NOTE AND COMMENT

Blatant charges made by the Canadian Express Companies received more check last week when the Railway Commission handed out a drastic criticism of their relations with the public. The companies are ordered to prepare and submit within three months new tariffs giving effect to the specific and general conditions enunciated in its judgment, which was prepared by Chief Commissioner Mabey, and covered 114 pages. The decision reached upsets the whole fabric of express tariff in Canada, and orders that reductions be made all around. This will be good news to the general public, as the charges at present made are a disgrace to Canada and the wonder is that they have been so long tolerated.

The announcement made a few days ago in London by the Minister of Power for Ontario, that arrangements are under consideration for supplying electric power to the farmer, will be welcomed by agriculturists living within the power zone. Cheap power is of as much importance to the farmer as it is to the average citizen in any town. Electricity on the farm is not a new thing. In the little republic of Switzerland the farmer is the one who benefits most from electric power development in that country. With electricity to light his buildings, to drive his machinery and to do many other things for which power is needed on the farm, the farmer's position can be greatly improved and his business made more profitable. Much will depend, however upon the cost of the power. But if it can be supplied as cheaply as the promoters of the hydro-electric scheme say it can, then there are some good things coming to those who live within the power zone.

It is not advisable to look backward on the past too much to brood over its failures, or to gloat over its successes. Yet it is not well to ignore the past altogether. There are valuable lessons to be learned from past failures as well as successes. Many men who are successful to-day have profited from the failures of the past. They have analyzed the reasons for their failures made a close study of the conditions that have brought them about, and have thus been able to build up on a sounder and surer foundation. The man who has been successful in the past, always looks forward with hopefulness, and has every reason so to do. Past successes make him stronger for future work, and he pushes forward with confidence in himself to accomplish still greater successes. There are many, however, whose past failures loom up larger than their successes. To these a little closer study of the conditions which have brought about the failures will be helpful. The closing year is the time to take stock of the past. After the Christmas festivities are over, and the holiday spirit has abated somewhat, is the time to do a little reflective thinking, though one should not dwell too long upon it, just enough to go over the ground carefully, to see up the situation, learn what is to be learned from the past, and then press forward to greater achievements in the future. There must be no brooding over past failures. The man who broods over the past, soon becomes discouraged, which bars his progress towards success in the future.

Rev. Walter E. Millson, an Osborne Old Boy, has received a call to Respector from Kieraville, to fill the pulpit made vacant by the death of Rev. Jasper Wilson.

Mr. Ray Fanson and family of Abernethy, Sask., are visiting with relatives in Exeter. Ray is much interested with the west and he certainly looks as if the country agrees with him.

Mr. Sam. J. Latta of Gowan, Sask., a former Exeter boy, succeeded in capturing single-handed one of the worst criminals in the West Bill Watson. It was a very nice piece of work, but Sam J. was equal to it. Watson had blown open the P. O. safe and Mr. Latta found him at a farm house, and had him hand cuffed before he could make an effective resistance.

B. G. Ryckman of the Exeter Apple Evaporator is in town this week leasing orchards. He prunes, sprays and cultivates the trees, in fact he has the most modern method of treating apple orchards. He will pay you a lump sum every year for your orchard, apples or no apples. If you would like to develop your own orchard and bring it up to the proper standard, call and see Mr. Ryckman at the Central Hotel. He will be able to give you some valuable information.

KIRKTON

Society of First Church, St. Marys, and the E. L. of James Street, Exeter, will give a grand concert at 8 p.m. Refreshments at the close. Admission: 25c. and 15c.

As will be seen by a notice elsewhere in this issue Miss Anna Smith, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Smith of the London Road South, was married in Toronto on New Years Day, to Mr. Arthur B. Richardson of that city. Miss Smith will have the best wishes and hearty congratulations of her many friends here for her future happiness and prosperity.

The teachers, who have been visiting at their various homes, have returned and school re-opened on Wednesday.

Exeter and Hensall Juniors played a game of hockey at Hensall Tuesday evening, resulting 5-0 in favor of Hensall.

The sermons of Rev. Livingstone in James Street church on Sunday were greatly appreciated. The pastor, Rev. Hobbs, preached anniversary sermons in Mitchell.

A fellow that has located in the far west says, "This is a wonderful country. Every hamlet is a town, every town a city, every farm a ranch, every mound a mountain and every man a bar."

Residents of this vicinity deeply sympathize with the family of Mr. and Mrs. Phibkner of Stephen in the serious illness of a son and daughter. They were taken to London for treatment on Wednesday.

Bertha, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Russell, unfortunately broke her left leg below the knee on Tuesday while playing about a snow mound the children had built. After being attended to the little one is now doing as well as can be expected.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the manse here on Tuesday evening last by Rev. S. P. Sharp, when Mr. Alexander Dow was united in marriage to Miss Joseph Miller, both of Seaforth. Mr. and Mrs. Dow will make their future home here and all will join in wishing that adversity may never cast a shadow across their pathway.

Mr. Jos. Lambrook of Port Wayne, Ont., was married at the home of his father, Mr. Harry Lambrook, on Saturday evening, Dec. 31st, to a young lady from the same city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. W. Collins. Mr. and Mrs. Lambrook will reside in Port Wayne, for which place they left Tuesday. They will have the best wishes of their Exeter friends.

FORMER EXETER BOY WEDS.—The following from the Swift Current (Sask.) Sun will give the particulars of the marriage of a former Exeter young man.—"The marriage of Will Yager to Miss Mabel McEwen took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Yager on Wednesday, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. G. McKechnie beneath a bell of white flowers, after which wedding breakfast was served. The bride looked beautiful, attired in white, wearing silk and was attended by Miss Annie Jackson of Medicine Hat, the groom being supported by Reg. Hodgson. The presents testify the esteem in which both young people are held, and while the wedding was attended only by immediate relatives and a few friends there were many at the train to see the happy couple off on a trip to Winnipeg and St. Paul. On their return they will make their home here." Will will have the best wishes of a host of friends here for a happy and prosperous wedded life.

BERBE-PRIOR.—A very pretty house wedding was solemnized at the pretty home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Prior on the East Side, on Tuesday last when their eldest daughter, Miss Cora, was married to Mr. Ernest C. Beebe, a popular young man of Dunnville. The ceremony was performed in the presence of only a few of the friends and relatives of the contracting parties by the Rev. Richard Hobbs, and took place at high noon. The bride, who was given away by her father, and was unattended looked charming in a dainty cream gown, carrying a shower bouquet of cream roses. The ceremony over, and congratulations extended, all sat down to a well arranged wedding dinner. The wedding presents formed a magnificent array, and comprised many articles of beauty, value and usefulness. The happy couple took the evening train and will spend the honeymoon at London, Hamilton and Brantford, after which they will reside in Dunnville, where they will be at home to their friends, after January 23rd. Thus Exeter loses another of its popular young ladies and the heartfelt congratulations and best wishes for future happiness and prosperity will be the wish of all.

DEATH OF THOMAS HARTNOLL.—Death has removed from our midst another old resident, a man noted for his strict integrity, good living and a familiar character on our streets. We refer to Mr. Thomas Hartnoll, who passed away on Monday last at the age of 73 years, 1 month and 10 days. The deceased was always robust and hardy and scarcely knew what a day's sickness was until he was stricken down a few weeks ago with a stroke of paralysis, which performed its deadly mission, gradually sinking until the end came. Mr. Hartnoll was born in Weirgifford, Devonshire, England, November 23rd, 1837. About twenty-five years ago he came to Canada with his family and settled in Exeter, where he has continuously resided ever since, proving himself a most worthy citizen, and his death will be regretted by a large circle of friends. Mr. Hartnoll was a faithful and devout member of the James Street Methodist Church and has been for many years a local preacher. In this capacity he possessed more than ordinary ability and his discourses were always practical, deeply spiritual and interesting. For many years Mr. Hartnoll has been engaged in the wood business, buying blocks of timber, having B. C. mill, wood and supplying the residents of Exeter and community. In this capacity he will be much missed. He is survived by one daughter, Miss Beattie, who lives at home, also one sister, Mrs. James Deor of town, both of whom will have the best wishes and sympathy of their many friends. His wife predeceased him about five years. The funeral took place to the Exeter cemetery from his late residence, John Street, yesterday (Wednesday).
