- MANAGEMENT BOOKS AND CHARLES BULESTIES WORLD

Christmas comes but once a year, and when it comes it brings good cheer." Does it? Well, I suppose it does to a good many of us, but I fear there a candreds of people to whom Christmas is but a name. Cortainly it it brings peace and goodwill to them that is about all it does bring, and though it looks very nice upon paper, and soundslovely when we sing it in church, yet peace and goodwill are not much use in clothing half maked bedies and tilling empty sto—I beg pardon interiors.

Well, of course, one does what one can, you know, and really, there is so much misery and want everywhere, it seems as though there nover would be any ond to it.

Just so, there never will be any ond to it. The poor we have always with us, it seems to be one of these adamustine laws which nothing can alter. If the some interest with and have the whole wealth of the universe divided equally between every body should have the same amount, nother man, woman and crult so that everybody should have the same amount, neither more nor less, how long would the millerutura last? Certainly not so maniform, when the millerutura last? Certainly not so many hours, only just long enough to enable the "sharps" and "flats" to complete the course, and—well, after flats, we should have the poor with us again, and probably more of them than over.

Yes, but there is really so much washed and improvidence, you know, people bring all their misories on themsolves. Sometimes, but there are made to the course, and probably more of them than over.

Yes, but there is really so much washed and improvidence, you know, people bring all their misories on themsolves. Sometimes, but there are made and mismanagement has which would made a cemorable the season of undoesered and mismanagement. This set of thing does not occur in overy household certainly, but in nearly every one there is waste going on in some form or auchter, waste that could casily be checked. I wonder, some down the checked. I wonder, some collect the auripus from large establishments. This idea has been suggested before, but whether or not it has been acted upon I do not know. There are very flow of us who cannot in some way or another help some poor family to the good cheer which is a laways associated with the festive scasen.

I must say a word here for the St.

good cheer which is always associated with the feative season.

I must say a word here for the St. Vincent do Paul Society. The work, this noble organization does among the sick and poor is simply magnificant; there is no other word for it. You may be sure this every cort you give to the Society goes to the poor, and that in no higgsardly or half-hearted manner; the hole given is always substantial help, the effects of which are fold for months after. Coal, clothing, food, medicine and money are all distributed to the help is continued till the poople are in bottor position. At Christmas time the rates upon the Society's funds are accessarily very great, as large and anbatantial tolons of "peace and goodwill" are sent to overy family whose needs have come under the notice of the Society.

Now this next Sunday is the last of Advent. Next week is Christmas week Most of my readers are purchasing presents &c. for friends and relatives. I want you all, coryone on my "saper friends," to take five cents to clurch with you on Sunday and drop it into that importunate little box with the wide mouth, which overy Sunday appeals silently for alms for the "sick and ore." Everybedy can spare five cents, and if overybedy who goes to clurch next Sunday morning will drop that, to some, insignificant little piece of silver into the box, what will the sum total amount to? I cannot say, but probably the result would astonish you, dear reader. Some may say, "Oh, I can't afford five cents," Indeed, what are you going to give more than that." Very well, I am only too delighted to hear it, afford five cents." Indeed, what are you going to do with it? Buy a new test, or a last, or a jacket? Of course but the St. Vincent de l'aul Society can, it can add your five cents to huirded of others and bring comfort and good clever into scores of homes this coming Christmas Day. Now this next Sunday is the last of

The weather seems to be very undesided in its axind, if it can be said to possess such a thing. The accounts from the old country give us a harrowing description of featral cold, suovstorms and blizzards, &c., till one wonders whether the world's "axle," as I once heard an old lady call it, has suddenly slowed round and placed us where the British Islands used formerly to reade, while they in turn are occupying the place of Caunda. Certainly, the cold is nothing like what I was led to expect. From the accounts given of Caunda in England the away where the account given of Caunda in England the unsophisticated would imagine it to a kind of North Pole, where overybody goes about dressed in bearskins and constantly caressing their cars and toese tessent it they are frozen. I can will remember my constornation on unsetting our boxes (we arrived in April) and showing our drosses to my cousin Mary, to hear her exclaim. "Good gracious, child, you can nover wear those things, you would be melted!" Acting on the advice of people who certainly had no business to give it, for, as the sequel proved, thoy know nothing at all about the climate, I had purchased the climate, I had purchased the thickest cited I could had for all our dresses and wraps, and the consequence way, we had to go shepping almost as soon as we had settled down. I remonstrated at the purchase of muslin, ac., and was met by the grim reply. "Wast and see." I did see, and I shall never lorget that first Canadian summer, as loug as I hvo Even the cold of a winter such as we had last year, far nothing the what a sluing a three them to cold of a winter such as we had last year, far nothing the what a sluing a three they are no such things as furnaces and steam radiators in England. I want to tell my readers that we are getting up a Christmas number. There will be a Santa Clause story for the children, besides other tales, and various interesting features. Don't miss the grand Christmas Number, please take one or two extra copies to send to friends over the sen. Mr. ". J. Humes, Columbus, Ohio, writes: "I have been afflicted for some time with Kidney and Liver Complaint, and find Parmeloc's Pills the best medicine for these diseases. These Pills do used when a cathartic is required. They are Golatine Coated, and rolled in the Flour of Licerice to preserve their purity, and give them a pleasant, agreeable taste.

The minister was a great hand shaker—shutting down like a vice. One day he took a boy's hand and gave it an awful squeeze, as he said: "My little fellow, I lope you are pretty well today." With tears in his oyes the boy answered, "I was till you shook hands with me."

A genuine ghost-story has yet to be attested; but not so a genuine blood-puritier. Over and over again it has been proved that Ayer's Sarsaparilla stands alone among medicines as the most reliable tonic-alternative in pharmacy. It stood alone at the World's Fair.
