

C O N T E N T S

EXTENT of the reference	p. 1, 2, 3
Principles of law,	4, 5, 6
Political and commercial state of the province under the French and British governments to which the principles are applicable,	8 to 48
What authority is necessary to establish the new laws,	48
Whether a provincial assembly is adviseable, and whether his Majesty, by his own authority, can revoke the commission of the chief justice and judges, and alter the courts of justice once erected, according to the course of the law of England,	49 to 56
State of the courts of judicature, and propositions relating thereto,	57 to 88
Common law of the province, and propositions respecting a middle system,	88 to 114
Concerning the revenue, and his Majesty's personal rights, and regulations respecting the same,	114 to 119
Nature of the religious establishments in the colony: the operation of the treaty of Paris and capitulations, the ecclesiastical laws	