

“ untill such Assemblies can be called as “ aforeſaid, all Perſons inhabiting in or “ reſorting to our ſaid Colonies, may con-“ ſide in our royal Protection, for the “ Enjoyment of the Benefit of our Laws
 “ of our Realm of England; for which “ Purpoſe we have given Powers under “ our great Seal to the Governors of our “ ſaid Colonies reſpectively, to erect and “ conſtitute with the Advice of our ſaid
 “ Councils, reſpectively, Courts of Judica“ ture and public Juſtice within our ſaid “ Colonies, for the Hearing and Determin“ ing all Cauſes, as well criminal as ci“ vil, according to Law and Equity, and “ as near as may be agreeable to the Laws “ of England; with Liberty to all Per-“ ſons who may think themſelves aggriev“ ed by the Sentence of ſuch Courts, in “ all civil Caſes, to appeal under the u“ ſual Limitations and Reſtrictions to us
 “ in our Privy Council.

So far the Proclamation; by which it appears very plain that Assemblies and Juries, and the Habeas Corpus Act, were promiſed in due Time, and all other Priviledges as Engliſhmen, immediately.
