Very large congregations were present at the evening services in Exmouth, Queen Square and Zion churches. LAKE MANITOBA ARRIVES.

The big C. P. R. steamer Lake Manitoba arrived off the island this morning and will come up the harbor this afternoon. The C. P. The death of Judson F. Worden, builder, formerly of St. John, took place last month at Brooklyn, N. Y., of pneumonia, after an illness of four days. This morning they took the genial doctor for a drive, visiting all the points of interest in and about the city.

LICENSES NOW IN LEGAL LIMIT.

Only 75 Saloons This Year—No Extensions.

Saloons Closed on Main, Mill, Sheriff and Britain Streets—New Applications Refused.

At a meeting of the liquor license commissioners on Saturday Dr. A. A. Stockton appeared on behalf of several petitioners. A deputation of ladies from the North and W. C. T. U. were also present. The following petitions were presented:

From the ratpayers of Dufferin ward against the granting of a license in that ward, 127 signatures.

From the residents and neighbors in Dufferin and Lansdowne ward against a license to W. J. Savage or other person in Dufferin ward, seventeen signatures.

From the citizens and neighbors of Sheriff street against the granting of a license to Edgar Graham or other person on that street, fourteen signatures.

From the merchants of Dock street against the granting of two additional licenses in that street, eighteen signatures.

From the officers of Main street Baptist church against granting a license in neighborhood of the church.

Miss Hanselbacher then read a paper dealing with the crime and misery caused by the use of alcoholic liquor, and expressing the hope that the number of licenses would be reduced.

Dr. Stockton pointed out that R. W. Carson, M. P., in Main street, was closer to Elm street school than the law allowed.

H. McKel, as agent for property on Dock street, was heard on behalf of M. J. Nugent, who is now doing business on Union street, and who has leased and fitted up a store on Mill street.

SUNKEN TUG RAISED.

The Tug Leader Which Sank at South Wharf Yesterday Was Raised Uninjured.

The tug Leader, owned by R. W. Williams, sank about daylight yesterday morning at the end of South Market wharf. At the time she was moored close to the wharf and next to her was the Frederick A.

Mr. Williams explains the occurrence by the fact that when the tug Frederick A. moored alongside the Leader the tide was high and her lines, carried to the wharf, were drawn tight. As the tide dropped the Frederick A. was gradually pulled back against the Leader, lying between her and the wharf. The Leader was gradually listed and was soon taking in water over her gunwale. She was found completely submerged about daylight yesterday morning.

When the tide was at its lowest the tug Neptune got a line on the sunken boat and succeeded in pulling her partly into the Old Slip. Later the tug W. H. Murray pulled her further up the slip, where she was pumped out and floated with the tide.

Mr. Williams says that the Leader is uninjured.
