Boston Skipper Brings in a Chunk of Mr. and Mrs. Longfield, of 440 Estimated To Be Worth $20,000.

Boston, July 15.—Late last Friday afternoon the fishing schooner Hockomock was on George's Bank swordfishing and had been having a pretty hard run of luck. The lookout suddenly warned the harpoonmen of the approach of a school of swordfish and in little ship for Boston and today the Hockomock arrived at T wharf.

One of the swordfish was opened and a large piece of odd-looking substance physical drill was given by Sergeants was pulled out. An old whaler on the Oakley, Ludgate and Carr, Corporals ship informed the skipper that he had Phillips, McFarlane, Campbell and the best cargo he ever brought into Stevens, and Privates Cook, Davis, Boston, for this queer substance was Travis, Shaw, Hymmen, Innis, Walsh, ambergris. RARE PLANTS STOLEN POLICEMAN ARRESTED

Gravenhurst-Lieut, Kincade,

New York, July 13. - The great rhododendron plot that baffled Commissioner Bingham, his deputy, Woods, also the inscrutable and notso-always infallible McCafferty, has been triumphantly broken wide open by Deputy Commissioner Bugher, with the result that the patrolman is behind the bars, one chauffeur is incarcerated, and divers and various others are being reached for by the police.

Mr. Bugher has worked on the rhododendron plot only a days, but he smashed the pernicious scheme on the head, so that Central Park probably will lose no more of the magnificent plants that Mrs. Russell Sage gave to the city, at a cost of $50,000. Whether or not the thousands that have been stolen will be restored, the deputy commissioner will not predict. The thefts of rhododendrons were carried on wholesale, and as the evidence seems to show, with the con-The following is the list of field nivance of the police.
