Freckles and tan, freekles and tan, Radge of a boy since the world first began. Hair that is tousle And matted and wiry, requently frousled And stubborn and fiery; Eyes that are never Dull-colored or teary,

Mouth that forever

Is mirthful and cherry; Some may resist him, but I never can, The boy that God blesses with freekles

Preckles and tan, freckles and tan,
Plaid of a youthful and glorious clan!
Give me the grinning
And mischievous faces,
Waists that need pinning
In several places,
Give me the snickers
Of boyhood and chuckles,

And scarred knees and knuckles— There's where the future may look for never a weakling wears freckles and tan.

I used to borrow Maltese cats and howitzers and sabres, revolving churns and Sunday hats, from my afflicted neighbors. And though I had a heart of gold, and manners frank and pleasing, the atmosphere soon grew so cold I felt that I was freez ing. Men couldn't see my sterling worth ; they said, "The gent is stilly who borrows everything on earth nor fears a welcome chilly." Men can't be happy when he's shunned, by all his friends forsaken; and so I or ranged a fund to buy my beans and bacon. I ceased to ask my wearled friends to lend me shirts and mittens bought my wigs and Grecian bends
