HIT IT AGAIN.

By RUTH CAMERON.

Did you ever play the game called "Tether Ball"? It is a sort of second cousin, twice removed, from tennis. There is a tennis ball tethered by a piece of cord to a tall pole. The two contestants stand on opposite sides of the pole and hit the ball with tennis racquets. The object is to wind the cord up, each of course trying to wind it up his way.

It is an excellent game, a game which gives just as much exercise as tennis and is financially within the reach of everyone. But I am not an agent for "Tether Ball." I simply want to make you acquainted with the game so that you can visualize a little drama which I witnessed the other day.

The Champion Was The Shortest
Half a dozen young people were playing this game. As you can readily see, it is a sport in which height and strength are great advantages.

And yet, the champion of the group was the shortest of the lot—a little, red-haired lad of about fifteen, slight and rather short even for his age.

Two of the other contestants were six inches taller than he. And one was unquestionably stronger. Why, then, should he win?

I thought perhaps he had been at it longer than the rest, but found he had not.

So I watched him a few minutes—and then I knew.

He Never Rested On His Laurels.
He never rested on his laurels. The others would give a good hit and then stand back and watch the ball. He would give a good hit and then get into place to hit again. I am going to watch that boy when he grows up. I feel sure that the habit of hitting again is going to stand him in good stead.

The Man Who Got A Raise.

"The trouble with a great many of my salesmen," a business man once said to me, "is that whenever they make a big killing they have to sit back and admire themselves for awhile. But I've got one man who looks on every big sale he makes as a record to be broken next trip. I couldn't raise my other men this year, but you can bet I raised him!"

Laurels are bad things to rest on. There's a perfume about them that has much the same effect as lotus eating.

A boys' club asked me for a motto the other day. I couldn't think of one just then, but now I suggest "Hit it again."

What Are You Doing for that Eczema?

"Nothing," I've about given up trying to cure it."
"That is not wise. Do as I did and you will probably be cured in a short time. I used Zylex and Zylex Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once. A couple of boxes cured. You can get Zylex at your druggists."

Zylex, 50c. a box; Zylex Soap, 25c. a cake.

Last Night's Concert.

A GREAT SUCCESS.

Last evening the concert in aid of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Club, at Canon Wood Hall, was very largely attended. Included in the number were His Excellency the Governor, Lady Davidson, Capt. Abraham, Hon. R. Watson and Mrs. Browning of the Ladies' Reception Committee.

Prior to the commencing of the concert and at intervals the following young ladies did a brisk business in disposing of home-made candy: Misses Herder, Baird, Hayward, Trapnell and Duley. To Miss Jean Herder was allotted the responsibility of obtaining donations and manufacturing such an excellent supply of candy. The decorations and stage settings were very nicely arranged. The program which consisted of the following numbers, was greatly enjoyed by those present. Songs were given by Mrs. G. W. B. Ayre, Miss Emily Mare, Messrs. A. Williams, F. M. Ruggles, H. Courtney; pianoforte solo, Mr. Gordon Christian, L.R.A.M., who also acted as accompanist. The feature of the evening was the one-act farce, "The Spare Room." Scotch: London. Present day. A Room in a small flat. The performers, who without exception filled their parts well, were Corporal L. R. Cooper, as Guy, the young husband; Miss Frances A. Gosling, as Ethel, his wife; Commander MacDermott, R.N., as Uncle David; Mrs. L. R. Cooper, as Aunt Psyche; and Mr. H. Bell, as Cab-Runner. The act was very amusing and greatly enjoyed by all.

A number of ladies who spend their spare moments knitting socks for our soldiers brought along their work and during the evening managed to turn a hell or run off a few rounds. Mrs. Gosling and her assistants are to be congratulated on the splendid success of the affair.

The unadorned candles were sent on board H.M.S. Briton for our Naval Reservists.

Austro-German Forces at a Standstill.

Facing Disaster—"Instant Success or Utter Failure."

Athens, Tuesday, Oct. 31, via London, Nov. 2.—"The Austro-German offensive in Transylvania appears definitely to have arrived at a standstill," declared N. N. Filodor, the Roumanian Minister to Greece, to-day to the Associated Press correspondent.

"Operations of this smashing nature, like the attack on Paris, must be instantly successful if they are not destined to fail utterly," continued M. Filodor.

"Every day that we are able to postpone disaster we grow stronger and our opponents grow weaker. Any concerted attack presupposes a certain amount of unpreparedness to meet it on the part of those attacked, but it is not immediately successful, the preparedness of those attacked constantly increases, as was the case at Verdun."

"This is precisely what happened in Roumania, and is why the Austro-German offensive already is doomed. Moreover the fact that General Von Falkenhayn seems to have been replaced by Archduke Charles Francis on this front can be taken as showing that even the German general staff realizes the failure of the attempt."

IF!

Gaby Deslys, whose return to the London music-hall stage will be welcomed by all amusement lovers, tells a good story of a young English actor who was touring with her in America.

It was his first trip to the land of the stars and stripes, and he had an idea that it was the correct thing to carry a revolver out there, so before he left London he bought a beautiful little silver-plated, pearl-handled one, and stowed it away in his baggage.

In due course, as it happened, they arrived at a Western town which really did have a somewhat sinister reputation for rowdiness. The Englishman thought this a good opportunity to sport his revolver, and was showing it round in the afternoon in the bar of the principal hotel to a group of hard-bitten cowboys, in from the plains to see the show, and each of whom carried, strapped on his left hip, a huge 45 with a barrel nearly as long as a small carbine.

They examined the English actor's expensive "egg" with a curiosity not unmingled with contempt.

At length one of them remarked, as he laid the tiny revolver flat in the palm of one enormous hand:—"Stranger, if yer was to shoot me with this 'ere darning thing, and I ever found it out, I'd go fer yer bald-headed, sure."—Pearson's Weekly.
