

HANG THE MURDERERS.

GEN. MIDDLETON'S INSTRUCTIONS FROM OTTAWA.

A correct and reliable version of the Duke Lake fight—Riel's part in the affair—Who fired first and who fired last.

From Yesterday's 7 a.m. Edition.

WINNIPEG, Man., April 21.—A further interview with the Sioux braves captured at Clarke's Crossing has resulted in ascertaining that White Cat, their chief, was with Riel with all his lodges, most of whom are refugees from Minnesota in 1862.

Of halfbreeds there are 250 poorly armed. Nine lodges of Teton Sioux are on the east side with Riel and five lodges on the west side. Riel's Indian allies do not number more than one hundred. Many Cree there are between Batoche and Prince Albert the prisoners did not know.

Gen. Middleton, having been asked if it were true that he was ordered from Ottawa not to fire on the rebels, replied that it was internal riot. His only instructions were to quell the insurrection and hang the murderers. He has no responsibility as to head men. Those he would carry off he thinks crimes may be perpetrated if he divides his forces by crossing a point to the other side of the Saskatchewan, and recognizes it as not being military, but if he attacks the west side the halfbreeds will retain the Riel hills, and a perfect cover if the attack is made from the east side. They can cross the ferry and hide in the woods near the river.

Duck Lake. He has now nearly 800 troops, but if the rebels go and cut off the halfbreeds and Indians to rise and cut off supplies which are being advanced from Qu'Appelle.

The general has resolved upon the following plan of advance: Forty scouts under Capt. French, 50th Regt. Winnipeg, light battery and 10th Royal Grenadiers will cross the river to day and to-morrow and will proceed to march on the river under command of Col. Montezumbar.

Col. Otter's column, including the Queen's Own, started at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon from Saskatchewan and are on their march over the prairie for Battleford.

There is no news from Riel's camp, but three rebel scouts were seen at Toulwood yesterday endeavoring to cut off the halfbreeds and Indians to rise and cut off supplies which are being advanced from Qu'Appelle.

HE SAW THE FALLS.

BY THEE SHARP.

At the Falls of Montmorency, below Quebec, there is a hotel by the roadside where you pay twenty-five cents to a woman who can't talk English and in consideration of this sum you are allowed to see the falls. A young fellow paid just as I left the house to walk across the field to the steps in front of the falls. He came running after me. He was very anxious to see them. He had walked all the way from Quebec—about nine miles—and now his impatience was getting the better of him.

"You paid first," he said, "but would you mind my going down the steps ahead of you?"

"Not at all," I said, "I guess, though, the steps are wide enough for two to go down."

"I suppose so, but I want to get there before a crowd comes. I have a crowd. I want to enjoy the falls alone."

"It is too late in the season for a crowd. I don't suppose anyone has been here for a month."

As we came to the long stairway he hopped merrily down, two stairs at a time. Suddenly his feet went out from under him and he went down the stair, which is very steep, in a sitting posture, giving a shriek every time he hit a step. The crowd of people waiting at the top of the stairs looked on with incredulous smiles in spite of all efforts to stifle their laughter.

He lay on his back for some time, and then he got up and walked down the stairs, but he was not the same man. He was very pale and his eyes were closed. He was dead.

An Old Soldier's EXPERIENCE.

"I wish to express my appreciation of the valuable qualities of

as a cough remedy.

"While with Churchill's army, just before the battle of Vicksburg, I contracted a severe cold, which terminated in a dangerous cough. I could not rest till on our march we came to a country where, on asking, we were recommended to use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

"I did so, and was rapidly cured. Since then I have kept the Pectoral constantly by me, for family use, and I have found it to be an invaluable remedy for throat and lung diseases."

Thousands of testimonials testify to the prompt cure of all bronchitis and lung affections, by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Being very palatable, the young and children take it readily.
