Young men starting in life should be careful what trade or business they undertake to learn, the professions being overcrowded. The scale of pay in trades is being reduced by the advent of machinery.
There is one trade that is usually overlooked, that is, barbering. It is easy, gentlemanly, and the opportunities of starting in business are greater than in any other. The main object in this business is to get a good teacher. One of the best teachers in Canada is Mr. Thos. Tracy.
This gentleman has been in the business some twenty odd years, during which time he has owned some of the finest shops in Canada and the United States.
His work is judged by even his competitors as excellent by none. Mr. Tracy is now located at 355 Richmond Street, London, where any desiring to learn the business can do so. His terms are $50, for which he guarantees to make them proficient. Write or call quick, as his space is limited. b

Tuesday evening.

—Miss Nellie Ganthony, the talented and beautiful English entertainer, concluded her engagement at the Grand Opera House last night, giving an entirely different programme from that of Thursday, but one equally meritorious. The fashionable audience fully appreciated Miss Ganthony's Taand Sewers.

Nothing has got to be done about the Prant Orphans' Home sewer," said Al W. Jones at last night's meeting of Nations. Continuing he told of what, with Ald. F. J. Fitzgerald and they, had seen on their tour of inspection through the homes. At the Prant Orphans' Home the sewerage ran a large cistern, and from there wamped out over the surface. The site arising from this was very unpleasant, and as the home authorities offered to pay one-third of the cost of a sewer asked that something be done.
Alcithard said that the owners of the Bee property objected to the sewer be built through their property, but it was in record in the council minutes that the sewer was to be built. The decision to close the street leading thru the property the city reserved the right way for any sewer they might want build. The matter was left over to 2 committees. In No. 3 committee's action Ald. Carrothers took exception to "ex" on the street watering contracts of Mrs. Smart, Baldwin and Harley.
Mrs. Smart's contract was $540; extras, $114 Mr. Baldwin's, $387, extras, $92 Mr. Hartley's, $391; extras, $22.
The amounts were left over until inquiries were made as to who ordered the extras.
In doing with tax matters the committee sided on reconsideration to remit the same to the committee. Mrs.
Cowan, aged 80, was granted a simultaneous Mrs. Dillon's taxes will be paid against her property, which goes to son in California on her death.

ported on the case of Mrs. Johnston, widow of her husband, John Johnston, deceased. Ald. Judd (chairman), Ald.
Carrothers, J. W. Jones, Pritchard, F. J.
Fitzgerald and Secretary Pope.
