The arrest of Guiseppede Felice, a Socialist deputy for Catania and founder of the revolutionary Fasci del Laboratori, is regarded as a wise act since, by his personal influence alone, he has been able to bring all Catania to the verge of rebellion. A few hours before leaving Rome for Sicily Deputs of Felice aid, in an interview with the United Press correspondent: "The Fasci are perfectly organized and will resist the military. My place is there among my people. I do not fear the force of arms." Although watched by Government agents from the moment he entered Sicily, de Felice did not alter his plans in any way. Last evening he called a meeting of the revolutionary committee, and presided over their deliberations. Immediately after leaving the meeting he was arrested at his house. British Parish Councils Bill and Some of Its Provisions—A Momentous Revolution.

Reflections on British Public Officials -Kaiser Wilhelm and His Cabinet.

(Copyright 1894, by the United Press.) LONDON, Jan. 6.—The compromise on which the Conservative leaders agreed to the passage of the Parish Councils bill has tied the hands of the House of Lords as regards the modification or rejecting of this measure, which is intended to revo-lutionize the whole system of rural govern-ment in England. The concessions granted as the compromise to the Conservatives in no wise alter the main proposals to place the control of the main administration under the popular vote. Henceforth the agricultural laborers, if they choose to exercise their power, can rule parish interests

as they please. The last struggle over the measure in the House of Commons concerned the allotment and constitution of poor law boards. The Government agreed to the Conservative amendments by which the boards are to co-operate with four of the former ex-officio members, and the allotments are not to exceed four acres—one acre arable and the rest pasture. Another Conservative amendment provides that, after the termination of the allotment occupancy, the landlords will not be liable for the tenant's improvements. In commenting upon these amendments, the Spectator says: "Once the electors get the bit between their teeth no restriction which the bill contains will prevent the Parish councils from becoming thoroughly Jacobin in their plundering of the landlords under cover of compulsory allotment, and the ratepayers, through the Board of Guardians." Quite as momentous a revolution will PARISH INTERESTS ratepayers, through the Board of Guardians." Quite as momentous a revolution will arise from the application of part of the bill to London. The present system of local government, through vestries and poor law guardians, both elected by the ratepayers, is abolished and a method of franchise quite equivalent to manhood suffrage with the secret ballot becomes law. Even the rating qualification of candidates is abolished, and women are electorally is abolished, and women are electorally eligible. It is complete democratic home rule for London. COMING LEGISLATION.

The ministers have given pledges to the Irish members that the Queen's speech at the re-opening of the session shall announce the urgency of a bill to reinstate evicted tennants in Ireland. The bill has been already prepared, in accordance with the recommendation of Justice Mathews' commission, which was appointed in Dec., 1892. to inquire into the condition of the evicted tenants. It will be pressed through the House of Commons without delay. The other bills which will be promised in the Queen's speech will provide for Welsh disestablishment, one man one vote, the local veto, the eight hour day in mines and exceptionally unhealthy industries and equalization of the rates in London. Seeing in the heavy character of this programme, the certainty of a protracted session, the Irish Nationalists agree that it will be futile to reint of the first Rule bill until 1895, shortly before the dissolution. COMING LEGISLATION.

Referring to the more stringent precau-tions of the Admiralty to keep secret the designs of the new warships, Fair Play says that anybody can obtain such designs if he chooses to pay the officials. CABINET MISUNDERSTANDINGS. On Tuesday and Wednesday last Emperor William held a prolonged conference, first with the Chancelor and Baron Marschall Biberstein, Minister of Foreign Affairs, and then with Dr. Miquel and Count Bothe Seu Eulenberg, President of the Prussian Council of Ministers, His Majesty is trying to maintain an entente between the ministers. The consensus of opinion in ministerial circles is that Count opinion in ministerial circles is that Count Seu Eulenberg, who refuses to embroil himself with the Conservative agrarians, must retire from office when the Chancellor will resume the duties of the Presidency of the Prussian Council. The experience of Chancellor von Caprivi is exactly that of Prince Bismarck when the latter, in 1873, ceded the Presidency of the Council to Gen. von Roon.
