the attendance was small, only forty ladies being present, but an interesting programme was given, and the meeting was greatly enjoyed by all. After the opening exercises there was a short business meeting of the Glanford branch, a new method of work was announced for the year just beginning. A list of topics for the entire year is being printed, and will be placed in the hands of the members. The membership is to be divided into groups, each group to have charge of a meeting, so that once during the year each member will have some part in a meeting.

Mrs. Reed then introduced Miss Millar, of Glanford, who opened by a short talk on institute work, urging co-operation in the new plan of work. Miss Grace Hines gave an instrumental solo, and Miss Millar followed with her address on "What Money Cannot Buy," giving her hearers very practical ideas of the truly important things of life. Miss Hines played again, and a question drawer filled the remaining time. At the close of the meeting lunch was served and a social hour spent.

The joint summer meeting of the Carluke and Glan