WIDEN TERAULAY STREET QUEEN TO DAVENPORT ROAD AT A COST OF $3,500,000

Works Committee Concurred in Commissioner Forman's Recommendation and Proposition Will Be Submitted to Ratepayers in January.

Commissioner Forman's recommendation to widen Teraulay street as a local improvement was adopted by the works committee by a 2 to 1 majority yesterday afternoon.

The commissioner explained that the lands will be benefited according to the assessment for the improvement. "We are not assessing the individual, we are assessing the land, which we may only assess according to its value."

Peter Ryan thought the court of revision had the power to change the assessment made on Teraulay street.

"The court of revision may not reduce the assessment of the city as a course from the sales of the land pay for the improvements."

If you will make a motion to that effect I will support it." put in Controller Hocken, but on the suggestion coming from Commissioner Forman that the city would not dispose of the land within the time limit of seven years, as stipulated by the act, the motion was withdrawn, under protest of Ald. Maguire, who stated that it did not take the Montreal Council seven years to dispose of the land on St. Catherine street, and, therefore, the latter council showed superior business accumen to that which civic efficiency to the city as a council showed superior business accumen to that which civic efficiency to the suggestion coming from Commissioner Forman that the city would not dispose of the land within the time limit of seven years, as stipulated by the act, the motion was withdrawn, under protest of Ald. vision had the power to change the assessment made on Teraulay street.

"The court of revision may not reduce the assessment of the city as a whole, but it can change it, in so much as distributing it," said Commissioner Forman.

Aid. Waniess opined that it was rather shortsighted for millionaires to raise objections to the scheme, especially as it raised the value of their respective properties. "We are not here to make a final settlement of the question," continued he. "We can just make a recommendation, and the ratepayers can make a final settlement."

said Controller Hocken. "We must have it now, while the cost is reasonable. I am firmly convinced that the property will become so valuable that its assessment alone will meet the cost of the extension, and further, the men who pay the frontage tax will be benefited much more than the cost of the tax to them."

Ald. McBride moved an amendment that the question be submitted to the people on Jan. 1 next, which was lost, and on the motion coming from Ald. Wantess, the recommendation favoring the widening of the street to 86 fet. and extending it to Davenport rd. at a cost of $3,500,000, was adopted on the following vote:

"Is it possible for the scheme to be sent on in any other way?" asked Confroller Hocken, "or can we make the recommendation to widen the street or extend it without naming the proportion the city and assessed properties are to bear?"

"No, the city will have to pay two-thirds of the fotal expenditure, and the property owners affected one-third," declared Mr. Forman.
