For a single copy of Wycliffe Bible the reader of that day paid forty pounds sterling—the equivalent of $200 of our money. A Japanese pastor recently visited his brother, whom he had not seen for a number of years. The pastor with some inward trepidation presented his brother with a New Testament and urged him to study it. The captain laughed, and going to a drawer in his desk he took out a little book which he handed to his brother. It was a New Testament, well worn with reading. Neither knew the other's views on religion.—'The Lutheran.'

Miss Florence Nightingale, who has entered on her 87th year, received scores of congratulations on her birthday. Miss Nightingale, who lives in South Street, Hyde Park, London, England, is very feeble, physically, but her mental alertness remains, and she still interests herself in the Nightingale Nurses' Training Home, erected thirty-five years ago out of the money testimonial raised for her by a grateful nation in recognition of her Crimean War work.

Thousands Are Happy

DEAR FRIENDS:—

Through the kindness of our subscribers thousands of strangers to our publications have during the last few days learned of our Diamond Jubilee Year End offers to new subscribers.

But many of our subscribers have not yet realized that plenty of their friends and neighbors will not hear of these special offers or become acquainted with our publications except through the personal introduction of our present subscribers. Nor have all our subscribers realized the benefit they would thus be conferring on their neighbors and friends and on the publishers and on themselves.

Just read our special Diamond Jubilee Year End offers to new subscribers and tell everybody you can about them. Then look to us to fulfil our part, namely, the premium or commission offers therein announced.

With hearty co-operation we could soon make the 'Witness' the largest, as well as the _____ newspaper in the Dominion, and our other publications fear neither comparison nor honest competition.

Yours to serve you,

THE PUBLISHERS.
