SOLDIERS LEFT THEIR UNIFORMS IN A DITCH

Khaki outfits found in Gilbert's Lane and turned over to police.

With the finding of soldier uniforms in Gilbert's Lane yesterday it looks as if there are at least five men who have deserted from the ranks, some of them from the 69th Battalion, now in the city. While William Gaslin was walking in from Rockwood Park he found the uniforms in a ditch, and it is thought the soldiers, having obtained civilian attire, changed their clothes in the lane on Saturday night, and left the uniforms behind. The list of clothes found includes: Five great coats, one tunic, five belts, seven puttees, and four caps. Mr. Gaslin reported the find to police headquarters and the police took the clothing in charge and in turn reported the matter to the military authorities.

THE 52ND BATTALION HAS REACHED ENGLAND

First Word Came in Cablegram to Mrs. G. H. Todd, on Saturday—All well and had pleasant voyage—An interesting letter from a soldier's wife—Something about the send-off given men in this city.

The Anchor Line steamship Californian, with the 52nd Battalion and the 9th Mounted Rifles, numbering in all about 1,600 officers and men, arrived in Witley, Surrey, England, on Saturday after a quick and uneventful voyage from St. John.

The first word to reach this city of the safe arrival of the soldiers came from Baidamman Kenneth Todd, the son of St. John soldier on that ship. This glad news was received in a cablegram to his mother on Saturday evening, which read as follows:

Mrs. G. H. Todd, Main street, St. John, N. B.,
Arrived safely, Witley, Surrey, England.

(Signed) KENNETH.
Kenneth C. Todd before enlisting as a member of the 52nd Battalion was a draftsman in the employ of F. N. Brodie in this city, and being anxious to do his little bit and get to the front as quickly as possible he obtained a chance to enlist with the 52nd.

The Farewell to St. John.

It was on Tuesday at noon, November 23rd, that the steamship Californian with her decks, lifeboats and rigging swarming with soldiers pulled out from her berth at the Intercolonial terminus and started on her voyage to the old country with sixteen hundred brave soldiers from Canada. Thousands of people lined the wharves and the decks of the ships along the harbor front for the purpose of giving the boys a grand send-off. Bands were on the dock playing lively airs for some time before the ship cast off her lines. The soldiers were certainly a happy lot and presented the appearance of a lot of youngsters going away to a picnic instead of to the battle lines. They sang, they cheered and had plenty of fun with the girls who were present in hundreds to bid them farewell.

When the steam tugs put in an appearance and steamed alongside the big liner it was a sign that the ship was about to start on her voyage. The soldiers broke into cheers which lasted for minutes. Some of the boys well up in signalling, might have been seen in the rigging with a signalling flag sending messages to young ladies on the wharf, and as the young ladies had also made a study of the signalling system they were enabled to keep up a conversation which could only be known to those who knew the code.

Finally the lines were cast off, the whistle of the Californian sounded with three long blasts and this was the signal that the ship was leaving. The 52nd Battalion which was on the pier played "Auld Lang Syne" but the music could hardly be heard so loud was the cheering from the soldiers and the thousands along the waterfront. Steamships, tugs, dredges and factory whistles then took the cue and the noise made in giving the soldiers a send-off could be heard for many miles. The weather was perfectly fine and as the Californian slowly made her way out of the harbor she presented a grand sight.

NO DEFINITE ANNOUNCEMENT YET CONCERNING THE 140TH

No answer yet to the telegram sent by Colonel Fowler to the Militia Department.

Lieutenant Colonel Fowler told The Standard last night that he had not received any reply to the telegram he sent to the Militia Department on Friday, but was expecting an answer at any moment. Most of the over strength of the 140th Battalion are comfortably housed in the buildings on the camp grounds at Sussex, both companies which have gone away, one to Fredericton and the other to Woodstock are considerably over strength and altogether there are only about two or three hundred men under canvas. They are known as the base detail of the 140th. The tents are supplied with stoves and are floored and the men are as comfortable as possible under the circumstances.

Colonel Fowler said there was less sickness among the men in winter quarters. He is hourly expecting word to send the men to St. John to take up quarters in the immigration building, West St. John. Colonel Fowler said that there was absolutely no feeling between the 115th and the 140th. The only reason that the west side buildings were suggested for the 140th was because the quarters at Sand Point are ready for immediate occupation and by the time quarters are required for the 115th the exhibition buildings can be made ready for their accommodation. He also said that there was absolutely no gain for him in the mobilization of the 140th. At the time he asked for the second battalion recruiting was at fever heat and it was only with the idea of securing as many recruits as possible that he undertook to raise the additional unit.

Colonel Fowler was in communication with General Benson, headquarters of the 140th.

Placed with Stay Here.
On the evening before the departure of the troops a healthy looking Irish sergeant of the 52nd called at The Standard office and stated that he had been delegated by the other members of the 52nd to thank the citizens of St. John for the kindness shown the soldiers while they were billeted in this city. He said that although they were all happy to get away and reach the firing line as quickly as possible, they were sorry to leave St. John where the citizens had been so kind to them, everything possible being done to make them comfortable.

That the boys of the 52nd Battalion were greatly pleased with their reception when they arrived here and with the kindness shown them was apparently not only expressed in St. John for they sent to their homes in Upper Canada and in the far west, letters telling their relatives how well they had been treated. As a sample the following letter received by the editor of The Standard on Saturday is self-explanatory:

Kal Ora, Murillo P. O., Ontario.

To the Editor of The Standard, St. John,
Sir—Will you allow me, through the columns of your paper, to thank the people, especially the ladies of St. John, for their kind thoughts and care of the boys of the 52nd Battalion.

My all have gone with that battalion, in my husband and brother, and I have had such bright letters from them all glowing with the goodness of the people down there.

One said: "It has come a bit sooner than we expected and we shall be sorry in lots of ways leaving this place. It's the greatest town I've struck yet. It's got them all beat, and we should have had a nice winter here if we had stayed. Anyway I guess some other lucky beggars will drop in for a good time."

It helps the ones who are left behind some when they know their dear ones are treated so well, as they pass on their way to do their bit to help put down a tyrant and let us live in liberty.

Thanking you for publishing this, I remain, yours truly,
E. M. WHITTAKER.

Official word concerning the arrival of the 52nd came last night in the following dispatch:

THREE MORE STANDARD MEN JOIN COLORS

"Sandy" Thorne, Willard McGinley and Howard Jamieson don the Khaki.

Three more members of The Standard staff have heard the call to arms. This morning Alexander W. Thorne, who has been city editor of this paper since the retirement of Lieut. J. Edgar March, now with the 26th in France, and Willard G. McGinley, who has been a member of the reporting staff for some months, leave for Sussex where they will attend the officers school being conducted there. On qualification they will be appointed to commissions in the 140th battalion. Howard Jamieson, who graduated from High School in the early summer and has since been employed on The Standard news staff, left for Sussex on Friday night, having enlisted in the 140th.

Mr. Thorne is a son of Charles W. Thorne of Rockland Road. He has been engaged in newspaper work in St. John for several years. He is a U. N. B. man and was formerly prominent in athletics. He came to The Standard staff two years ago from Toronto and during his term in this office has proved energetic and capable.

Willard McGinley, the youngest son of Mrs. W. A. McGinley, and is a brother of the editor of The Standard. Previous to joining The Standard staff he was engaged as a road representative for F. E. Holman & Co., and is well known throughout the Maritime Provinces. He has been a valuable reporter for some months.

Howard Jamieson, the "kid" of the trio, is a son of Robert A. Jamieson of North End, and also coming to The Standard has shown aptitude for his work.

Those who remain on The Standard staff extend to their associates the best wishes for success in their military career. With the departure of Messrs. Thorne, McGinley and Jamieson, the number of Standard men who have donned the King's uniform has now reached eleven.

NURSES FROM FRONT TOLD EXPERIENCES

Women's Canadian Club heard interesting addresses on Saturday afternoon.

The Women's Canadian Club met on Saturday afternoon in the schoolroom of St. John's (Stone) church to consider the equipment and management of the convalescent home for returned wounded soldiers. Dr. Thomas Walker said that he would suggest to the ladies of St. John that comfort in the way of furnishings and food would greatly add to the usefulness of the home. There would be plenty of opportunity for personal service.

The president of the club, Mrs. Kohring, thanked Dr. Walker for his interesting description of the work of the institution and assured him that, under his direction the executive of the club had readily accepted the new responsibility. It was unanimously agreed to endorse the action of the committee who had accepted this work, and that committees for equipping the building with comforts should be appointed at once. These committees were accordingly appointed.

Mrs. Allan, wife of Major Allan, sang very acceptably, and Mrs. D. P. Chisholm played pianoforte selections, giving great pleasure to the members. The treasurer reported on the finances of the club since October. Mrs. Powell and Mrs. R. P. D. Trille, laid out the work of the citizens' welcome committee at the wharf for returned soldiers. The president reported on the work done by the club in providing refreshments for the 69th battalion.

An attractive feature of the meeting was two informal addresses by two nursing sisters of the Canadian Army Medical Corps, Miss Tupper and Miss McCullum. The former had served at Salisbury Plains and the latter in France and some weeks in Lamon where she met Rev. Captain G. A. Kohring. Both spoke of the fine spirit and patience in suffering shown by the sick and wounded. These ladies were warmly thanked for their interesting addresses and were presented with flowers on behalf of the club.
