usual monthly meeting in their rooms, at Bestow Building, last night. At a meeting of Directors—Mr. G. W.
Gushue in the chair—held before the ordinary meeting, Mr. Otto Rusch brought forward the names of three new members and others qualified for the prize offered by Mr. Butler.On adjournment to the ordinary meeting, Mr. G. W. Gushue, as chairman, first excused the absence of the regular Secretary, Mr. Calver, by a sympathetic reference to the loss that our popular Secretary has recently incurred in the death of his father.
On a motion proposed by Mr. Barker seconded by Mr. MacLeod it was unanimously decided to send a note of condolence to Mr. Calver expressing the sympathy of the members of the Association.Mr. G. W. Gushue then gave a very minute and interesting account of the results of the incubation recently inaugurated by the Association. Both Mr. Otto Rusch, who proposed the scheme, and Mr. Gushue who has so ably carried it out merit and have the thanks of the Association and of all who feel an interest in the poultry development of this country.It appears that up to date nearly a thousand eggs have been received from members of the Association and others, thus showing that great interest has been manifested in this venture. Although the results have varied greatly as to the per centage of chickens hatched, the lesson is obvious, viz., that eggs produced under unfavourable conditions and those that are old and stale will not, as a general rule, hatch out nearly as many chickens as eggs produced under proper conditions and put to hatch when fresh.Altogether Mr. Gushue has put down 17 incubators full, and there are more eggs awaiting the next vacancy—indeed the demand exceeds the means of supply, a most encouraging sign as to the interest being shown in the rearing of poultry.Following Mr. Gushue's interesting report, Mr. Otto Rusch suggested a discussion as to the holding of a poultry exhibition this year, and on the motion of Mr. Barker seconded by Mr. MacLeod it was decided that such an exhibition be held. After a short discussion the same two gentlemen proposed and seconded that the Directors form a committee to make arrangements for the show and that they have power to add to their number. Both propositions were heartily endorsed by the meeting.It was gratifying to note the large attendance at the meeting including many new members, and a discussion took place on various topics likely to prove interesting and instructive to the expert as well as to the beginner.It is a fact that the Association is going ahead, with and among its members it now includes many gentlemen of high standing both in commercial and government circles. We hope shortly to be able to run a "poultry" column in the daily papers by means of which much useful knowledge may be disseminated throughout the length and breadth of the country, and we confidently look forward to the time when eggs laid in Newfoundland will take the place in our shops and stores of the imported article.BISHOP JONES RETURNS.—His Lordship Bishop Jones returned here by the Bruce express last night. His Lordship spent the winter in Bermuda attending to the spiritual wants of those of his diocese in that southern clime. His Lordship is enjoying excellent health.MINARD'S LINIMENT USED BY PHYSICIANS.*"Borrowing A Wife."The farewell bill of the Casino players was put on last evening, for three nights, and delighted the audience. "Borrowing a Wife" is a tabloid of the popular comedy "Jane." It has a well-defined plot, which, as it developed, created constant and irrepressible laughter. The frantic efforts of a young man to persuade someone or anyone to represent herself as his wife, during a visit of his trustee, in order to fulfil the conditions necessary to inherit a fortune—are absurdly funny. His maidservant finally consents, causing her fellow-servants husband no end of trouble through jealousy. A giddy old lady also offers to help him out to his intense disgust. To deceive the trustee, he has written he is a happy father. To carry out this deception, a neighbor's child is borrowed, making bad worse. If you like to laugh, go and see it.Too much cannot be said in favor of Willis Reed, the leading man. His work here has endeared him to all.
Harvey Denton played the jealous servant in his own imitatively humorous manner; he is a great favorite.
Joseph Wright, as the Trustee, made us wonder how so young a man can assume so many different characters and be so excellent in all, but his experience dates from childhood. He would be an acquisition to any company. Mr. Barr was conspicuous by his absence from the cast which was much regretted, as his work always satisfies. Miss Amelia Barelen played the servant mistress, and it is needless to say she won out with great credit as she always does. She is as clever as she is pretty. Rachel Barr, as usual, showed up prominently. Her giddy old gusher part gave her a chance of which she took full advantage. As a young fiancee, Cora Elvira was very sweet and desirable.
There is a brightness and spontaneity in her work which makes it always pleasing to see her.We are pleased to record that no company of players have ever visited us who have given us such excellent performances and such a genuinely good class of plays. We are sorry to lose them, and shall often recall many pleasant and entertaining evenings. Good luck and bon voyage to them.Life on the Farm.The golden dawn is breaking, mules and cows waking, and eke the antlered steers; "I'd give a million dollars," the drowsy hired man hollers, "to sleep for fifty years!" He rubs his eyes and grumbles as down the stairs he stumbles to do his morning chores; he's pretty nearly weeping, his thoughts are all of sleeping, and of ecstatic snores. You do not hear him singing, his laughter isn't ringing, as he toils around the barn; not off the hired man whistles; his feet are full of thistles, and all he says is "darn!" The long, long day's before him, a brazen sky is o'er him, and he is seeking red; and at the time he's thinking how sweet 'twould be a-sinking into a feather bed! He milks the old cow "Bossy," and makes the mules look glossy, and makes the horse shine; and then, with weary tadons, he packs five thousand gallons of hogwash to the swine. He gives the calves their toddy while they climb up his body and kick him on the shins; and thus, with chores unending, and sighs and groans ascending, the rural days begin. And ever as he totters around the barn and potters with horses, mules and steers, the hired man sadly hollers, "I'd give a million dollars to sleep for fifty years!"Copyright, 1911, by Sought Her Child.Yesterday, a woman residing on Patrick Street, spent two hours of the keenest anxiety and alarm fearing that her little girl, aged 3 years, had gone over the trestle bridge and been drowned. Her little brother with whom she had been playing, came home at 1 p.m. without her, and said he had been on the bridge but did not know where the little one was.

The woman and the men in the railway yard searched the surroundings and the water, and during the afternoon the little one was found wandering about the streets. Its mother was prostrated from fright because of its absence.SNOW FELL YESTERDAY.—People who arrive here by the express yesterday, say that it snowed pretty hard for a while yesterday. The same applied to places north, especially in Trinity Bay where snow to the depth of an inch fell and some of the lakes were frozen over. A northerly wind prevailed and it was intensely cold.Special Showing of Seasonable Hosiery!We are now showing a most comprehensive gathering of Spring and Summer Hosiery. This is the season when every woman is looking for attractive and cool Hose, especially if she is wearing low shoes. We have some very special lines in Plain Black and Colored Silk and Lisle Thread, etc.; also some beautiful designs in Embroidered and Lace Stockings. Although these are all thin and cool, in fabric they are so splendidly made and of such fine quality that they simply wear excellently. Not only that, but they are uncommonly good values.Sole Agents
