Ottawa Vegetable Growers

The Ottawa branch of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association has carried out an interesting programme during the present season. In June they held their regular monthly meeting in the gardens of Mr. Conrad McConnell, and the president, I. A. Farquharson, on the Avlmer road, during the strawberry season. Both gardens presented interesting subject matter for discussion. The feature of Mr. McConnell's garden was his extra choice plot of strawberries and a large field of promising tomatoes. The feature of Mr. Farquharson's garden was his large field of early cabbage, and a promising plot of Herbert raspberries, which later yielded him at the average of $25.00 a row of about one hundred feet.

The July meeting was held at the Experimental Farm and the Ottawa Nurseries, the Herbert raspberry being the feature at both places. At the Experimental Farm the visitors were shown several seedling apple trees, that promise to be valuable for commercial planting.

In August the gardens of Jas. Cox and J. McMullen on the Montreal road were visited. Melons and high-class apples were a strong feature at both places.

The September meeting took place in the gardens of W. Trick, Ottawa South, and W. Hull, Herb Baillie and H. P. Carstesen, all of Billings Bridge. Excellent onion crops were seen in all four of these gardens; the tomatoes were fair, but some large cauliflower fields, like all others in the district, were poor, the dry, hot summer having ruined all the cauliflower in the district.

The Ottawa branch received a grant of twenty dollars from each of the three townships of Nepean, Gloucester and South Hull, and fifty dollars from the city of Ottawa. This money has been granted in prizes for exhibits at the Central Canada and Avlmer, Que., shows and for field crop competitions in onions, cauliflower and tomatoes. Mr. T. G. Bunting, assistant horticulturist at the Central Experimental Farm, acted as judge of the field crops and made awards as follows: Block of five hundred or more tomatoes—First prize, C. McConnell; second, W. Hull. Block of one thousand or more cauliflower—First, W. McCurrie; second, H. P. Carstesen. Block of five hundred square feet of onions—First, Herb Baillie; second, W. Trick. The judge recommended that a third prize of two dollars be given H. P. Carstesen for onions, as his field was very creditable, but hardly good enough to win against the two above named. The first prize in each case was six dollars, and the second prize four dollars. The association made a special demonstration exhibit at the Central Canada Exhibition, consisting of specimens of practically everything grown by the local gardeners. This exhibit was later given the city hospitals.

Cooperative buying of supplies, and the excellent and instructive meetings held have been a great incentive to new membership, and the branch has nearly doubled its membership this season. Addresses were delivered at the June meeting by Alex. McNeill, Chief of the Fruit Division of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa; at the July meeting by Rev. A. H. Scott of Perth, vice president of the Ontario Horticultural Association, and by R. B. Whyte, president of that association. The August meeting was addressed by Mr. G. F. Marsh of the Ottawa Valley Journal, and the September meeting by R. B. Whyte, W. Graham of Graham Bros., seedsmen, and Mr. Buck of the Experimental Farm.—W. J. Kerr, Sec'y, Woodroffe, Ont.
