OCTOBER RASPBERRIES.
People who grumble at our fall weather as cold and uncomfortable compared with the semi-tropical atmosphere in other sections of the North American continent have little to complain of this year, as the air has been comparatively warm thus far and vegetation seems to be taking on new life and springtime verdure. This was rather strikingly brought to the attention of a Times representative when on Saturday he had the pleasure of enjoying a bowl of luscious ripe raspberries picked the day before from a garden on Manawanogish Road, Fairville. In flavor and appearance they seemed quite equal to those enjoyed from the August crop. Occasionally berries have been found in limited quantities out of season but to pick a full dish of raspberries on October 23 is to say the least unusual.

WELL DONE

The result of a bazaar held on Saturday by the girls of the sixth grade of the Fairville Superior school, for the Belgian Relief Fund is a striking evidence of what the school children of Canada can accomplish for the two and a half millions of Belgian children left destitute by the ravages of war. The Duke of Connaught's appeal for these homeless little Belgians found a ready response in the hearts of the little girls who took part. Their enthusiasm was great and their labors whole-hearted. For several days they canvassed the village and its outskirts selling admission tickets for one cent, and succeeded in selling about 1,000.

The bazaar was held in the newly furnished rooms of the school, which were prettily decorated with flags and bunting. Although the weather was extremely unfavorable, the efforts of the children were well repaid. A large number assembled and purchased all the children had for sale in slightly over an hour's time. While there may have been regret that preparations for a larger patronage were not made, yet those who participated were delighted when they learned that the results totalled $28.00.

The little girls who took part are: Edith Mason, Lucy Black, Georgina Matson, Ethel Rose, Helen Stearns, Rita Kelly, Edith Estey, Evelyn Stearns, Rita Wilson, Alberta Nelson, Kathleen Law, Mary Moran, Nellie Bettle, Minnie Reed, Mabel Ryan and Eleanor Campbell.

The children wish to thank Mrs. Farn of the city for her efforts in securing the sale of tickets to the amount of $12.25.

NEW ISOLATION HOSPITAL READY IN ABOUT MONTH

The new Isolation Hospital now being built will be completed in about a month. In fact the building could be used at the present time if emergency were to arise.

The new building, to take the place of the one destroyed by fire recently, is up-to-date in every particular. No points have been spared to make it comfortable, convenient and to meet modern requirements. The children's ward will rank second to none.

It is a two story wooden building, constructed on the site of the old one. The ground floor contains an entrance hall, reception room for doctors, emergency ward, children's ward, lavatory, linen room, serving pantry, living apartments for caretaker, consisting of a living room, three chambers and bath.

The second floor contains a female ward, with a capacity for eight beds, a male ward, containing eight beds also, toilet rooms for male and female wards, nurses' dormitory, with capacity for three nurses, sitting room, bath, also two emergency chambers for physicians.

The heating is both steam and hot water. The hot water system is attached to the attendants' apartments, reception rooms and the toilet rooms on the ground floor, so that in case of emergency heat at a moment's notice is always available. The children's ward is connected with this and if necessary demands it, the whole building can be heated from a 300 gallon vertical steam storage tank, with pressure applied, water is supplied immediately to all the necessary quarters of the hospital. The plumbing and heating are very modern and worked out in plans to meet all possible emergencies. The foundation is of concrete with concrete floors. In the basement of the building a small laundry has been installed. In the rear of the hospital a new barn has been erected, forty-four by twenty-eight feet.

The location of the new hospital is a choice one and the entire building will be a pride to any municipality.

The carpenter work was done by George Lawson, the mason work by James Sproule, the heating and plumbing by W. E. Emmons, the painting and glazing by J. H. Pullen and F. Neil Brodie was the architect.

END ROFRANO TRIAL; ON AGAIN IN 3 HOURS

Unprecedented Plan in New York Murder Case

Two Talsman Excused; One Stricken With Pneumonia and Another Was Needed at Home Because His Wife Was Ill

New York, Oct. 23—The release of one juror for domestic reasons, a rare concession in actions for murder, and a mistrial in the case of Michael A. Rofrano, ex-deputy street cleaning commissioner, charged with having directed the assassination of Michael Galtmar, his political enemy in the second assembly district.

Although criminal procedure in New York State furnished no precedent for such action, the trial was resumed three hours later by re-swearing the ten remaining jurors and by filling the two vacant seats from a special panel. This compromise, which counsel for both sides consented, compels the ten jurors to listen again to all the testimony introduced before the mistrial was declared, and may, the lawyers admitted, make an entirely new question should the case be carried to the court of appeals.

The jurors excused were John E. Hearty, because of illness, and John G. Forster, a cashier for the National Biscuit Company. Mr. Forster asked to be excused because his wife was frail and at home alone with their two children. Ordinarily such a request, coming in the midst of an important trial for murder, and after a great volume of testimony had been introduced, would have received little consideration from the court, and Mr. Forster was his plea only because of the curious situation that had come about by the illness of Mr. Hearty.

The latter's physician announced from the witness chair that his patient had developed pneumonia. Justice Bartow, S. Weeks, who had previously held a conference with Assistant W. Littleton, Rofrano's counsel, thereupon declared a mistrial, on the understanding that counsel for both sides would consent to accept the eleven men remaining in the box and that only one new juror would be selected.

This, however, necessitated the re-swearing of the eleven jurors, and it was when he was asked to take the oath that Mr. Forster made his application to be excused.

"I have tried to do my duty, as a good juror," Mr. Forster said, "but my wife is frail and I am needed at home."

Assistant District Attorney Brothers and Mr. Littleton promptly consented to Mr. Forster's withdrawal.

With the jury again complete, the assistant district attorney at once entered upon the retrial of the case by reading his former address. It is one of the requirements of murder cases that defendants be "confronted" by witnesses, but this technicality having been waived by Rofrano, the testimony will be read to the jury.

It is not called a decisive feature of the operation.

It is planned to drive such a wedge into the German lines that attacks can be made in three directions against the expanded battle front. Ultimately it is hoped to carry these advances so far that a breaking point will result.

The Germans, said General Maurice, may shorten their line before this happens, but such an outcome is always kept in view by the Entente's staff in planning future advances.
