LIBERALS GIVE FULL SUPPORT TO BORDEN'S WAR MEASURES

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in Brief Bu t Eloquent Speech, Declares French-Canadians Have Double Call to Fight Against Military Despot of Europe

England had appealed to Germany to tide over the acute crisis, promising to use her influence with France and Russia to bring about every assurance that the German emperor demanded, and she was in a position to make good her offer, but it was impossible to escape the conviction that Germany had decided upon the war, and that the attack upon Servia and the invasion of Beigium merely carried into effect a deliberate plan and deep-laid conspiracy. Every demand made by Austria upon Servia had been acceded to except one, which involved Austrian control of the Servian judiciary. Even that outrageous demand ciary. Even that outrageous demand had not been absolutely refused. Yet

Even after hostilities were unavoid-upon Britain by Germany after every possible effort had been made by the British Government to keep the peace Germany, it is true, had promised to respect the integrity of Belgium, but what reliance could be placed on her pledge when at that very moment she was ruthlessly violating a solemn treaty to which she was a party?

Sir Robert then reviewed the steps which had been taken by the Dominion Government to meet the sudden emer-gency of war. They had immediately purchased two submarines, had equip-ped the Rainbow and put the Niobe into commission. These vessels had then been placed at the disposal of the admiralty under the provisions of the Naval Service Act of 1910. On Aug. 2 the Dominion Government had cabled the imperial government offering a contingent of soldiers, but suggesting that on account of the Militia Act it might be well to have them enlisted in the imperial forces, Canada, however, to bear the expense of their mobilization, equipment, pay and transporta-tion. A reply had been received expressing the appreciation of his ma-jesty's government, but suggesting that the discussion of the details of Canada's aid be postponed for the mo-

"I am convinced, however," said the prime minister, "that the attack on Servia by Austria-Hungary was part of a deliberate conspiracy and that the invasion of Belgium by the German army merely carried out a plan long ago determined upon." Mr. Sutherland (South Oxford) in moving the address, fully justified the course of the British Government in taking up arms for the defence of Bel-gium against the aggression of the German emperor. The present war, he declared, was directed against William II. and his dynasty rather than against the German people, and he beagainst the German people, and he believed the outcome would be a German republic. The address was commented upon the unanimity of the Measures Approved Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in opening, said that his remarks would be few and very brief. Speaking for his side of the house, he assured the government that the measures they had taken for the purpose of safety and for Canada's participation in the defence of the empire would meet with acquiescence and support. Canadians were ever eager and willing to take their part in the defence of the empire, but they were more ready to take up arms at this time, because the present struggle was the struggle of freedom and civiliza-tion against the lust for conquest and autocratic power. England had not sought the war, but she could only have avoided it by withdrawing to her own isles, abandoning her ally, France, and accepting the infamous proposals of the despot of Europe. It was a source of pride to British subjects everywhere that she had preferred a war to a peace purchased at such a price. (Applause). Our contingent may seem small when measured by the inevitable.

Sir Robert then referred to the gift of a million bags of flour to the British people. He said that the Dominion Government, with the sanction of parliament, intended to establish in France a hospital of 50 beds for the care and succor of wounded soldiers. Work in several departments of the university will be seriously held up because it is impossible to secure shipments of goods from Germany. Prof. Squair said last night that practically the entire supply of chemicals and other equipment used in the departments of chemistry and physical science are obtained from Germany, and, as these had not arrived before the outbreak of war, it will now be impossible to secure them this year. It is possible that American firms can provide substitutes for these materials and equipment, but all the American colleges will be similarly situated.

The teaching of French and German will be seriously impaired, and the shipment of French and German text-books to be used this year has not been received in Toronto. Prof. St. Elmo de Champ and several other members of the faculty connected with the French department are known to be in France and have possibly enlisted in the French army. Other members of the university staff including President Falconer, are now in Europe, and it is not known when they will return to this side of the Atlantic.
